Jobs Bill OKd By Senate

. . . Ford Will Probably Veto It

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ignoring warnings of a probable new veto, the Senate Tuesday approved a $5.3-billion public works jobs bill to replace the one that President Ford rejected earlier this year.

The Senate approved the measure 54 to 28 and sent it to the House.

The action came after Senate Democrats succeeded, on a 48-32 vote, in boosting the price tag of the bill from the $2.5 billion scaled-down version sent to the floor.

This came despite warnings by Republican leaders that the bill is almost certain to be vetoed again.

Ford vetoed the earlier, $6.1 billion measure on Feb. 13 calling it "little more than an election year pork barrel."

The House voted 319 to 98 to override the veto, but the Senate failed to do so by three votes.

The Senate Public Works Committee sent to the floor the trimmed-down measure which chairman Jennings Randolph, D-W.Va., said was designed to meet with Ford's approval.

But Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, led the fight to add to the measure two expensive programs which had been in the vetoed bill but were deleted by the committee.

These included a $1.4 billion revenue sharing program to assist state and local governments whose budgets have been badly eroded because of the recession, and another $1.4 billion in new federal grants for waste treatment plants.

Muskie called it a "comprehensive package" which "represents the best opportunity we have to ease the pain of this recession."

Backers said the full $5.3 billion would only be spent if unemployment reached 9%. At the current jobless level of about 7.5%, they said, the amount actually to be spent would be about $3.9 billion.

This includes about $1 billion for new jobs on public works construction projects in areas of high unemployment. Sponsors said it would produce about 100,000 new construction-related jobs.

Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., said the Senate had turned the bill into a "Christmas tree" by ladening it with the expensive amendments. "I feel certain the President will veto it again," he said.

And Republican Whip Sen. Robert P. Griffin of Michigan called it "a futile political exercise."

Muskie said he is hopeful that next time the Senate can muster the needed two-thirds votes to override the anticipated veto.

He said some adjustments had been made in the revenue sharing part to spread the money out among a greater number of cities instead of just concentrating it in those hardest-hit by the recession.

He said this was done to pick up votes for the next override attempt. But it may have cost him the votes of New York Sens. James Buckley, Con.-R-N.Y., and Jacob Javits, R-N.Y.

They complained that the adjustment had turned the measure into little more than an extension of general revenue sharing. They said that New York would receive $80 million less under the new measure than under the vetoed bill.

Put On Enough Postage

Washington (UPI) — The Postal Service warned Tuesday that federal income tax returns, which must be postmarked by midnight Thursday, will not be delivered at all if they have insufficient postage.

The Postal Service said it no longer tries to collect "postage due" from the addressee of a letter and instead will return it to the sender, and this applies to a federal income tax return.

There likely will be even more delay if the envelope conaining the tax return has both insufficient postage and no return address, the Postal Service said, because it will be sent to a dead letter office.

In another suggestion to taxpayers, the Postal Service said persons depositing returns in mailboxes should check the pickup times posted on each box to insure they will reach a post office by the midnight deadline.

Taxpayers intending to mail their returns at small post offices, such as those in rural areas or branch post offices in cities, should keep in mind that many of them close about 5:30 p.m., the Postal Service said.

Church Outlines Farm Program

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Sweeping through eastern Nebraska by campaign bus, Sen. Frank Church Tuesday outlined a full production farm program.

"We should sell food wherever we can in this hungry world," he told an overflow crowd of 800 at Doane College in Crete.

"America should be the breadbasket of the world, not the cannon factory of the world — as we are becoming."

The Democratic presidential candidate proposed a national farm program to guarantee every farmer "a floor price he can rely on to at least cover his costs of production" in the event of poor market conditions.

Farm production and access to world markets are vital to America's balance of payments, Church said.

Food, Not Guns

The U.S. should sell the Arab nations "food, not weapons," he declared.

Church took his farm message to audiences in Crete, Seward, David City and Wahoo en route to Omaha where he greeted Western Electric workers at their huge Millard plant.

His hair trousled by warm gusts, the Idaho senator spoke on courthouse steps, atop a flatbed truck and in a senior citizens center.

At Seward, in the wake of a light shower, he shook hands in a beauty salon, a hardware store, a film shop and a clothing store, and stepped into the street to greet a motorist who called his name.

Income Tax Mailed

At the Post Office, he mailed his 1975 income tax return, beating the dealine by two days. It included, he told newsmen, a check in excess of $3,000 for taxes owed beyond withholding.

"I have come to Nebraska to get to know you and to tak for your votes," he told a gathering in David City which included a knot of sixth graders.

Church's low-key tour completed a three-day campaign swing into Nebraska where he will face his crucial first primary test on May 11. He'll be back next week for a three-day bus trip through the Platte Valley

Seeking a breakthrough showing in his initial primary outing, Church is budgeting $150,000 or so for his Nebraska campaign, state coordinator Don Geis of Lincoln said during a sidewalk interview in Seward.

Still unbeaten before his first contest, Church laughingly told Doane students and guests: "I hope you'll keep my record clean."

'Entrapment' Charged

In other farm remarks, he accused the Ford administration of "entrapment" in urging farmers to engage in full production, then imposing export controls.

Church said the U.S. should "apply the same hygenic standards" to foreign imports as it does to domestic production of meat products.

And he called for estate tax reforms to allow larger exemptions for small farms and businesses.

Finally, he suggested, it might be a good idea to name a farmer as the next secretary of agriculture.

Church fielded questions all along his route.

In David City, he told one man that he does not believe production of the B-1 bomber is justified "in view of its price."

Bomber Outdated

Continuing development of cruise missiles and other weaponry makes the new bomber, urgently sought by the Strategic Air Command, headquartered near Omaha, increasingly obsolete, he suggested

In Wahoo, he told a questioner that location of the proposed solar energy research institute at nearby Mead (as proposed by Nebraskans) would "make a lot of sense."

If he were president, he said, he would be "mindful of this location" and its four-season climatic conditions as "a natural for such experimentation."

Standing atop a flatbed truck with his wife, Bethune, and eldest son, Forrest, Church fielded one question which he particularly liked.

"Who's your running mate?" one questioner looked up and asked.

"Thank you for your expression of confidence," the senator replied.

Peery's Girlfriend Says .22-Caliber Gun Vanished

By WES ALBERS
Star Staff Writer

Wesley Peery's girlfriend testified Tuesday that a .22-caliber gun kept in an apartment she shared with Peery disappeared shortly before Mrs. Marianne Mitzner's death.

Later, police found coins like those taken from the Mitzner Rare Coin Shop, 6106 Havelock Ave., in her apartment closet, she said.

Mary Blazek, 36, 6518 Platte, was one of seven witnesses to testify Tuesday as County Atty. Ron Lahners tried to link Peery, 51, with coins, rags and ropes involved in the coin shop murder.

Peery is charged with first degree murder and robbery in the Jun 6 shooting death of Mrs. Mitzner. About $20,000 in coins and jewelry was taken from the store.

Kept Under Mattress

Mrs. Blazek said she bought the gun without Peery's knowledge on May 23, 1975, to protect herself against her husband, who had threatened her. She kept it under the mattress of her bed in an apartment at 2744 N. 48th St.

About a week later, the gun was gone, Blazek said.

On June 26, police searched the apartment, found a box in the closet, opened it with a key from Peery's key ring and found quarters in several small cans, she said. Later, quarters were found in the bottom of a purse she kept in the closet, Blazek said.

She said she didn't put them there.

No Elaboration

Mr. Blazek said Police Detective Ivan Waples tried to get her to change statements she made in depositions March 29. Defense attorneys didn't ask her to elaborate.

A Lincoln boy, Mark Mercier of 3316 R St., testified that Peery changed a dollar for him on the Nebraska Wesleyan University campus after the murder, giving him four quarters similar to those taken from the coin shop.

Orville Reilly, 325 N. 33rd St., who worked with Peery as a custodian at NWU, corroborated the boy's story but wasn't able to identify Peery, who was sitting about 20 feet from him in the courtroom.

When Lahners asked for the routine identification, Reilly slowly scanned the courtroom —including the jury — and said he didn't see Peery.

Ropes, Rags Found

Detective Eugene Van Butsel testified that he found ropes and rags like those used in the shooting in an NWU boiler plant storage room. He said he observed Peery working in the boiler plant on two occasions.

Robert Schoonover, 1973 Harwood, owner of Action Locksmiths, a store about 1½ blocks away from the coin shop, said Peery told him June 9 that he had come to the store about 8:15 a.m. June 6.

The store didn't open until 9:15 a.m. that day, Schoonover said, but a lock like those Peery brought to have repaired for NWU was found in the store shortly after 11 a.m that day.

Mrs. Mitzner was shot that morning.

Falling Wall Injures 7 At Gering

Gering (AP) — Seven men were injured, one of them critically, when a newly constructed concrete block wall collapsed at the Lockwood Corp. plant here Tuesday afternoon.

Listed in critical condition in a Scottsbluff hospital was Raymond W. Nation, 36, of Gering.

Nation was one of eight men who were standing near the wall when it gave way.

Scotts Bluff County officials said Nation suffered head and chest injuries, and that he was being treated in the hospital's intensive care unit.

Injured List

Others injured in the mishap and their conditions included:

Kerry R. Dunham, 18, rural Gering, facial cuts, satisfactory condition, Ricky D. Nation, 20, Scottsbluff, unknown injuries, satisfactory condition; Vern Reynoldsen, 19, Torrington, Wyo. minor cuts, treated and released, Carl Ogg, 50, Scottsbluff, broken ankle and cuts, satisfactory condition, and Ronald Hornstein, 34, rural Morrill, facial cuts, satisfactory

The seventh man injured was not identified, but officials said he suffered only minor leg injuries.

All of those injured were construction workers who had been working on the wall, with the exception of Ogg, who works for Lockwood, and happened to be walking by the wall when it fell.

Built 4 Days Ago

The wall, which was about 80 feet long and about 14 feet tall, was built only four days ago. It was part of an addition to office space at the plant.

Officials said the wall had been braced, but that the braces were removed about two hours before the collapse.

Sheriff David Schleve said he will not ask the Occupational Safety and Health Administration to look into the accident, but that he will send them a copy of his report.

Patty's Lung Collapses

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Patricia Hearst, the newspaper heiress convicted of joining her kidnapers in crime, has a collapsed lung, authorities said Tuesday night.

Miss Hearst was reported in good condition after undergoing minor surgery at 8 30 p.m. CST Tuesday, San Mateo County Undersheriff Harold Barker said

He did not say where the surgery on Miss Hearst, convicted last month of bank robbery, was done.

City Councilman In Baltimore Shot

BALTIMORE (AP) — A man who went to city offices complaining he had been forced to move from his home killed a city councilman and wounded three other persons Tuesday, authorities said.

The wounded included a second city councilman, a policeman and the appointments secretary to Mayor William D. Schaefer. The councilman and appointments secretary were listed in critical condition.

A man identified as Charles Hopkins, 35, was shot by police and apprehended after the shootings. He was listed in critical condition at University Hospital, a hospital spokesman said.

Larry Leason, a police spokesman, said Hopkins would be charged with homicide when he is able to leave the hospital.

Authorities said Hopkins was once convicted of pulling down and burning an American flag on a downtown monument to the War of 1812 after he was "unable to find a sympathetic ear at City Hall" for his problems with a restaurant lease.

Two city officials said a man fitting Hopkins' description had barged into a meeting at Baltimore's temporary City Hall on Monday and complained that authorities had forced him from his home.

"It was the same guy," said Councilman Joseph Curran

Authorities said the man returned Tuesday and went on the shooting spree in the seventh-floor outer office of the mayor and in other offices on the sixth and seventh floors

A hospital spokesman identified the dead man as Dominic Leone, who died of gunshot wounds to the abdomen and chest some 15 minutes after the shooting The wounded were identified as Councilman Carroll Fitzgerald, Kathleen Nolan, the appointments secretary, and policeman William Gaither

Fitzgerald was shot in the abdomen and Mrs. Nolan in the chest. Gaither was in fair condition with a gunshot wound of the leg.

Police spokesman Mike Bass said the gunman reportedly went to the mayor's office to see Schaefer but was told an aide, apparently Mrs. Nolan, would help him. Taken to a side office, he shot Mrs. Nolan.

The mayor said he saw the gunman in the outer office. "I saw him, yeah, I saw him," he said later outside the building housing city offices while Baltimore's century-old City Hall is renovated.

The gunman then went to council offices and said he wanted to see Leone, police said. They said Fitzgerald appeared in the reception area and was shot at but missed. After hearing the shot, Leone came into the reception area and was shot, police said

Fitzgerald was then taken up the stairs by the gunman to the seventh floor where, Bass said, at least four policemen encountered the two men. All they could see was Fitzgerald with his hands above his head, shouting: "He's got a gun on me, get back."

The suspect then took Fitzgerald into an office, Bass said. Police heard a shot and stormed the door where Gaither was wounded before police returned the fire and shot the gunman, Bass said.

Conferees Come Up With Campaign Finance Accord

WASHINGTON (AP) — A compromise campaign finance bill was fashioned by Senate-House conferees Tuesday, but whether it will be acceptable to President Ford is in doubt

"The bill is still subject to considerable risk of a veto," said Senate Republican leader Hugh Scott, a member of the conference committee

The legislation would restructure the Federal Election Commission in compliance with a Supreme Court decision, but it also makes many other changes in a 1974 law governing the financing of federal election campaigns

Ford has asked for a simple restructuring of the commission, leaving consideration of other changes until after this year's elections

Until the measure becomes law, the FEC will be unable to resume dispensing federal subsidies to help finance the campaigns of presidential candidates. It is uncertain when this will occur

Under the 1974 law, presidential candidates are entitled to $1 in tax funds for each dollar they raise in private contributions of $250 or less, once they have obtained donations of $100,000.

The commission had approved payments of over $12 million before this and most of its other powers to carry out the 1974 law were cut off March 22 That was the deadline set by the Supreme Court for Congress to pass legislation providing for the appointment of the FEC members by the President

House To Consider Gun Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Judiciary Committee on Tuesday approved a controversial bill designed to outlaw the manufacture of handguns known as "Saturday Night Specials" and set mandatory jail sentences for persons convicted of using a pistol to commit a crime

The 20-12 vote set in motion the procedure for the first House consideration of restrictive firearms legislation since passage of the 1968 Gun Control Act

The vote followed the committee's defeat last month of a more restrictive gun control bill

The new version would increase license fees for wholesale and retail gun dealers and require pistol purchasers to wait 14 days before taking possession of their handgun.

The legislation does not affect any handgun already in private ownership.

The Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms has estimated that about 50% of all handguns made in the United States in 1975 would fall in the category of cheaply made Saturday Night Specials

Judiciary Committee chairman Peter W Rodino Jr said he had been assured by some House Republicans that they would work with Democrats to pass the bill

'U.S. Must Stay Strong'

Washington (UPI) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee Tuesday unanimously approved a resolution declaring continued U S military strength must remain the basic premise in any effort to relax tensions with the Soviet Union

Recognizing the United States and the Soviet Union have many competitive and conflicting interests,' the resolution said, "we believe nevertheless, that it is in the interest of both countries to regulate this competition and these conflicts so that they do not lead to war "

But, it said, "The basic premise of the U S approach to this relationship is that the United States must remain unchallengeably strong militarily, both to ensure U S security and to contribute to the security of our friends and allies abroad "

"This military strength must include a strategic capability which is fully sufficient to deter any Soviet attack on the United States or its allies, and which leaves no room for misperception by the Soviet Union of our readiness and willingness to defend our vital interests and allies,' the resolution said

Paris — The French government yielded Tuesday to the combined pressure from students and teachers and in effect renounced its plans for a controversial university reform

U.S. Wants Ban

Geneva — The United States called Tuesday for a ban on the production of lethal chemical weapons and a reduction of existing stockpiles of these weapons as a first step toward their elimination from world arsenals

'Busing Efforts Work'

Washington — A social research agency reported Tuesday that despite the controversies over busing and other school desegregation efforts, such efforts are much more successful and much less disruptive than "conventional wisdom" indicates "The South's report card in school desegregation is better than the North's but by no means outstanding," the Southern Regional Council said in its report

Oil Firms Paid Italians

London — Two major European oil companies, Royal Dutch Shell and British Petroleum, admitted Tuesday making contributions to political parties in Italy's coalition government Shell said it had paid the Italian parties about $6 million over a five-year period from 1969 through 1973 British Petroleum, which is 68% owned by the British government, said its payments in Italy over the same period totaled $1 92 million

Charges Dismissed

New York — The New York State Assembly majority leader, Albert H Blumenthal, won the dismissal of all charges in a perjury and bribery indictment stemming from his relationship with Bernard Bergman, the nursing-home promoter The opinion of State Supreme Court Justice Aloysius J Melia was scathingly critical of Charles J Hynes, the special state prosecutor who he said had unduly coerced the grand jury

Politico Takes On Law

Abe Staging Sit-In?

No, and it's a good thing he doesn't have to go anywhere, because San Francisco s public transportation workers are in the third week of a strike that has idled trolleys, cable cars and buses Strikers are picketing all city buildings, and this statue, outside City Hall, became the proud owner of a sign after a picketer apparently got tired of carrying it

Quadriplegic Wins OK To Keep Her Baby

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Celestine Tate, an unwed quadriplegic who uses her tongue and teeth to diaper, dress and feed her 5-month-old daughter, won court permission Tuesday to keep the child.

Common Pleas Court Judge Edward B. Rosenberg ruled that the 20-year-old mother had neither neglected nor deprived her daughter, Niya, and that the baby should remain in her care.

"I'm very happy," Miss Tate told a reporter after the decision. "I'm going to work out a beautiful life for me and the baby "

The judge also granted a petition from Miss Tate's maternal great-grandparents, with whom she lives, that they be named joint and supplementary custodians of the youngster

Miss Tate was born with deformed arms and legs, the result of a disease called arthrogryposis multiplex congenitalness. This condition prevents her from using her arms and legs, and she has spent most of her life lying flat on her abdomen.

She can neither crawl nor walk, and must be carried on a litter or in someone's arms

The case originally came before the city's family court on a complaint by the welfare department that the infant was deprived and that Miss Tate was physically incapable of caring for the child

This complaint was withdrawn a month ago, but the case remained before the court on the custody petition of the great-grandparents

During the closed hearing, Miss Tate demonstrated her ability to change Niya's diaper with her tongue and teeth.

Miss Tate has declined to comment on the child's father.

A Product Of Neglect

Reports of unsanitary conditions in the kitchens of the Nebraska penitentiary and reformatory in Lincoln are close to scandalous.

At least since 1968, apparently, the kitchens have operated in violation of sanitation guidelines with the knowledge of prison and health officials. Such health hazards would put private restaurants out of business, one State Health Department official said.

On some inspections, the kitchens at the penal complex have received well over 100 demerits while 31 to 40 demerits indicate bare compliance with minimum department standards. Inspection reports list structural and equipment deficiencies, the presence of insect and rodent filth, lack of proper cleaning procedures and sloppy personal hygiene practices among the kitchen staffs. Health inspectors have issued reports on their findings and have urged voluntary compliance but until recently the corrections department apparently did not see fit to act. A major cleanup in the kitchens of the old facilities is now underway — some eight years after reports showed serious violation of sanitation guidelines.

To the extent that irreparable structural deficiencies have caused sanitation problems, correctional officials can hardly be blamed. There is just so much that can be expected of the ancient penal facilities.

But coolers, washers, food dispensers and other equipment can be kept in proper working order or their replacement can be requested and even old kitchens can be kept free of litter and spilled food and could be kept cleaner than the reports would indicate. It should be a relatively simple matter, too, to require kitchen staffs to wear clean uniforms and observe a no-smoking rule in the food service area.

Not too long ago, fire inspectors found serious deficiencies in the two facilities which should have shut them down had they been housing for anyone but prisoners. The fire hazard reports probably played a part in final legislative agreement on the construction of two new reformatories. Remodeling and new construction at the penitentiary are in the planning stages.

But there really can be no excuse (even ancient facilities) for apparently ignoring continued reports of unsanitary conditions over an eight-year period. It indicates — along with apathy on the part of those who control the budgets — a particularly distressing insensitivity on the part of officials responsible for the custody of inmates. Those people turned over by the justice system to the custody of the state are owed at the very least, in a supposedly enlightened age, an environment free of health and safety hazards.

Reportedly the Nebraska Civil Liberties Union will file a lawsuit in district court this week on behalf of inmates to seek compliance with sanitation guidelines.

It is hoped that those who run the prisons can get them cleaned up without having to be told to do so by the courts and, further, that full attention in the future will be devoted to complying as fully as possible with sanitation guidelines despite having to overcome obstacles imposed by the long-term neglect of those who control the purse-strings.

Time For Evaluation

An interesting proposal to measure the progress of desegregation was offered by Sen. Frank Church, Democratic presidential hopeful on a campaign tour of eastern Nebraska this week.

If elected president, Church said in a meeting with Lincoln Star staff members, he would appoint a White House commission to study whether recent court orders implementing school desegregation are helping or hurting the objective of racial integration.

"We need to know whether the application of these court decisions is accomplishing the objectives or having the opposite effect," Church said. The presidential commission, Church said, could study the issue to see if the implementation orders from lower federal courts, which sometimes include orders for busing, are "making for less real integration" and thus not meeting the desired goal set out in the U.S. Supreme Court's decision in the school integration case over 20 years ago, and the commission should also try to determine whether court orders are "improving overall educational standards" or not.

Some kind of objective accounting of the progress of race relations during the span of 22 years since the Brown decision — a period in which part of the nation has courageously tried to turn its back on the dual system, in which cities have burned, black leaders martyred, historic civil rights legislation passed and in which a reaction against busing has set in — is in order. Perhaps there is no way to assess the entire range of race relations in substantive terms. Perhaps there is no way to cut through the rhetoric, passions, distrust and natural prejudices still existing to statistically analyze with any degree of accuracy whether or not minorities are anywhere nearer to equality.

But a thoughtful look at the results of court-ordered desegregation might be a start and it might reveal something of value.

Point of View

Contributions to this space from readers are welcome and will appear periodically as a special feature of our editorial page. Length of article should not exceed 800 words and publications must include the writer's name. Submit articles to "Point of View," The Lincoln Star, 926 P St., Lincoln, Nebr.

By GEORGE MEREDITH
Milford, Nebr.

The Star's lead editorial of March 26 was based on a comment made by Senator Humphrey earlier in the week and quoted by The Star as follows: "Candidates who make an attack on Washington are making an attack on government programs, on the poor, on blacks, on minorities, on the cities. It's a disguised new form of racism, a disguised new form of conservatism." The Star said of that comment: "The statement by Humphrey rings of the truth . . ."

If presidential candidates who criticize Washington are considered by The Star as racists, then it can fairly be understood that those who are substantially in agreement with those candidates are also considered racists. The connection is too direct to be taken as an inference; it must be understood as an accusation.

There are many serious-minded people whose political convictions would classify them as conservatives. They have long been in the forefront of Washington's critics, but now they are far from being alone. Increasingly, the discontent with Washington is coming from persons on every side of the political spectrum. All these people have now been put on notice that if they have the nerve to express their views, they run the risk of being branded by The Star not only as racists but also as lackeys of the rich and subverters of the people's efforts at self-government.

If The Star refuses to recognize criticism of Washington as part of the people's efforts at self-government, then it must seriously be asked just who is engaging in the subversion.

It is precisely the inability of the people to convince Washington that it is their servant, not their master, who has aggravated the people. It is not true that Washington is what the people have made it. Too often, too many people have come up square against the fact that their efforts at self-government have been subverted by an entrenched bureaucracy totally unresponsive to the public and intent only on accumulating more power to itself. If nothing else, that fact should have been established by the recent congressional investigations into federal agencies. And, so far only the tip of the iceberg has been exposed.

We're supposed to be a nation ruled by laws, not men. Increasingly we're becoming a nation ruled by regulations formulated by men answerable to no one. Theoretically designed to create equality in life, these regulations have come to be used as tools of harassment against citizens and local governments, with the purpose to assert control over every single aspect of the people's private lives.

It is not true, either, that critics of Washington believe government should serve only those who don't need it. It is easy to yield, as The Star has done, to the temptation of advocating class war. The action of taking from the rich and giving to the poor has often been popular, just as it is now. The problem is that the more that is taken from "the rich," the less there seems to be for everyone.

The investment of increasing billions in social programs has not been justified by the returns. The law of diminishing returns has long since set in, compounded by too many funds being siphoned off into bureaucratic overhead. This disparity between return and investment is one of the chief complaints the people have with Washington. It is a complaint not confined only to wealthy persons. When it comes to taxation, the definition of "the rich" includes just about everyone above the poverty line.

As an editorial, The Star's piece is a fine collection of insult, smear and moral intimidation, which are hardly the elements required for a serious and constructive political debate. Perhaps what has upset Senator Humphrey and The Star so much is that Washington's critics have been proven so resoundingly correct in so many instances. Criticisms of Washington can no longer be dismissed with ridicule, smears and rabble-rousing rhetoric, as they could when there were only a few conservatives around to be sneered at.

It is not necessary to abjectly accept The Star's political values in order to have a decent respect for the value of human beings. A growing number of people believe that the way Washington can best help people is to leave them alone. They have a very strong case to make. They deserve a decent hearing and a reasoned, respectful answer.

The Star owes the American people a public apology for its behavior (as does Senator Humphrey). Insults and smears are not acceptable behavior in a civilized society, even in the rough-and-tumble of politics.

In any event, the debate will go on. Hopefully, it will be conducted in a more constructive manner than it was in the sixties, and that along the way a few answers will be found. If The Star desires a constructive part in that debate, its apology will not be long in coming.

JAMES RESTON

Maybe Our Way Is Not So Bad

WASHINGTON — The United States is not the only country in the world trying to pick new political leaders these days, and if it crosses your mind occasionally that the American primary election system is not exactly ideal, you might consider some of these other systems for passing power from one person or faction to another.

Britain chose a new prime minister the other day, "Sunny Jim" Callaghan. Good sound character, too. They did it by a majority vote of the Labor members of the House of Commons, as usual. This procedure has served them well. It saves time, money, and argument by the simple device of eliminating the British people from having any voice in the matter.

It also assures that the new British prime minister will be chosen by, and from the established "insiders" of the Parliament, without any challenge or interference from "outsiders." No Jimmy Carters need apply.

China uses the Spiro Agnew system, which has been on display in recent days. They canonize their leader for life but back him up with disposable prime ministers. By ways mysterious, the Communist Party's Central Committee carefully selects Mr. No. 2, and then denounces him as a counter-revolutionary or Capitalist Roader, and tosses him to the photographers.

This was what happened to Liu Shao-Chi, Lin Piao, and most recently, Teng Hsiao-Ping. All were hailed at one time or another as the heir apparent to Chairman Mao and then dismissed, often before the world had become accustomed to their names.

There was apparently something of a public protest against this system the other day when tens of thousands of people gathered in Peking's Tien An Men Square, but when the votes were counted, the army had won and China had a new No. 2 — Hua Kuo-Feng.

Chiang Kai-shek in the Republic of China and Generalissimo Francisco Franco in Spain dealt with the succession problem simply by writing it into their wills. Franco bequeathed the monarchy to Spain, and Chiang turned over the government in Taipei and the rest of his property to his son.

With techniques of this sort available, political leaders and commentators in other countries are naturally puzzled by the American system. They can't get the principles of our parties straight, which is scarcely surprising since we can't, either. They are as puzzled by the names of our candidates as we are by the cast of characters in China.

How, they ask, can you run a country with people named Jerry and Ronnie, Mo and Scoop, Hubert and Wee Jimmy? All this running around and fussing over Henry — they don't get it.

Other countries are much tidier and quicker about these things. Mrs. Gandhi in India simplifies the problem of too many candidates and too much gabble in the press by putting her potential opponents and critical editors in jail.

"We should be vigilant," she said last Dec. 27, "to see that our march to progress is not hampered in the name of the constitution."

Argentina assured political continuity lately in a manner worthy of the machismo traditions of Latin America. It has a constitution copied in 1853 from the Constitution of the United States (still theoretically in force), but when President Maria Estel de Peron rejected a suggestion that she get lost, the army simply picked up that stubborn lady at her palace and whirled her away in a helicopter to what was called a safe destination. Presto! New president, name of Jorge R. Videla, army commander.

The ingenuity of politicians for changing governments is almost unlimited. Murder in Chile. Civil war in Angola. "Direct action" or military invasion by the Red army in Czechoslovakia. Musical chairs in Italy.

In the light of all this, our own political road show almost makes sense. With a few exceptions, it has been orderly and sometimes even amiable. The people on the whole have rejected extreme solutions and voted for moderation. They have opened the way to new candidates and greased George Wallace's treadmill to oblivion.

Before it all started, there was some anxiety that the primaries might loiter down into ugly recriminations about Watergate and Vietnam, but those two sad chapters in our story have scarcely been mentioned.

No doubt the campaign will lose altitude as it picks up speed, until the Democrats get to Madison Square Garden for their all-in wrestling match, but there's something to be said for the old fog yet — especially when you think of all those other sytsems.

One Vote For Cosell—To Canada

The Scavengers

Exeter, Neb.

We would like to "thank" the business people and opportunists who are selling or have sold portable generators for their "help" in time of disaster.

To some of you business people — and I don't mean all of you — we have seen you raise prices two and three times the original prices. Some retail prices have been outlandish. Being among the few, we purchased ours the first day after the storm, luckily. This was before there was time to mark up the price. After the needs were known, it didn't take long. You raised prices, and lined your pockets with a really good profit.

Then the teamsters went on strike for more money and some people who had generators on order now find them sitting on trucks or docks, with no way of having them delivered or getting them.

Here again, a majority of people have to go without in a time of disaster, so those who have already can have more.

By contrast, we have seen farmers, electricians and townspeople with generators going from one place to another, trying to help neighbors get water, whether it be for the family or livestock. They charge up the freezer and hope the contents don't spoil and go to the next, knowing that a lot of people will still be without lights, heat and restrooms.

I would like to remind those who were greedy enough to line their pockets from our disaster that vultures also live off the disaster of others — except they are one of God's more simple creatures.

What's your excuse?

A Valuable Lesson

Martell, Neb.

The freak storm that knocked out over 4,300 square miles of electric power lines last week is just another grim reminder of how fragile our sources of power are today.

The men from the Rural Electric System are to be commended for the valiant way they have been trying to replace the power system that took over 30 years to build. But even with their best efforts, it will take many months to restore such a massive system.

This incident may be a blessing in disguise, if we learn something from it. Most people have gotten rid of their alternative sources of energy in the home and on the farm. Today we are almost totally dependent on power's coming from outside our homes and communities via electric lines, gas pipes or trucks. If any part of the system breaks down, we could be without resources for a long time. For example; I counted the essential things in my home that would not operate without electricity — the oil furnace, kitchen range, deep-freeze, water pump, lights and a long list of appliances.

This power failure has also reminded us that we have only about 10 to 40 years of natural gas, oil and uranium fuel left. Fossil fuel is now supplying 94% of our national energy requirements and about half of our oil is imported from abroad. If it took 30 years to build the rural electric system, how long will it take us to build an effective system for using solar and wind energy (and developing alcohol and hydrogen fuel) that must replace the fuels that are running out?

A number of us who are concerned have formed a non-profit citizens' organization called "Midwest Energy Alternatives." We are locating ways to make use of non-polluting and inexhaustible sources of energy right now — energy that will go around when we have run out of oil, gas, coal and uranium.

Anyone wanting more information should drop a card to Box 83202, Lincoln, Neb. 68501. We believe that the security and health of our nation depend on all of us becoming more energy-independent now.

It is frightening to imagine what a major natural disaster would do if it came in the dead of winter.

I would like to thank the NFL for finally getting this college player draft under way, and congratulate the Nebraska players picked in the draft.

We wish to thank The Star for the thorough coverage of the "Greek Week" activities sponsored this past week by the Interfraternity Council and Panhellenic Association at UN-L.

On Basis Of Merit

Lincoln, Neb.

I would like to comment on an article which appeared in the Lincoln Star on Wednesday, April 7, entitled "NETV Commissioners Score Fiscal Analyst". In this article Commissioners Steven B. Sample and Jack McBride complain about the policy directives included in a bill which granted a 6% across the board and 1% merit increase for state employes. Jack McBride was quoted as follows: "In denying that management tool," McBride said, "it gives quite a sense of security for a worker in any (state) agency who knows he can work little or lot and still get more pay." This is a totally erroneous statement and at the very least shows lack of knowledge of what the bill states and lack of familiarity with the State Personnel System Rules and Regulations.

The bill provides that no state employe on probation shall receive a salary increase. This coincides with the State Personnel Rules and Regulations which provide that an employe who is not performing up to an average ability or is performing in an unsatisfactory manner shall be placed on probation or terminated. If Jack McBride thinks that some employes are performing in an unsatisfactory manner, it is his responsibility or the supervisors' responsibility to place these people on probation to deny them the 6% pay increase which they do not deserve. If he is shirking this duty or his supervisors are shirking this duty, they are the ones who should be placed on probation because they are the ones who are not performing their duty for the State of Nebraska. If they are afraid to tell an employe he is doing an unsatisfactory job, possibly they, as supervisors, deserve to be fired.

State employes have been called lazy by the public, by the administration, and by some members of the Legislature too many times to let this issue pass without comment. Maybe it is time that the supervisors take some of the responsibility that is rightfully theirs in conducting their duties. Rank-and-file state employes cannot fire other state employes. Only their supervisors or the appointing authority who is administrative head can do this. If Jack McBride thinks that the Nebraska Educational Television Commission has unsatisfactory employes, it is his responsibility to weed them out — not give them pay increases. I will guarantee that our association will not fight for a poor employe. We are dedicated to the betterment of public service within the State of Nebraska, and if supervisors are dedicated to the detriment of public service, then I wholeheartedly endorse their termination.

A Product Of Neglect

Reports of unsanitary conditions in the kitchens of the Nebraska penitentiary and reformatory in Lincoln are close to scandalous.

At least since 1968, apparently, the kitchens have operated in violation of sanitation guidelines with the knowledge of prison and health officials. Such health hazards would put private restaurants out of business, one State Health Department official said.

On some inspections, the kitchens at the penal complex have received well over 100 demerits while 31 to 40 demerits indicate bare compliance with minimum department standards. Inspection reports list structural and equipment deficiencies, the presence of insect and rodent filth, lack of proper cleaning procedures and sloppy personal hygiene practices among the kitchen staffs. Health inspectors have issued reports on their findings and have urged voluntary compliance but until recently the corrections department apparently did not see fit to act. A major cleanup in the kitchens of the old facilities is now underway — some eight years after reports showed serious violation of sanitation guidelines.

To the extent that irreparable structural deficiencies have caused sanitation problems, correctional officials can hardly be blamed There is just so much that can be expected of the ancient penal facilities.

But coolers, washers, food dispensers and other equipment can be kept in proper working order or their replacement can be requested and even old kitchens can be kept free of litter and spilled food and could be kept cleaner than the reports would indicate. It should be a relatively simple matter, too, to require kitchen staffs to wear clean uniforms and observe a no-smoking rule in the food service area.

Not too long ago, fire inspectors found serious deficiencies in the two facilities which should have shut them down had they been housing for anyone but prisoners. The fire hazard reports probably played a part in final legislative agreement on the construction of two new reformatories. Remodeling and new construction at the penitentiary are in the planning stages.

But there really can be no excuse (even ancient facilities) for apparently ignoring continued reports of unsanitary conditions over an eight-year period. It indicates — along with apathy on the part of those who control the budgets — a particularly distressing insensitivity on the part of officials responsible for the custody of inmates. Those people turned over by the justice system to the custody of the state are owed at the very least, in a supposedly enlightened age, an environment free of health and safety hazards.

Reportedly the Nebraska Civil Liberties Union will file a lawsuit in district court this week on behalf of inmates to seek compliance with sanitation guidelines.

It is hoped that those who run the prisons can get them cleaned up without having to be told to do so by the courts and, further, that full attention in the future will be devoted to complying as fully as possible with sanitation guidelines despite having to overcome obstacles imposed by the long-term neglect of those who control the purse-strings.

Time For Evaluation

An interesting proposal to measure the progress of desegregation was offered by Sen. Frank Church, Democratic presidential hopeful on a campaign tour of eastern Nebraska this week.

If elected president, Church said in a meeting with Lincoln Star staff members, he would appoint a White House commission to study whether recent court orders implementing school desegregation are helping or hurting the objective of racial integration.

"We need to know whether the application of these court decisions is accomplishing the objectives or having the opposite effect," Church said. The presidential commission, Church said, could study the issue to see if the implementation orders from lower federal courts, which sometimes include orders for busing, are "making for less real integration" and thus not meeting the desired goal set out in the U.S. Supreme Court's decision in the school integration case over 20 years ago, and the commission should also try to determine whether court orders are "improving overall educational standards" or not.

Some kind of objective accounting of the progress of race relations during the span of 22 years since the Brown decision — a period in which part of the nation has courageously tried to turn its back on the dual system, in which cities have burned, black leaders martyred, historic civil rights legislation passed and in which a reaction against busing has set in — is in order. Perhaps there is no way to assess the entire range of race relations in substantive terms. Perhaps there is no way to cut through the rhetoric, passions, distrust and natural prejudices still existing to statistically analyze with any degree of accuracy whether or not minorities are anywhere nearer to equality.

But a thoughtful look at the results of court-ordered desegregation might be a start and it might reveal something of value.

Point of View

Contributions to this space from readers are welcome and will appear periodically as a special feature of our editorial page. Length of article should not exceed 800 words and publications must include the writer's name. Submit articles to "Point of View," The Lincoln Star, 926 P St., Lincoln, Nebr.

By GEORGE MEREDITH
Milford, Nebr.

The Star's lead editorial of March 26 was based on a comment made by Senator Humphrey earlier in the week and quoted by The Star as follows "Candidates who make an attack on Washington are making an attack on government programs, on the poor, on blacks, on minorities, on the cities. It's a disguised new form of racism, a disguised new form of conservatism." The Star said of that comment: "The statement by Humphrey rings of the truth . . ."

If presidential candidates who criticize Washington are considered by The Star as racists, then it can fairly be understood that those who are substantially in agreement with those candidates are also considered racists. The connection is too direct to be taken as an inference; it must be understood as an accusation.

There are many serious-minded people whose political convictions would classify them as conservatives. They have long been in the forefront of Washington's critics, but now they are far from being alone. Increasingly, the discontent with Washington is coming from persons on every side of the political spectrum. All these people have now been put on notice that if they have the nerve to express their views, they run the risk of being branded by The Star not only as racists but also as lackeys of the rich and subverters of the people's efforts at self-government.

If The Star refuses to recognize criticism of Washington as part of the people's efforts at self-government, then it must seriously be asked just who is engaging in the subversion

It is precisely the inability of the people to convince Washington that it is their servant, not their master, who has aggravated the people. It is not true that Washington is what the people have made it. Too often, too many people have come up square against the fact that their efforts at self-government have been subverted by an entrenched bureaucracy totally unresponsive to the public and intent only on accumulating more power to itself. If nothing else, that fact should have been established by the recent congressional investigations into federal agencies. And, so far only the tip of the iceberg has been exposed.

We're supposed to be a nation ruled by laws, not men Increasingly we're becoming a nation ruled by regulations formulated by men answerable to no one Theoretically designed to create equality in life, these regulations have come to be used as tools of harassment against citizens and local governments, with the purpose to assert control over every single aspect of the people's private lives.

It is not true, either, that critics of Washington believe government should serve only those who don't need it. It is easy to yield, as The Star has done, to the temptation of advocating class war. The action of taking from the rich and giving to the poor has often been popular, just as it is now. The problem is that the more that is taken from "the rich," the less there seems to be for everyone.

The investment of increasing billions in social programs has not been justified by the returns The law of diminishing returns has long since set in, compounded by too many funds being siphoned off into bureaucratic overhead. This disparity between return and investment is one of the chief complaints the people have with Washington It is a complaint not confined only to wealthy persons. When it comes to taxation, the definition of "the rich" includes just about everyone above the poverty line.

As an editorial, The Star's piece is a fine collection of insult, smear and moral intimidation, which are hardly the elements required for a serious and constructive political debate. Perhaps what has upset Senator Humphrey and The Star so much is that Washington's critics have been proven so resoundingly correct in so many instances. Criticisms of Washington can no longer be dismissed with ridicule, smears and rabble-rousing rhetoric, as they could when there were only a few conservatives around to be sneered at.

It is not necessary to abjectly accept The Star's political values in order to have a decent respect for the value of human beings A growing number of people believe that the way Washington can best help people is to leave them alone They have a very strong case to make They deserve a decent hearing and a reasoned, respectful answer

The Star owes the American people a public apology for its behavior (as does Senator Humphrey). Insults and smears are not acceptable behavior in a civilized society, even in the rough-and-tumble of politics.

In any event, the debate will go on. Hopefully, it will be conducted in a more constructive manner than it was in the sixties, and that along the way a few answers will be found If The Star desires a constructive part in that debate its apology will not be long in coming

Maybe Our Way Is Not So Bad

WASHINGTON — The United States is not the only country in the world trying to pick new political leaders these days, and if it crosses your mind occasionally that the American primary election system is not exactly ideal, you might consider some of these other systems for passing power from one person or faction to another.

Britain chose a new prime minister the other day, "Sunny Jim" Callaghan. Good sound character, too. They did it by a majority vote of the Labor members of the House of Commons, as usual. This procedure has served them well It saves time, money, and argument by the simple device of eliminating the British people from having any voice in the matter.

It also assures that the new British prime minister will be chosen by, and from the established "insiders" of the Parliament, without any challenge or interference from "outsiders." No Jimmy Carters need apply.

China uses the Spiro Agnew system, which has been on display in recent days They canonize their leader for life but back him up with disposable prime ministers. By ways mysterious, the Communist Party's Central Committee carefully selects Mr No. 2, and then denounces him as a counter-revolutionary or Capitalist Roader, and tosses him to the photographers.

This was what happened to Liu Shao-Chi, Lin Piao, and most recently, Teng Hsiao-Ping. All were hailed at one time or another as the heir apparent to Chairman Mao and then dismissed, often before the world had become accustomed to their names.

There was apparently something of a public protest against this system the other day when tens of thousands of people gathered in Peking's Tien An Men Square, but when the votes were counted, the army had won and China had a new No. 2 — Hua Kuo-Feng.

Chiang Kai-shek in the Republic of China and Generalissimo Francisco Franco in Spain dealt with the succession problem simply by writing it into their wills. Franco bequeathed the monarchy to Spain, and Chiang turned over the government in Taipei and the rest of his property to his son.

With techniques of this sort available, political leaders and commentators in other countries are naturally puzzled by the American system They can't get the principles of our parties straight, which is scarcely surprising since we can't, either. They are as puzzled by the names of our candidates as we are by the cast of characters in China.

How, they ask, can you run a country with people named Jerry and Ronnie, Mo and Scoop, Hubert and Wee Jimmy? All this running around and fussing over Henry — they don't get it.

Other countries are much tidier and quicker about these things. Mrs. Gandhi in India simplifies the problem of too many candidates and too much gabble in the press by putting her potential opponents and critical editors in jail.

"We should be vigilant," she said last Dec. 27, "to see that our march to progress is not hampered in the name of the constitution."

Argentina assured political continuity lately in a manner worthy of the machismo traditions of Latin America. It has a constitution copied in 1853 from the Constitution of the United States (still theoretically in force), but when President Maria Estel de Peron rejected a suggestion that she get lost, the army simply picked up that stubborn lady at her palace and whirled her away in a helicopter to what was called a safe destination. Presto! New president, name of Jorge R. Videla, army commander.

The ingenuity of politicians for changing governments is almost unlimited. Murder in Chile. Civil war in Angola. "Direct action" or military invasion by the Red army in Czechoslovakia. Musical chairs in Italy.

In the light of all this, our own political road show almost makes sense. With a few exceptions, it has been orderly and sometimes even amiable. The people on the whole have rejected extreme solutions and voted for moderation. They have opened the way to new candidates and greased George Wallace's treadmill to oblivion.

Before it all started, there was some anxiety that the primaries might loiter down into ugly recriminations about Watergate and Vietnam, but those two sad chapters in our story have scarcely been mentioned.

No doubt the campaign will lose altitude as it picks up speed, until the Democrats get to Madison Square Garden for their all-in wrestling match, but there's something to be said for the old fog yet — especially when you think of all those other sytsems.

One Vote For Cosell—To Canada

The Scavengers

Exeter, Neb.

We would like to "thank" the business people and opportunists who are selling or have sold portable generators for their "help" in time of disaster.

To some of you business people — and I don't mean all of you — we have seen you raise prices two and three times the original prices. Some retail prices have been outlandish. Being among the few, we purchased ours the first day after the storm, luckily. This was before there was time to mark up the price. After the needs were known, it didn't take long. You raised prices, and lined your pockets with a really good profit.

Then the teamsters went on strike for more money and some people who had generators on order now find them sitting on trucks or docks, with no way of having them delivered or getting them.

Here again, a majority of people have to go without in a time of disaster, so those who have already can have more.

By contrast, we have seen farmers, electricians and townspeople with generators going from one place to another, trying to help neighbors get water, whether it be for the family or livestock. They charge up the freezer and hope the contents don't spoil and go to the next, knowing that a lot of people will still be without lights, heat and restrooms.

I would like to remind those who were greedy enough to line their pockets from our disaster that vultures also live off the disaster of others — except they are one of God's more simple creatures.

What's your excuse?

A Valuable Lesson

Martell, Neb.

The freak storm that knocked out over 4,300 square miles of electric power lines last week is just another grim reminder of how fragile our sources of power are today.

The men from the Rural Electric System are to be commended for the valiant way they have been trying to replace the power system that took over 30 years to build. But even with their best efforts, it will take many months to restore such a massive system.

This incident may be a blessing in disguise, if we learn something from it. Most people have gotten rid of their alternative sources of energy in the home and on the farm. Today we are almost totally dependent on power's coming from outside our homes and communities via electric lines, gas pipes or trucks. If any part of the system breaks down, we could be without resources for a long time. For example; I counted the essential things in my home that would not operate without electricity — the oil furnace, kitchen range, deep-freeze, water pump, lights and a long list of appliances.

This power failure has also reminded us that we have only about 10 to 40 years of natural gas, oil and uranium fuel left. Fossil fuel is now supplying 94% of our national energy requirements and about half of our oil is imported from abroad. If it took 30 years to build the rural electric system, how long will it take us to build an effective system for using solar and wind energy (and developing alcohol and hydrogen fuel) that must replace the fuels that are running out?

A number of us who are concerned have formed a non-profit citizens' organization called "Midwest Energy Alternatives." We are locating ways to make use of non-polluting and inexhaustible sources of energy right now — energy that will go around when we have run out of oil, gas, coal and uranium.

Anyone wanting more information should drop a card to Box 82302, Lincoln, Neb. 68501 We believe that the security and health of our nation depend on all of us becoming more energy-independent now

It is frightening to imagine what a major natural disaster would do if it came in the dead of winter

Bank To Assess Master Charge Users 50¢ Service Fee

NEW YORK (AP) — Citibank, the nation's second largest bank, has announced it will charge a 50-cent monthly service fee to its Master Charge customers who pay their bills immediately. Industry spokesmen said Tuesday that the practice probably will spread to other banks across the country.

"It's a step in the right direction," said Richard M. Rosenberg, vice president of Wells Fargo Bank in San Francisco. "I think there will be a significant number (of other banks) that will follow."

Up until now, most of the millions of Americans who used bank charge cards paid no membership fee. The only exceptions were in a few areas where interest rates are lower than normal and an annual fee is charged to make up the difference. Citibank is the first bank in the country to impose this kind of monthly charge.

The estimated two-thirds of the bank charge card holders who deferred their payments paid interest fees generally ranging from 1 to 1½% a month.

The Citicorp Credit Services division of Citibank, formerly known as First National City Bank, said the charge will be applied only during months when the cardholder makes a purchase and pays the full balance within the billing period. No charge will be imposed during months when the card is not used or when payment is deferred.

The maximum annual fee would be $6, but April Klimley of Citibank said the bank expected most customers who do not defer payments probably would wind up with an extra $3.50 a year in charges because they don't use the card every month.

Annual membership fees for nonbank charge cards such as American Express and Diner's Club average about $20 and payments are due within a specified billing period.

Philip Schiavoni, product manager for Citibank's Master Charge, said, "The revision is necessary to offset our rising costs and to improve our level of customer service. We are asking those customers who do not pay any finance charge to contribute toward the cost of providing this valuable service." It could not be determined what it costs Citibank to provide service to its one million Master Charge card holders, about one-third of whom will be affected by the change.

The charge will not apply to cardholders in Connecticut, Maryland or the District of Columbia, where laws prohibit such a fee. For other cardholders, the charge will apply first on purchases made in May.

A spokesman for Interbank, which issues Master Charge, said the company was conducting a survey of its member banks to find out whether the Citibank move was the start of a trend. "Chances are it may spread," he said.

He said there are 37 million Interbank card holders throughout the country who accounted for an annual gross sales volume — in merchandise, service and cash advances — of $11 billion in 1975. BankAmericard, the other major bank card, has 32 million cardholders and had a 1975 gross sales volume of just under $9 billion.

IRS Bills Milk Co-op For $7.8 Million

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service has revoked the tax-exempt status of the nation's largest milk producer cooperative and billed it for $7.8 million in taxes and fraud penalties, apparently primarily because of political campaign contributions.

The IRS action surfaced in documents filed in U.S. Tax Court last month by Associated Milk Producers, Inc., which came to light Tuesday. The San Antonio-based cooperative has obtained a tax court hearing of its protests that the IRS action is unwarranted.

The action represents the latest in a series of legal problems for the cooperative, or AMPI, growing out of charges of antitrust violations and illegal campaign contributions.

The co-op's former top officials, Harold S. Nelson and David L. Paar, have received fines and prison sentences on illegal contribution charges.

Jack L. Chestnut, a former campaign manager for Minnesota Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, also has received a fine and prison sentence on charges of accepting a $12,000 contribution for Democrat Humphrey in 1970.

The co-op also has been accused by the U.S. Justice Department of antitrust violations and has been fined in Texas for violation of state antitrust laws.

Although agricultural cooperatives are normally exempt from federal income taxes, the IRS reserves the right to revoke that exemption if a co-op engages in improper activities.

The IRS didn't spell out why the action was taken in notifying AMPI in February of the determination. But it was apparent from the IRS disallowance of $237,892 spent for AMPI's Committee for Thorough Agricultural Political Education, or CAPE, in 1972, that the political contributions were a key factor.

The IRS disallowed a claim that the CAPE money was a business expense.

Also disallowed were $302,541 in salaries and travel expenses paid to Nelson, Paar and other AMPI officials and $376,631 for professional expenses, including $27,682 paid to Stuart H. Russell. Russell has been indicted on charges of contributing $13,400 to the 1970 campaign of Maine Democratic Sen. Edmund S. Muskie.

The IRS bill added up to $3,771,960 for AMPI's fiscal year ended June 1972; $2,181,707 for the 1973 fiscal year and a 50 per cent fraud penalty of $1,885,980 for 1972

IRS had previously billed the huge co-op for about $9 million for the years 1969-70-71.

Lockheed Consents To Charges

Washington (UPI) — Lockheed Aircraft Corp. consented Tuesday to federal charges that the aerospace giant made more than $25 million in "secret payments" to foreign government officials since 1968.

Lockheed also acknowledged for the first time that some of the payments were made directly to government officials, Previously, the company said it paid agents who claimed to have made disbursements to the officials.

No names were mentioned in the consent agreement, which is neither an admission nor denial of the charges.

Lockheed agreed to the charges brought by the Securities and Exchange Commision, which opened its case against Lockheed last June. In addition, Lockheed's former chairman Daniel J. Haughton and former president A. Carl Kotchian consented to the charges.

Under terms of the consent decree issued in U.S. District Court here, Lockheed will conduct an investigation of its illegal activities and make a complete public report.

Bank To Assess Master Charge Users 50¢ Service Fee

NEW YORK (AP) — Citibank, the nation's second largest bank, has announced it will charge a 50-cent monthly service fee to its Master Charge customers who pay their bills immediately Industry spokesmen said Tuesday that the practice probably will spread to other banks across the country.

"It's a step in the right direction," said Richard M Rosenberg, vice president of Wells Fargo Bank in San Francisco "I think there will be a significant number (of other banks) that will follow"

Up until now, most of the millions of Americans who used bank charge cards paid no membership fee The only exceptions were in a few areas where interest rates are lower than normal and an annual fee is charged to make up the difference Citibank is the first bank in the country to impose this kind of monthly charge

The estimated two-thirds of the bank charge card holders who deferred their payments paid interest fees generally ranging from 1 to 1½% a month

The Citicorp Credit Services division of Citibank, formerly known as First National City Bank, said the charge will be applied only during months when the cardholder makes a purchase and pays the full balance within the billing period No charge will be imposed during months when the card is not used or when payment is deferred.

The maximum annual fee would be $6, but April Klimley of Citibank said the bank expected most customers who do not defer payments probably would wind up with an extra $3 50 a year in charges because they don't use the card every month

Annual membership fees for nonbank charge cards such as American Express and Diner's Club average about $20 and payments are due within a specified billing period.

Philip Schiavoni, product manager for Citibank's Master Charge, said, "The revision is necessary to offset our rising costs and to improve our level of customer service We are asking those customers who do not pay any finance charge to contribute toward the cost of providing this valuable service." It could not be determined what it costs Citibank to provide service to its one million Master Charge card holders, about one-third of whom will be affected by the change

The charge will not apply to cardholders in Connecticut, Maryland or the District of Columbia, where laws prohibit such a fee For other cardholders, the charge will apply first on purchases made in May

A spokesman for Interbank, which issues Master Charge, said the company was conducting a survey of its member banks to find out whether the Citibank move was the start of a trend "Chances are it may spread," he said.

He said there are 37 million Interbank card holders throughout the country who accounted for an annual gross sales volume — in merchandise, service and cash advances — of $11 billion in 1975 BankAmericard, the other major bank card, has 32 million cardholders and had a 1975 gross sales volume of just under $9 billion

IRS Bills Milk Co-op For $7.8 Million

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service has revoked the tax-exempt status of the nation's largest milk producer cooperative and billed it for $7.8 million in taxes and fraud penalties, apparently primarily because of political campaign contributions

The IRS action surfaced in documents filed in U S Tax Court last month by Associated Milk Producers, Inc, which came to light Tuesday The San Antonio-based cooperative has obtained a tax court hearing of its protests that the IRS action is unwarranted

The action represents the latest in a series of legal problems for the cooperative, or AMPI, growing out of charges of antitrust violations and illegal campaign contributions

The co-op's former top officials, Harold S Nelson and David L Paar, have received fines and prison sentences on illegal contribution charges

Jack L Chestnut, a former campaign manager for Minnesota Sen Hubert H Humphrey, also has received a fine and prison sentence on charges of accepting a $12,000 contribution for Democrat Humphrey in 1970

The co-op also has been accused by the U S Justice Department of antitrust violations and has been fined in Texas for violation of state antitrust laws

Although agricultural cooperatives are normally exempt from federal income taxes, the IRS reserves the right to revoke that exemption if a co-op engages in improper activities

The IRS didn't spell out why the action was taken in notifying AMPI in February of the determination But it was apparent from the IRS disallowance of $237,892 spent for AMPI's Committee for Thorough Agricultural Political Education, or CAPE, in 1972, that the political contributions were a key factor

The IRS disallowed a claim that the CAPE money was a business expense

Also disallowed were $302,541 in salaries and travel expenses paid to Nelson, Paar and other AMPI officials and $376,631 for professional expenses, including $27,682 paid to Stuart H Russell Russell has been indicted on charges of contributing $13,400 to the 1970 campaign of Maine Democratic Sen Edmund S Muskie

The IRS bill added up to $3,771,980 for AMPI's fiscal year ended June 1972; $2,181,707 for the 1973 fiscal year and a 50 per cent fraud penalty of $1,885,980 for 1972

IRS had previously billed the huge co-op for about $9 million for the years 1969-70-71

Lockheed Consents To Charges

Washington (UPI) — Lockheed Aircraft Corp consented Tuesday to federal charges that the aerospace giant made more than $25 million in "secret payments" to foreign government officials since 1968

Lockheed also acknowledged for the first time that some of the payments were made directly to government officials, Previously, the company said it paid agents who claimed to have made disbursements to the officials

No names were mentioned in the consent agreement, which is neither an admission nor denial of the charges

Lockheed agreed to the charges brought by the Securities and Exchange Commission, which opened its case against Lockheed last June In addition, Lockheed's former chairman Daniel J Haughton and former president A Carl Kotchian consented to the charges

Under terms of the consent decree issued in U S District Court here, Lockheed will conduct an investigation of its illegal activities and make a complete public report

Token Confusion

For a good many years for work, school and shopping my family has used the bus service in Lincoln and, on the whole, has been well satisfied with the service. On April 3, however, one of my sons tried to ride the bus using the 15¢ tokens he purchased at school. He was told by the bus driver that he could not. I thought these tokens could be used any day of the week. Could you clarify this policy for me?

—K.E., Lincoln

ACTION LINE: A spokesman for Lincoln Transportation System says the 15¢ tokens, which students through high school can use, are accepted all days and through summer months. He added that along with the tokens, which are purchased at area schools, the students are also issued identification cards which must be presented every time a token is used. While he did not know what happened specifically in your case he said that the token wouldn't have been accepted if there was no proper identification to go with it.

ACTION LINE: Pat Stephenson with the Gateway Merchants Assn. office says you can call her at that office for a list of the names of the groups holding shows at the mall. The office number is listed in the Lincoln directory.

Building Improvements

We are newcomers to Lincoln and wonder who is responsible for the upkeep of the Capitol and the surrounding grounds.

—Citizens, Lincoln

ACTION LINE: The Building and Grounds Division of the Department of Administrative Services is responsible for the upkeep of the grounds and the actual building. The division is located in the Capitol Building.

Spring Fix-up

ACTION TIP: Besides spring cleaning there's quite a bit of spring fix-up going on. The U.S. Dept. of Agriculture (USDA) has published a booklet for home do-it-yourselfers on surface bonding. The booklet explains the advantages of surface bonding because of its water resistance and economy. To obtain a copy of "Construction with Surface Bonding" complete with how-to instructions, send 45¢ to Consumer Information Center, Dept. 7, Pueblo, Colo. 81009.

Soviet Ag Output Won't Be Up Much

WASHINGTON (AP) — Total farm production in the Soviet Union this year is unlikely to gain much from 1975, although good weather could bring a significant boost from last year's poor harvest, the Agriculture Department said Tuesday.

But despite any gains Russia still is expected to be heavily dependent on imports of U.S. grain in the foreseeable future. Department experts have said those sales will not unduly affect American consumers.

The analysis of Soviet farm prospects said that "crop production should recover sharply from the depressed 1975 level, if weather during the 1976 growing season is more or less normal."

However, the report added that crop gains "will be largely nullified" by reduced production of most livestock products in 1976.

Last year's Russian grain harvest was 140 million metric tons, the smallest in a decade and 35% below Moscow's 1975 target of 215.7 million tons. A metric ton is 2,205 pounds.

"This reduction in the grain output goals between 1975 and 1976 strongly suggests that the severe drought last year is causing the Soviets to return to a more rational system of fallow-land (leaving part of it idle) farming in the more marginal precipitation areas," Pope said. "A goal of 250 million tons of grain in 1976 seems realistic given a reasonably 'normal' growing season."

The small harvest last year forced Russia to import huge quantities of foreign grain, including about 13.7 million tons of U. S. wheat and corn ordered since last summer. Department experts say more grain probably will be ordered to help Russia meet this season's needs, but no major new orders have yet surfaced.

Under a long-term grain agreement announced last fall, Russia will buy at least six million tons of U.S. corn and wheat beginning with deliveries on Oct. 1. The current orders are in addition to the quantities specified in the agreement.

Although 1976 U.S. crops are still months from harvest and spring crops of corn, soybeans and spring wheat still are to be planted, department officials say they are confident that with normal weather farmers will harvest plenty of grain this year to meet foreign and domestic commitments.

Margaret, Snowdon Meet

WINDSOR, England (AP) — Princess Margaret and Lord Snowdon met Tuesday for the first time since their separation was announced March 19.

Both attended the confirmation of their son Viscount Linley, 14, by the Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Donald Coggan, at St. George's Chapel, inside the walls of Windsor Castle.

Dr. Coggan also confirmed Prince Andrew, 16, son of Queen Elizabeth II and nephew of Princess Margaret.

After the ceremony, Margaret and Snowdon lunched with other guests of the queen at Windsor Castle, a royal residence west of London.

Judges Opposed To Mini-Prisons

Omaha (AP) — The Nebraska Crime Commission will be advised that nine Douglas County District Court judges are against committing $450,000 to set up nonsecure centers to house convicted felons and serious juvenile offenders in Omaha.

Presiding Judge Samuel Caniglia said the vote was taken Monday. Three judges were absent.

The commission's executive committee will decide April 30 whether to commit state and federal funds to set up the centers proposed by the Nebraska Department of Correctional Services.

The corrections department plan would rent four facilities in Omaha, some possibly in residential areas, to give judges another alternative in sentencing felons besides probation and imprisonment.

The centers would be managed by a staff under Corrections Director Joseph Vitek. Each center would house up to 30 offenders for up to six months. One each would be for men, women, male juveniles and female juveniles.

Caniglia said the judges expressed several misgivings about the plan, including:

—There has been no need demonstrated for such centers.

—The manner in which the four centers would be set up may be an unconstitutional encroachment by the executive branch of government upon the judicial branch.

—Four centers operating in Omaha under the control of Vitek would not give sufficient control of the system to local authorities.

—The adult probation office in Douglas County under Patrick Krell presently is understaffed, overworked and underpaid. If funds are going to be committed, they could be better used to bolster the probation office and other existing programs.

Nearly All LT&T Lines Hooked Up

Telephone service has been restored to nearly all Lincoln Telephone and Telegraph Co. customers affected by the March 29 storm, according to a company spokesman.

With the exception of eight rural lines in the Hebron area, service was restored as of Monday evening, Jim Vanderslice, LT&T spokesman, said Tuesday. The Hebron area was to have received service by noon Tuesday.

The storm affected some 7,000 telephone customers at 62 exchanges. Restoration work involved approximately 2,500 telephone poles and the replacement of approximately 1,800 miles of wire.

Isolated cases of telephone service interruption are being taken care of as they are reported, Vanderslice said.

State Ready To Expand Its Livestock Production

Hebron — Nebraska is in a strong position to increase its proportion of the nation's livestock production, even though "we have witnessed a period of necessary adjustment in the industry," according to Dr. Martin Massengale, vice chancellor of the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources, University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

Massengale told the Thayer County Livestock Feeders Association Tuesday that, barring additional adjustments necessitated by unforeseen economic or weather disasters, the next 10 years should see a 19% increase in beef slaughter numbers, and perhaps as much as 40-50% increase in pork production.

"But, there are problems to be solved and challenges to be met," he said. Massengale cited utilization of crop residues, nutritive requirements of animals, nutritive content of feedstuffs, improvement of reproductive performance in beef herds, and better utilization of current genetic information as some of the needs to be met through research and education.

Meeting the challenges of the future will require the cooperation of all segments of the livestock industry, as well as the institute, and state and federal agencies, he said.

"Since we have learned that capital and management have largely replaced labor as main ingredients in agricultural production, it is especially gratifying to me to see a meeting such as this cosponsored by your county livestock feeders and your county bankers association."

Missouri Shipping Sets Record

Omaha (UPI) — Fifteen large commercial towboats were operating on the Missouri River at the end of March, the Army Corps of Engineers said Tuesday. The engineers noted shipping got off to an early start this year, setting a record of 171,000 tons for the month. Above normal discharges through the power plants set an all time March record of 1.04 billion kilowatt hours, the engineers said.

Hornbeck Retires From Universal

LOS ANGELES (AP) — William Hornbeck, who started his movie career in 1916, has retired as head of editorial operations at Universal Studios.

The Oscar winner ("A Place in the Sun") has been in charge of the editorial department since 1960. He is 74 and began his career as an editor with Mack Sennett, His successor is Phil Scott.

Poultry Checkoff Plan Launched On Its Way

The Nebraska Poultry and Egg Development, Utilization and Markeing Board was launched on its way toward a statewide egg and poultry checkoff program Tuesday.

Davy Crockett of Wakefield was named chairman of the board, made up of representatives of several poultry groups within the state.

The board decided to check off 3 cents for each 30 dozen case of eggs produced, 2 cents for each tom turkey produced and 1½ cents for each hen turkey and turkey fryer produced.

The program is expected to raise $10,000 for turkey promotion and $38,400 to promote eggs.

The cost of administering the program within the State Department of Agriculture was estimated at around $6,000 for the first year. Administration costs are expected to drop once the program begins to operate.

The state program will be operated in addition to a national egg checkoff program of 5 cents a case which is expected to be announced soon.

"The amount generated isn't large because we have a small poultry industry in Nebraska. However, we need to remind ourselves that a little seed money can often generate a large amount of matching fund money for research and marketing programs if the seed money is managed right," said Doyle Free, general manager of Nebraska Poultry Industries.

A major concern of the board is the provision that allows a producer to request a refund of money deducted from his eggs or poultry.

"If a major producer refuses to support the program, then it is as good as dead. We have been elected by the industry to make these decisions. All we can do is try to develop a program they will accept," said Crokett.

10,000 Wheat Farmers Apply For Disaster Aid

Fremont (AP) — Wheat prospects have deteriorated in south-central and southeast Nebraska, according to the Nebraska Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service Committee.

Paul Sindt, executive director, said about 10,000 applications for disaster payments on wheat have been filed with the agency. Most came from the 20-county area south of the Platte River.

The committee said in a news conference Monday that many farmers are planning to plow the crop under and plant corn, milo or soybeans.

The committee is conducting 11 meetings across the state with county committeemen to discuss policy and programs administered by the ASCS.

The heaviest run of applications is from York County where 400 have been filed. Sindt said reports indicate as much as 50% of the wheat acreage would not be harvested.

He said the 20-county area normally produces about 10% of the state's wheat crop.

The committee said the general condition of the wheat crop worsened in the past month because of cutworm infestations and alternate periods of warm and cold weather which have caused the ground to heave and expose the plant roots.

Brucellosis Control Topic For Meeting At Ag Dept.

Representatives of several livestock organizations will meet at the State Department of Agriculture hearing room at 1 p.m. Wednesday to discuss the state's brucellosis control program.

Invitations have been sent to livestock groups throughout the state, according to Roger Sandman, assistant director.

"This isn't a hearing. It is more in the nature of a roundtable discussion to seek ways of making the program work better," Sandman said.

Brucellosis is a cattle disease that causes cattle to abort their young. In humans the disease causes undulant fever.

The federal government is in the process of drawing up an expanded program designed to end the threat of the disease in the U.S.

Judges Opposed To Mini-Prisons

Omaha (AP) — The Nebraska Crime Commission will be advised that nine Douglas County District Court judges are against committing $450 000 to set up nonsecure centers to house convicted felons and serious juvenile offenders in Omaha

Presiding Judge Samuel Caniglia said the vote was taken Monday Three judges were absent

The commission s executive committee will decide April 30 whether to commit state and federal funds to set up the centers proposed by the Nebraska Department of Correctional Services

The corrections department plan would rent four facilities in Omaha, some possibly in residential areas, to give judges another alternative in sentencing felons besides probation and imprisonment

The centers would be managed by a staff under Corrections Director Joseph Vitek Each center would house up to 30 offenders for up to six months One each would be for men women male juveniles and female juveniles

Caniglia said the judges expressed several misgivings about the plan, including

—There has been no need demonstrated for such centers

—The manner in which the four centers would be set up may be an unconstitutional encroachment by the executive branch of government upon the judicial branch

—Four centers operating in Omaha under the control of Vitek would not give sufficient control of the system to local authorities

—The adult probation office in Douglas County under Patrick Krell presently is understaffed overworked and underpaid If funds are going to be committed, they could be better used to bolster the probation office and other existing programs

Method Successful In Healing Fractures

Omaha (UPI) — Technique developed by a group of physicians for mending thigh-bone fractures without surgery has achieved a proven track record and is being tried in many areas of the world, the University of Nebraska Medical Center said Tuesday.

The Medical Center said the method involves the combination of a cast and brace which is placed on the patient after a short period of traction to align the fracture.

Dr. John Connolly, chairman of the Medical Center's department of orthopedics, joined physicians in Texas, Tennessee and California in developing the process beginning in 1968.

Between 1968 and 1972, the doctors studied the technique on 143 fractures of the femur, the largest bone in the body.

Connolly said the cast-brace technique was "less complication prone" than surgery and the "incidence of failure of the fractures to heal was less than one per cent in the study."

Connolly said with surgery "you run a risk of infection in an operation such as this, which you won't have with the cast-brace."

"Our initial impression after using this method for acute fractures was that patients were much more comfortable than anticipated," Connolly said, "and that there was little difficulty in maintaining satisfactory length and alignment of the bone.

In addition, Connolly said the study results showed the technique, now being tried in many areas of the world, worked on more complicated fractures, such as combined fractures of the femur and shin-bone.

Connolly said treatment by traction alone requires immobilization of the patient for perhaps as long as six months, while a patient with a cast-brace may be able to walk with crutches within one or two weeks after his injury, depending on its severity.

Connolly said the technique can also alleviate knee and hip joint stiffness which can result from long periods of immobilizations.

"With the cast-brace method, the muscles are being used more and circulation is being mainained in the area of the fractured bone," Connolly said, "which encourages faster healing."

Exon Names J. D. Martin County Judge

Gov. J. James Exon Tuesday appointed Joseph D. Martin of Grand Island to serve as county judge for Hall and Howard counties.

Martin, an attorney who once served in the Legislature, replaces Edward Dixon who resigned.

Exon picked Martin over Grand Island attorneys Richard DeBacker and James Truell who were also nominated by the Judicial Nominating Commission.

Committee Will Discuss Names For Judgeship

The Judicial Nominating Commission announced Tuesday that a meeting would be held next Tuesday in Broken Bow to discuss candidates for county judge for seven eastern Sand Hills counties.

Roy E. Blixt of Arnold, Gregory Gene Jensen of Ord and David R. Uher of Ord have filed for the post. The vacancy was created when John R. Sullivan of Ord resigned.

The new judge will serve along with C. S. Marchek of Broken Bow as county judge for Blaine, Loup, Garfield, Wheeler, Custer, Valley and Greeley counties.

The meeting will be at 10 a.m. in Custer County Court house.

Regents Expected To Tab G. Carrico For UNO Post

Omaha (AP) — Gary L. Carrico is expected to be named the University of Nebraska of Omaha's new vice chancellor for business and finance when the University Board of Regents meets this Saturday in Lincoln.

John F. Kerrigan, 40, now on the faculty at the University of Oregon, is in line to become the new dean of UNO's College of Public Affairs and Community Service, to succeed Hubert Locke, who resigned.

Carrico, 37, will succeed the retiring Harold Keefover, and will take over the new post immediately.

Now assistant vice chancellor for business, Carrico has been at UNO since 1973.

Carrico graduated from the University of Kansas and obtained his masters in business administration from the University of Missouri at Kansas City.

Before moving to Omaha, Carrico served as the comptroller at the University of Kansas, and before that as the director of long-range planning for the Kansas City Regional Council of Higher Education.

Kerrigan is now the chairman of the division of public affairs and international development in Oregon's School of Community Service and Public Affairs.

Kerrigan holds four degrees, including a doctorate in public administration from the University of Colorado.

Man Pleads Innocent To Assault Charges

Alan Siemering, 27, 501 S. 13th St., pleaded innocent to two counts of sexual assault and one count of fondling a minor in Lancaster Couny District Court Tuesday.

His trial was set for the May 17 jury term.

The charges cover three incidents involving clients at the Nebraska Center for Children and Youth, where Siemering was employed until Jan. 28.

Councilman Will Fight Ouster

Scottsbluff (AP) — Former Scottsbluff City Councilman Roger Green says he plans to go to court to challenge his ouster from the council.

In action Monday night, the council voted 4-0 to remove Green, basing its decision on a 1917 state law barring public employes from serving on councils in cities with council-manager forms of government.

Green, who had been a member of the council since 1974, was disqualified from voting on his own ouster, but said he plans a court challenge.

"I intend to use every legal means at my disposal to fight this unjust law," said Green after the vote.

Mayor Donald Overman said no action was taken to fill the vacancy because he expects Green to seek a court injunction reinstating him while case is pending.

Green is the chairman of the Division of Social Science and Education at Nebraska Western College here, and teaches political science and economics at the school, which is financed through public tax dollars.

HHH Up For Arbor Honor

Nebraska City (AP) — Minnesota Sen. Hubert Humphrey will receive the J. Sterling Morton Award at Arbor Day ceremonies on Saturday, April 24.

Method Successful In Healing Fractures

Omaha (UPI) — Technique developed by a group of physicians for mending thigh-bone fractures without surgery has achieved a proven track record and is being tried in many areas of the world the University of Nebraska Medical Center said Tuesday

The Medical Center said the method involves the combination of a cast and brace which is placed on the patient after a short period of traction to align the fracture

Dr John Connolly, chairman of the Medical Center s department of orthopedics, joined physicians in Texas, Tennessee and California in developing the process beginning in 1968

Between 1968 and 1972 the doctors studied the technique on 143 fractures of the femur, the largest bone in the body

Connolly said the cast-brace technique was "less complication prone ' than surgery and the "incidence of failure of the fractures to heal was less than one per cent in the study '

Connolly said with surgery ' you run a risk of infection in an operation such as this, which you won t have with the cast-brace "

Our initial impression after using this method for acute fractures was that patients were much more comfortable than anticipated, ' Connolly said, "and that there was little difficulty in maintaining satisfactory length and alignment of the bone

In addition, Connolly said the study results showed the technique, now being tried in many areas of the world, worked on more complicated fractures, such as combined fractures of the femur and shin-bone

Connolly said treatment by traction alone requires immobilization of the patient for perhaps as long as six months, while a patient with a cast-brace may be able to walk with crutches within one or two weeks after his injury, depending on its severity

Connolly said the technique can also alleviate knee and hip joint stiffness which can result from long periods of immobilizations

' With the cast-brace method, the muscles are being used more and circulation is being mainained in the area of the fractured bone," Connolly said, which encourages faster healing

Councilman Will Fight Ouster

Scottsbluff (AP) — Former Scottsbluff City Councilman Roger Green says he plans to go to court to challenge his ouster from the council

In action Monday night, the council voted 4-0 to remove Green, basing its decision on a 1917 state law barring public employes from serving on councils in cities with council-manager forms of government

Green, who had been a member of the council since 1974, was disqualified from voting on his own ouster, but said he plans a court challenge

"I intend to use every legal means at my disposal to fight this unjust law," said Green after the vote

Mayor Donald Overman said no action was taken to fill the vacancy because he expects Green to seek a court injunction reinstating him while case is pending

Green is the chairman of the Division of Social Science and Education at Nebraska Western College here, and teaches political science and economics at the school, which is financed through public tax dollars

Beet Farmers Consider Striking Great Western

DENVER (AP) — Embroiled in a bitter contract dispute with the nation's second-largest sugar refiner, beet farmers talked Tuesday of a strike that experts said could drive up sugar prices in America's supermarkets.

Gov. Richard Lamm of Colorado, one of five western states whose growers supply the Great Western Sugar Co., called representatives of both sides to the governor's mansion to talk over their differences.

Negotiations on a 1976 supply contract broke down in early March after growers objected to a demand by Great Western that the payment system be changed from the traditional per-ton basis to payment based on the sugar produced from each ton of beets.

The company argued that it was trying to reward farmers who produced higher-quality beets. Growers' organizations countered that the plan could cost farmers up to $11 million a year by removing Great Western's incentive to extract the most sugar possible from each ton of beets.

A crisis emerged during the weekend, after four days of renewed talks, when the same issue ended negotiations and Great Western said it would seek contracts with individual growers rather than working through the organizations.

Since then, organization locals have met separately to discuss the contract proposals and the prospect of individual negotiations. The result has been overwhelming rejection on both counts, say the growers.

Lee Johnson, executive secretary of the Mountain States Beet Growers Association, the largest organization, said, "We've tallied up the vote, and 99 per cent of our members have voted to reject the proposed contract."

At meetings in Colorado, Nebraska, Wyoming, Kansas and Montana, growers vowed to plant the acreage usually devoted to sugar beets in other crops if no contract can be negotiated. Henry Schaffer, a director of the Mountain States association, said he knows of only 240 acres that have been planted in sugar beets.

Robert Poitz of near Yuma, Colo., had 1,700 acres in sugar beets last year, the most acreage of any Great Western supplier. He said he's ready to turn that to corn.

"My position is that if we do not receive the contract that the association is negotiating for, my corn planter is ready, and I will plant corn in all my beet acreage," Poitz said.

"Beets are a very good crop in the five-state area where they are planted. It's a specialized crop with specialized machinery, and it's been in my family since 1904. Beets have been good to me. But I'm not averse to going to other crops if we don't get a decent contract."

The prime time for planting beets is April 10-20. Poitz said he would be "willing to sit it out for a while" after that if a contract appeared possible.

Great Western's beet sugar production is marketed from Illinois west to the Rocky Mountain states under the brand GW Pure Sugar. Company figures show that it accounts for about 6.5 per cent of the sugar sold in the United States.

It's uncertain how disruptive a strike would be to Great Western's operations, but many of its plants are geared only to processing sugar from beets.

If those plants were shut down, the company would have to turn to alternative sources for its marketing, which experts said probably would force up sugar prices.

Smith Also Calls For Investigation

Washington (UPI) — Rep. Virginia Smith, R-Neb., Tuesday called on the House Agriculture Committee to investigate the Great Western Sugar Co.'s contract practices with beet growers.

The resolution calling for an investigation was similar to one introduced Monday in the Senate by Carl Curtis, R-Neb. It calls on the committee to investigate allegations that Great Western is trying to force growers into a contract which would provide less revenue.

The resolution also asks the committee to look into the impact importation of sugar has had on the negotiations and "the extent of monopolistic or other unfair practices in dealing with sugar beet growers in Nebraska."

Legislative Committee Sets Scottsbluff Sugar Hearing

By United Press International

The Legislature's Agriculture Committee will meet at Scottsbluff Thursday with both sides in the controversy which threatens sugar beet production on 80,000 acres in western Nebraska, Sens. Loran Schmit and John DeCamp said Tuesday.

Their hope is that the committee, of which Schmit is chairman, will be able to mediate the disagreement between the Great Western Sugar Co. and more than 1,100 growers. The beet farmers, they said, believe the proposed company contract could leave them after the harvest with less than the cost of production.

DeCamp said he has been assured officials of Great Western and of the growers' organization will be at the hearing to "give their story in detail."

The committee hearing will open at 9 a.m. in the University of Nebraska Panhandle Station auditorium.

If the dispute cannot be resolved, Schmit said, the committee would be in position to use provisions of a 1974 law which empowers the attorney general to investigate whether anyone was being victimized by a monopolistic power.

He added one advantage of the law is it enables the Agriculture Committee to step in almost immediately when crisis situations develop.

"We're talking not only about a $50 million item for the sugar beet crop," DeCamp said. "When you consider every sugar beet dollar turns over seven times, we are talking about a $350 million item."

We believe our new curing process makes the best ham in America.

We'll pay you $2 to prove it.

In 1936 we introduced the boneless ham to Americans. Now, using a revolutionary new curing process, Wilson has perfected a new boneless ham that we think you'll agree is the best tasting ham in America.

We start with young, lean hams. Then we select the leanest, most tender meat . . . only about one-fourth of the ham is good enough to become a Tender Made . . . and hand-trim it to make it leaner.

Then the lean ham is cured and smoked using our special new processing method that traps the natural juices within the ham, makes it more tender, uniform in taste and texture from end to end, and easier to slice. As we said, we believe it's the best tasting ham in America. And we'll pay you $2 to prove it.

Easter Brunch

For a special Easter morning treat, plan a fix-ahead brunch. By making as many of the preparations as possible the day before, you can enjoy the morning and still have time to attend special church services.

Cinnamon Pull Aparts

2 cans 10 count biscuits	¼ c brown sugar
⅔ c sugar	¼ lb. margarine, melted
½ cup chopped nuts	2 tsp cinnamon

Dip each biscuit in melted margarine then in mixture of sugars, nuts and cinnamon. Stand on edge in 9"x5"x4" loaf pan. Make two side by side rows. Sprinkle with any remaining sugar and butter. Cover with foil and bake 15 minutes at 350°. Uncover and bake 15 minutes more until golden brown and biscuits are done. Cool about 5 minutes and turn out. Can be made day before and reheated covered with foil for about 10-15 minutes in 350° oven.

Orange Bubble

2 cans 10 count biscuits	2 tbsp grated orange rind
¼ cup melted butter	½ cup sugar

Dip each biscuit in melted butter and then in the sugar mixed with orange rind. Place on edge in a small tube or loaf pan, well greased. Sprinkle with some remaining sugar-orange mixture. Repeat with the second layer. Drizzle with remaining butter. Bake at 350° for approximately 25-30 minutes or until golden brown. Cover with foil if edges get too brown before center is done. Allow to stand in pan for a few minutes, then turn out. Can be made ahead—Cover with foil and reheat about 15 minutes in 350° oven.

NOTE: Do not use a tube pan with a detachable bottom!

Panel Alternatives Not Ruled Out

By United Press International

A U.S. Justice Department attorney said Tuesday he is willing to look at any alternative the state of Nebraska may offer to a special panel created to implement an out-of-court settlement in the Beatrice State Home lawsuit.

"I'm willing to listen as long as the alternative, if there is one, does not compromise the consitutional rights of the retarded," said Lewis Thrasher of Washington, D.C., in a telephone interview.

As to reports an action is being actively considered, Thrasher said "I never said that and I will not discuss it," adding "really, this is all before the federal court." He also said he told a reporter who asked him that same question "no" three times.

On the other hand, he said "I will not say it isn't so. After all, I don't think even the state entered into this (agreement) to do anything but get results on the need to protect the rights of the handicapped."

Thrasher also said Nebraska officials have yet to present an alternative to the panel and he has not met with state officials since a meeting held in U.S. district court chambers in Omaha two weeks ago.

Bruce Mason, an Omaha attorney representing parents who have children at the institution for the retarded, said he is now working on a "request" for U.S. District Judge Albert Schatz to take another look at the situation.

"We don't know what form our request is going to take," Mason said. "We want an opportunity to see what the problems are and what options are availble to effectuate the agreement."

Both attorneys said they have not reached any agreements between them.

The concern on the part of Mason and Thrasher stems from the Unicameral's decision to remove funding for the special panel from the budget. The panel was given the job of providing guidelines for cutting patient numbers at the home and increasing those being helped through community-based programs.

Mason said he intended to have something before Judge Schatz as soon as possible. If any formal legal action is required he would have it on file "before the end of the month," he said.

Lewis said he considered the special panel an important part of the agreement and "I consider it a serious matter" that funding was rejected by the Unicameral.

"But if there's a different way to do things (without hte panel), I'd say 'fine'."

Gov. J. James Exon has suggested the intent of the settlement could still be met by reducing patient numbers without the special panel. An administrative assistant to the governor, William Hoppner, said there has been no contact with either Mason or Thrasher on the idea.

Mel Kammerlohr, assistant attorney general, also said there has been no word from attorneys for either of the other parties in the case.

Hoppner said it appeared the only thing Nebraska can do is wait and see what happens.

The Unicameral was not a party to the agreement. Both sides in the dispute took formal note of that by incuding in the agreement a provision which said specifically the governor agreed to recommend to the Unicameral funding of the special panel but that the lawmakers were on their own in terms of any decisions.

Kammerlohr declined further comment other than to say the associate director of the Commission on Rights of the Retarded for the American Bar Association has written on the subject of financing court orders in such cases.

He said the author of that article, Michael S. Lottman, could reach no concrete conclusion on whether financing could be forced. Kammerlohr noted none in the series of retarded rights cases has gone to the U.S. Supreme Court on that or any other issues.

Lincolnite Dies In Iowa Construction Accident

Council Bluffs, Iowa (AP) — An iron worker from Lincoln died Monday when he fell about 150 feet at the construction site of an Iowa Power & Light Co. plant.

Authorities identified the victim as Steven Kirk, 25, 4628 Tipperary Trail.

Project engineer William Mason said Kirk, an employe of Shurtleff & Andrews Co., was working on the superstructure of the plant about 200 feet in the air when he apparently slipped and fell and struck an iron grating. Mason said Kirk missed a safety net in the fall.

Kirk is survived by his wife, Barbara; a daughter, Cary Ann of Lincoln; parents, Mr. and Mrs. James M. Kirk of Crystal Lake, Ill.; grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul N. Kirk of Lincoln; Mr. and Mrs. Anton Isackson of Brady; brother, Mark A. Kirk of Lincoln; and sisters, Mrs. Tom (Sue) Yaussi of Lincoln and Mrs. Michael (Ann) Lohmeier of Altoona, Iowa.

Services will be 10 a.m. Wednesday at Lincoln Memorial Funeral Home, Dr. Robert Palmer officiating. Burial will be in Lincoln Memorial Park.

Police To Vote On Union

Lincoln police officers will go to the polls April 22 to decide whether they want a union to represent them in negotiations with the city.

If a majority of eligible officers vote to join the International Brotherhood of Police Officers, Local 544, the union then will be the exclusive bargaining agent for union and non-union members alike.

Police employes must be a police officer, sergeant, detective or lieutenant to be eligible to vote.

The election will be by secret ballot and police personnel will have the choice of voting to remain independent.

The election will be held from 7 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the County-City Building on April 22.

Exon Signs Unicam Bill, Lets 'Sunshine' In

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

Gov. J. James Exon Tuesday cleared his desk of the last legislative bills awaiting his action.

Signed into law was the Legislature's version of the so-called "Sunshine Initiative" which requires financial disclosure by elected and appointed state officials, forces lobbyists to detail spending, requires candidates to handle all finances through one bank account and creates the Nebraska Accountability and Disclosure Commission to police the law.

Exon did veto Sen. Ralph Kelly's more modest proposal (LB182) dealing with campaign financing. Exon said the finance disclosure bill duplicates portions of the Sunshine Law.

$175,000 Vetoed

He also vetoed $175,000 from a bill providing for the training of pesticide applicators, saying federal funds could be used for that purpose. Left in the bill was $50,000 in state funds for the pesticide law.

Exon did sign the pesticide bill (LB332) which requires commercial applicators to take a course in the use of pesticides but allows farmers and ranchers to apply pesticides without the training requirement.

The bill was passed in an effort to meet federal Environmental Protection Agency mandates, but there are some doubts it does.

In signing the Sunshine Law, Exon, who was the first to sign the petition drive to enact a similar law, said, "I have consistently been a supporter of tighter campaign financing, lobbying and conflict of interest disclosure to the public by elected and (appointed) officials . . . I am therefore pleased to sign this bill into law."

Changes Next Year

Nevertheless, Exon said he has some reservations about specific points in the law and will ask next year's Unicameral to make corrections.

Of particular concern to Exon was the procedure for selecting members of the Accountability and Disclosure Commission.

"The procedure whereby the Legislature nominates candidates for the commission to be selected by the governor presents serious constitutional questions," Exon said.

"The constitution provides that the Legislature shall not appoint the officials of the executive branch, and it would seem to me that this bill violates this provision. The Legislature should immediately address this problem during the next legislative session."

Exon's signing of the bill means the petition drive to put a similar but tougher version of the Sunshine Law on the fall election ballot is cancelled.

Dyas Raps Farm Price 'Manipulation'

Holdrege — Democratic senatorial candidate Hess Dyas Tuesday attacked "misguided government manipulation" as a major cause of the roller coaster ride farm prices have taken in the last few years.

Foreign commodity markets have been manipulated "for political and diplomatic reasons," and that action has cost American farmers billions of dollars, Dyas said.

Dyas is on a "bandwagon" tour of 50 communities this week, driving a camper van converted for political duty.

By the end of the week, he will have campaigned in nearly 120 communites, he said.

"Food produced by American farmers should not be used as a tool of foreign policy," Dyas said.

Phantom Pain Usually Real

By George C. Thosteson, M. D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I would like to know about phantom pain in a person who has lost a limb. Is it real, or do people just think it is there when it really is all in the mind? Also, how long do such pains usually last, and what can be done for them? Does hypnosis help? — Mrs. T. B. T.

This is post-amputation pain reported as originating in a missing limb.

In most cases, the term is an unfortunate one, because it usually can be traced to very real causes. More on this below.

There is, of course, speculation about the role of emotions in this. It is understandable that the loss of a limb causes great emotional strains, which, combined with the fact that the pain sensation is carried along the same nerve paths that formerly served the missing limb, complicates things.

But the pain almost always is the result of neural or muscular disturbances at the stump. The most common cause is a neuroma, a tumor which can develop at the end of the severed nerve. A scar formation or an infection of the soft tissue or bone is sometimes a factor. Or a bursa can develop and become inflamed. And one must always look to the artificial limb itself as a cause. The proper fit and use should be checked.

I have no personal knowledge of hypnosis helping in this, although I suppose that where the emotional factors I mention come into play it might be.

Phantom pain (without obvious physical cause) is rarely found in amputees under age six.

There are locally effective drugs to alleviate post-amputation pains. But care has to be taken in use of narcotic pain killers, lest addiction result.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My son, age 28, has for the past two months complained about his ears ringing. He has been to two ear specialists and his ears check out okay. He has lost some high intensity hearing, however. He has had a wisdom tooth pulled on the same side of the head with the bad ear. Can it be ear wax?

Is this a common complaint, and what should he do? — Mrs. A. N.

There are several causes for tinnitus (ringing in the ears). Some are within the ear and others are "systemic," a result of a generalized condition — high blood pressure or anemia, for examples.

I wouldn't call tinnitus a common complaint for someone 28 years old. Your son's loss of hearing for high-pitched tones could be significant, possibly indicating otosclerosis. This involves changes in certain bones within the ear. It is usually found in older persons, but it can occur as early as the teens.

Drugs can cause ear-ringing. Quinine is one of them, and this can be found in certain types of tonic water used to mix highballs. It's just a thought. Another offender is aspirin.

The specialists undoubtedly discounted the possibility of ear wax resting against the ear drum as a cause. It would be important to know of any family history of hearing loss. I suggest further observation, particularly to determine whether the hearing gets worse.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

HEALTH TIP

FROM THE NEBRASKA MEDICAL ASSOCIATION

Bicycle riding is both transportation and recreation. But, bicycle accidents with motor vehicles have been on the rise, and individuals must take responsibility for helping reduce the number of deaths and injuries that result.

The Nebraska Medical Association reports that the greatest number of deaths and injuries occur in the five- to 14-year-old age bracket.

Parents and community leaders must take bicycle riding seriously.

Riders must be taught when and where bicycling is safe.

Riders must be encouraged to keep their bicycles in safe condition.

Cyclists must learn traffic safety laws and cooperate with law enforcement officials.

POSTCARD

by Stan Delaplane

Belize — In the warm morning a small boat came bouncing over the tropic water that is so bright it hurts your eyes. A man came aboard with a handful of small booklets: "Belize Investment Magazine."

An ad on Page 7 said: "Mom's — The Best Eating And Meeting Place in Town!" (Any place where the best restaurant is called "Mom's" should be approached with caution.)

Belize is the sandy capital of British Honduras. There are 5,000 people. Nearly all black. Nearly all Catholic. They live, poorly enough, on shipping sugar cane and bananas and mahogany.

They run their own government. "Mr. Price has been premier for the last 26 years," said the taxi driver. He offered to drive me around town for $10 an hour. "That is the price fixed by the Tourist Board."

He didn't tell me that in one hour you can drive around Belize five times. Maybe back the car around it a couple of times besides.

M/V Odessa, only four months in the competitive cruise business, is scrambling like the rest of the Caribbean ships for new ports to conquer.

Belize probably hasn't seen a passenger ship since Columbus's fourth voyage. "But now we are getting the French ship, Mermoz. The Greek ship, the Argonaut. Now you people, you Russians." (So I look like a Russian?)

On a sandy back street we found the Bellevue Hotel. No Hilton, but it's the only game in town except Mom's. The Bellevue is small and built of stucco. A room with a sea breeze and three meals is $20 a day.

I said: "What's the best rum in B.H.?" "One-Barrel," said the waiter. I said, "Is it good?" He only gave me a sad smile and brought me a glass of it with Coca Cola on the side.

Pirates never grew old on One-Barrel rum.

The electricity had gone off duty — wiring gets some kind of disease in the tropics. The Maya Tavern room was dark as a black cat up a stovepipe.

In the lobby-dining room, the big, lazy ceiling fans (out of a Sidney Greenstreet and Peter Lorre movie) were at full stop.

But a fresh breeze from the sea blows over Belize most of the year. And the Bellevue never closes its doors or windows.

Today's investment opportunity: "Five acres of white sand and coconut trees. Two houses, dock, boat. Sunshine, the Caribbean Sea, the barrier reef, tropical fish. Friendly people and fabulous beachcombing.

"It's all free — except the real estate. And the real estate is only $65,000."

☆ ☆ ☆

The town is green and soft gray. Houses, built on stilts to let the wind blow under them, have turned the weatherbeaten gray that comes from tropic sun and hurricane rain and never a feel of the painter's brush.

The yards are splashed with bright tropic flowers. Everywhere there's a pleasant smell of sun-warmed growing things.

☆ ☆ ☆

"British Honduras can be free of England anytime she wants," said the taxi driver. England gets little from B.H. except the prestige of giving them a figurehead governor and a resident battalion of bored British soldiers.

Across the jungle borders, Guatemala politicians relieve boredom with radio speeches demanding that Britain give British Honduras back. The claim has been going on for hundreds of years.

Nobody pays any attention and it gives a few people something to do.

Panel Alternatives Not Ruled Out

By United Press International

A U.S. Justice Department attorney said Tuesday he is willing to look at any alternative the state of Nebraska may offer to a special panel created to implement an out-of-court settlement in the Beatrice State Home lawsuit.

"I'm willing to listen as long as the alternative, if there is one, does not compromise the consitutional rights of the retarded," said Lewis Thrasher of Washington, D.C., in a telephone interview.

As to reports an action is being actively considered, Thrasher said "I never said that and I will not discuss it," adding "really, this is all before the federal court." He also said he told a reporter who asked him that same question "no" three times.

On the other hand, he said "I will not say it isn't so. After all, I don't think even the state entered into this (agreement) to do anything but get results on the need to protect the rights of the handicapped."

Thrasher also said Nebraska officials have yet to present an alternative to the panel and he has not met with state officials since a meeting held in U.S. district court chambers in Omaha two weeks ago.

Bruce Mason, an Omaha attorney representing parents who have children at the institution for the retarded, said he is now working on a "request" for U.S. District Judge Albert Schatz to take another look at the situation.

"We don't know what form our request is going to take," Mason said. "We want an opportunity to see what the problems are and what options are availble to effectuate the agreement."

Both attorneys said they have not reached any agreements between them.

The concern on the part of Mason and Thrasher stems from the Unicameral's decision to remove funding for the special panel from the budget. The panel was given the job of providing guidelines for cutting patient numbers at the home and increasing those being helped through community-based programs.

Mason said he intended to have something before Judge Schatz as soon as possible. If any formal legal action is required he would have it on file "before the end of the month," he said.

Lewis said he considered the special panel an important part of the agreement and "I consider it a serious matter" that funding was rejected by the Unicameral.

"But if there's a different way to do things (without hte panel), I'd say 'fine'."

Gov. J. James Exon has suggested the intent of the settlement could still be met by reducing patient numbers without the special panel. An administrative assistant to the governor, William Hoppner, said there has been no contact with either Mason or Thrasher on the idea.

Mel Kammerlohr, assistant attorney general, also said there has been no word from attorneys for either of the other parties in the case.

Hoppner said it appeared the only thing Nebraska can do is wait and see what happens.

The Unicameral was not a party to the agreement. Both sides in the dispute took formal note of that by ineuding in the agreement a provision which said specifically the governor agreed to recommend to the Unicameral funding of the special panel but that the lawmakers were on their own in terms of any decisions.

Kammerlohr declined further comment other than to say the associate director of the Commission on Rights of the Retarded for the American Bar Association has written on the subject of financing court orders in such cases.

He said the author of that article, Michael S. Lottman, could reach no concrete conclusion on whether financing could be forced. Kammerlohr noted none in the series of retarded rights cases has gone to the U.S. Supreme Court on that or any other issues.

Lincolnite Dies In Iowa Construction Accident

Council Bluffs, Iowa (AP) — An iron worker from Lincoln died Monday when he fell about 150 feet at the construction site of an Iowa Power & Light Co. plant.

Authorities identified the victim as Steven Kirk, 25, 4628 Tipperary Trail.

Project engineer William Mason said Kirk, an employe of Shurtleff & Andrews Co., was working on the superstructure of the plant about 200 feet in the air when he apparently slipped and fell and struck an iron grating. Mason said Kirk missed a safety net in the fall.

Kirk is survived by his wife, Barbara; a daughter, Cary Ann of Lincoln; parents, Mr. and Mrs. James M. Kirk of Crystal Lake, Ill.; grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul N. Kirk of Lincoln; Mr. and Mrs. Anton Isackson of Brady; brother, Mark A. Kirk of Lincoln; and sisters, Mrs. Tom (Sue) Yaussi of Lincoln and Mrs. Michael (Ann) Lohmeier of Altoona, Iowa.

Services will be 10 a.m. Wednesday at Lincoln Memorial Funeral Home. Dr. Robert Palmer officiating. Burial will be in Lincoln Memorial Park.

Police To Vote On Union

Lincoln police officers will go to the polls April 22 to decide whether they want a union to represent them in negotiations with the city.

If a majority of eligible officers vote to join the International Brotherhood of Police Officers, Local 544, the union then will be the exclusive bargaining agent for union and non-union members alike.

Police employes must be a police officer, sergeant, detective or lieutenant to be eligible to vote.

The election will be by secret ballot and police personnel will have the choice of voting to remain independent.

The election will be held from 7 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the County-City Building on April 22.

Exon Signs Unicam Bill, Lets 'Sunshine' In

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

Gov. J. James Exon Tuesday cleared his desk of the last legislative bills awaiting his action.

Signed into law was the Legislature's version of the so-called "Sunshine Initiative" which requires financial disclosure by elected and appointed state officials, forces lobbyists to detail spending, requires candidates to handle all finances through one bank account and creates the Nebraska Accountability and Disclosure Commission to police the law.

Exon did veto Sen. Ralph Kelly's more modest proposal (LB182) dealing with campaign financing. Exon said the finance disclosure bill duplicates portions of the Sunshine Law.

$175,000 Vetoed

He also vetoed $175,000 from a bill providing for the training of pesticide applicators, saying federal funds could be used for that purpose. Left in the bill was $50,000 in state funds for the pesticide law.

Exon did sign the pesticide bill (LB332) which requires commercial applicators to take a course in the use of pesticides but allows farmers and ranchers to apply pesticides without the training requirement.

The bill was passed in an effort to meet federal Environmental Protection Agency mandates, but there are some doubts it does.

In signing the Sunshine Law, Exon, who was the first to sign the petition drive to enact a similar law, said, "I have consistently been a supporter of tighter campaign financing, lobbying and conflict of interest disclosure to the public by elected and (appointed) officials ... I am therefore pleased to sign this bill into law."

Changes Next Year

Nevertheless, Exon said he has some reservations about specific points in the law and will ask next year's Unicameral to make corrections.

Of particular concern to Exon was the procedure for selecting members of the Accountability and Disclosure Commission.

"The procedure whereby the Legislature nominates candidates for the commission to be selected by the governor presents serious constitutional questions," Exon said.

"The constitution provides that the Legislature shall not appoint the officials of the executive branch, and it would seem to me that this bill violates this provision. The Legislature should immediately address this problem during the next legislative session."

Exon's signing of the bill means the petition drive to put a similar but tougher version of the Sunshine Law on the fall election ballot is cancelled.

Dyas Raps Farm Price 'Manipulation'

Holdrege — Democratic senatorial candidate Hess Dyas Tuesday criticized "misguided government manipulation" as a major cause of the roller coaster ride farm prices have taken in the last few years.

Foreign commodity markets have been manipulated "for political and diplomatic reasons," and that action has cost American farmers billions of dollars, Dyas said.

Dyas is on a "bandwagon" tour of 50 communities this week, driving a camper van converted for political duty.

By the end of the week, he will have campaigned in nearly 120 communites, he said.

"Food produced by American farmers should not be used as a tool of foreign policy," Dyas said.

Lincolnites Gobble Up Thousands Of $2 Bills

By LIANE GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

Several thousand $2 bills disappeared in Lincoln Tuesday without a trace.

Postal employes, who were the last to see the crisp, new currency, said they hand-cancelled thousands of the $2 bills just prior to the disappearance.

Bank tellers caught a brief glimpse of the bills as they handed them across the counters to waiting customers and collectors.

The missing bills were described as 2 5/8 by 6 1/8 inches; a mug of Thomas Jefferson on the front and a green-tinted etching of the signing of the Declaration of Independence on the flip side.

"I haven't seen a one," insisted Ron Preston, assistant buyer at Magees. "I think people are socking them away."

Mike Higgins of National Bank of Commerce said as of midafternoon Tuesday the bank had distributed almost 2,400 of the bills.

Daryl Hill, teller supervisor at National Bank of Commerce, said the main vault was cleaned out by late afternoon and the tellers might have enough $2 bills on hand to get them through the rest of the day.

Citibank teller supervisor Cindy Eicher said the bank had distributed its supply — $600 worth — by 11 a.m. and she didn't expect a new shipment until Monday.

NBC's patio office was rationing the bills — two $2 bills per customer.

Even the Federal Reserve bank in Omaha was having a difficult time keeping track of the elusive currency. Hill said he called the reserve bank Monday and "they're out of twos, too."

"I haven't seen any," said Connie Geren, clerk at Brandeis stationary department.

J. W. Novak of Wilber said he hadn't seen one yet, either but he already had plans to "put the first two in a sock for awhile."

The trail of the missing $2 bills eventually led to the U.S. Post Office. There they were. Dozens of them clenched in fists of people waiting in the cancellation lines.

"I almost feel cheap," admitted Roger Leach as he stood in line. "I thought it was neat but I only have two and now I see everybody else has 10 or 15."

Leach was planning to glue Bicentennial stamps to his two bills — one for Nebraska and one for his home state of Texas.

Postal employe Ed White, who was standing in front of a sign that said "Old Postmen never die, they just lose their zip," solved the mystery for certain.

"Since 11:30, I think I've waited on 40 or 50 people," White said about 2 p.m. "The guy next to me has waited on a couple hundred . . . One man came in here with 95 $2 bills he wanted cancelled.

Outside, the Post Office parking lot was jammed. People were parking illegally; others were driving around and around the parking area hunting for empty slots.

White said the Post Office's offer to hand cancel stamps stuck on the bills for proof of first-day purchase was one of the cleverest money-raising gimmicks it has come up with recently.

"The money won't get used. The stamps won't get used. What we're doing is selling a service that nobody will ever use. In effect, it's free money for the federal government."

Are those cancelled and stamped bills still legal tender?

"Sure," said White. "It doesn't deface the bill. I've been telling people if they want to spend them to bring them back and I'll give them $2 apiece."

Wait until he learns they're worth a fraction of what they were back in 1966 when $2 bills were last issued. In fact, Mr. White, they're only worth $1.22.

Ford Speaks Of 'Ethnic Heritage' As 'A Great Treasure'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford scorned the phrase "ethnic purity" Tuesday, but said "ethnic heritage is a great treasure" and should not be destroyed by the federal housing law.

Ford told a White House Rose Garden news conference that "ethnic purity," a term first used by Jimmy Carter, is "not the way to describe the practical situation" involving government housing policy.

Carter used the term earlier this month, then apologized for it after blacks and political opponents attacked him and questioned his attitude toward equal-housing opportunity.

Ford said the real test for Carter will come in the April 27 Pennsylvania primary, which will determine "whether that remark will have any effect on the response he has gotten in black communities in the United States."

In Philadelphia, Carter said, "I am happy to have aroused the interest and the opposition of the President."

The former Georgia governor said Ford "has often expressed his preference not to have me as an opponent and I guess he has now joined the Stop Carter Movement. But what he should know from me is that I am going to stop him in November."

The bulk of the news conference for executives attending a Washington convention of the American Society of Newspaper Editors concerned politics.

Among other things, Ford said he had met again with former Texas Gov. John B. Connally but neither sought nor received endorsement; that Ronald Reagan is a formidible challenger but he, Ford, will win the Republican nomination; and that political attacks will not harm the effectiveness of Secretary of State Henry Kissinger.

He also repeated his oft-made prediction that Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey will be the Democratic presidential nominee.

On other topics, Ford:

—Credited himself and Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld with persuading Congress not to cut defense spending significantly for the next budget year.

—Said he has not discussed any plan of military aid or assistance to the People's Republic of China, although "there may have been some discussion I don't know of at a lower level."

—European countries should not be subjected to Soviet domination.

—U.S. actions would "be appropriate...firm" if Cuba or other Third World countries intervene militarily in other countries.

—"It is not appropriate that I comment" on whether the late billionaire Howard Hughes had any ties with the CIA other than through the mystery salvage ship Glomar Explorer.

Concerning the "ethnic purity" controversy, Ford cited existing housing laws which seek to assure equal opportunity and noted that 1974 legislation grants more local autonomy and responsibility on where housing should be located.

He said he is pledged to uphold these laws.

Black Leaders Back Carter Despite Comment

By United Press International

Jimmy Carter, recovering support from several black leaders after the "ethnic purity" controversy, said Tuesday a win by him in Pennsylvania's primary would take the steam out of efforts to make Hubert Humphrey the Democratic presidential candidate.

In Washington, financial records disclosed that Ronald Reagan's campaign for the Republican nomination was $1 million in debt at the start of the month. President Ford's drive, by contrast, had a surplus of $750,000.

Carter, in Atlanta to open a campaign center, said party leaders are "ganging up" on him and many of those backing Sen. Henry Jackson in Pennsylvania's April 27 primary are actually supporters of Humphrey's undeclared candidacy.

"If I should win in Pennsylvania, which is certainly not a certainty, then I think that would eliminate a substantial part of the emphasis on Mr. Humphrey's 'non-candidacy'," Carter said.

About 1,500 persons in a downtown Atlanta park heard the Rev. Martin Luther King Sr. "forgive" Carter for the "ethnic purity" statement he made in a discussion of neighborhood racial integration policies last week.

King said other black leaders supporting Carter include Detroit Mayor Coleman Young, Rep. Andrew Young, D-Ga., and Ralph Abernathy, president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

State Rep. Hosea Williams led about 50 persons picketing the rally with signs saying "Racism Go Home" and "No Slip of the Lip, the Truth Has Come Out."

In Washington, reports filed with the Federal Election Commission showed all the presidential contenders except Ford need the matching federal campaign funds which were cut off March 23 under a Supreme Court order that put the FEC in limbo.

The shortage of funds has played a major role in Reagan's decision to cut back on his active campaigning in recent weeks, but he is renewing his drive for the May 1 Texas primary.

There are requests for nearly $1.3 million in federal matching money now before the FEC.

Greenwood Man Dead After Pickup Assault

Donald Edelman, 40, Greenwood, died at a local hospital Tuesday morning after being run over by a pickup during an argument Saturday night.

Amended charges against Clyde Rice, 31, 3700 Cornhusker Hwy., Lot 22B, may be filed pending autopsy results, Chief Deputy County Atty. Bernie McGinn said.

Rice was charged Monday with assault with intent to commit great bodily injury.

Police said Edelman was arguing with a man in the VFW Club parking lot, 3800 Cornhusker Hwy., when the man got into a pickup and ran over him.

Edelman was hospitalized in critical condition with internal injuries, a broken pelvis, broken ribs and a broken shoulder.

Businessman Charged With Heroin Count

Omaha (AP) — An Omaha businessman, believed by police to be the main supplier of heroin to the city's white users, was free on bond after being formally charged Tuesday with possession of a controlled substance with intent to deliver.

Charged was Walter D. Odinas, 44, who owns several apartment complexes in the eastern portion of the city.

Odinas, who had no previous criminal record, was arrested Monday at one of his apartment houses.

Police said Odinas had about three ounces of heroin in his hands at the time of the arrest.

Initially, investigators said the confiscated heroin was worth about $40,000 to $50,000 on the street, but after laboratory tests, the estimated value was upped to between $150,000 and $272,000, depending on how the heroin was "cut."

Dig They Did

TOKYO (AP) — Chinese miners celebrated the ouster of "capitalist roader" Teng Hsiao-ping as vice premier by mining a national record of 11,107 tons of coal in 24 hours at the Kailuan mine, a Peking broadcast reported.

To Your Good Health:

Phantom Pain Usually Real

By George C. Thosteson, M. D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I would like to know about phantom pain in a person who has lost a limb. Is it real, or do people just think it is there when it really is all in the mind? Also, how long do such pains usually last, and what can be done for them? Does hypnosis help? — Mrs. T. B. T.

This is post-amputation pain reported as originating in a missing limb.

In most cases, the term is an unfortunate one, because it usually can be traced to very real causes. More on this below.

There is, of course, speculation about the role of emotions in this. It is understandable that the loss of a limb causes great emotional strains, which, combined with the fact that the pain sensation is carried along the same nerve paths that formerly served the missing limb, complicates things.

But the pain almost always is the result of neural or muscular disturbances at the stump. The most common cause is a neuroma, a tumor which can develop at the end of the severed nerve. A scar formation or an infection of the soft tissue or bone is sometimes a factor. Or a bursa can develop and become inflamed. And one must always look to the artificial limb itself as a cause. The proper fit and use should be checked.

I have no personal knowledge of hypnosis helping in this, although I suppose that where the emotional factors I mention come into play it might be.

Phantom pain (without obvious physical cause) is rarely found in amputees under age six.

There are locally effective drugs to alleviate post-amputation pains. But care has to be taken in use of narcotic pain killers, lest addiction result.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My son, age 28, has for the past two months complained about his ears ringing. He has been to two ear specialists and his ears check out okay. He has lost some high intensity hearing, however. He has had a wisdom tooth pulled on the same side of the head with the bad ear. Can it be ear wax?

Is this a common complaint, and what should he do? — Mrs. A. N.

There are several causes for tinnitus (ringing in the ears). Some are within the ear and others are "systemic," a result of a generalized condition — high blood pressure or anemia, for examples.

I wouldn't call tinnitus a common complaint for someone 28 years old. Your son's loss of hearing for high-pitched tones could be significant, possibly indicating otosclerosis. This involves changes in certain bones within the ear. It is usually found in older persons, but it can occur as early as the teens.

Drugs can cause ear-ringing. Quinine is one of them, and this can be found in certain types of tonic water used to mix highballs. It's just a thought. Another offender is aspirin.

The specialists undoubtedly discounted the possibility of ear wax resting against the ear drum as a cause. It would be important to know of any family history of hearing loss. I suggest further observation, particularly to determine whether the hearing gets worse.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

HEALTH TIP

FROM THE NEBRASKA MEDICAL ASSOCIATION

Bicycle riding is both transportation and recreation. But, bicycle accidents with motor vehicles have been on the rise, and individuals must take responsibility for helping reduce the number of deaths and injuries that result.

The Nebraska Medical Association reports that the greatest number of deaths and injuries occur in the five- to 14-year-old age bracket.

Parents and community leaders must take bicycle riding seriously.

Riders must be taught when and where bicycling is safe.

Riders must be encouraged to keep their bicycles in safe condition.

Cyclists must learn traffic safety laws and cooperate with law enforcement officials.

POSTCARD

by Stan Delaplane

Belize — In the warm morning a small boat came bouncing over the tropic water that is so bright it hurts your eyes. A man came aboard with a handful of small booklets: "Belize Investment Magazine."

An ad on Page 7 said: "Mom's — The Best Eating And Meeting Place in Town!" (Any place where the best restaurant is called "Mom's" should be approached with caution.)

Belize is the sandy capital of British Honduras. There are 5,000 people. Nearly all black. Nearly all Catholic. They live, poorly enough, on shipping sugar cane and bananas and mahogany.

They run their own government. "Mr. Price has been premier for the last 26 years," said the taxi driver. He offered to drive me around town for $10 an hour. "That is the price fixed by the Tourist Board."

He didn't tell me that in one hour you can drive around Belize five times. Maybe back the car around it a couple of times besides.

M/V Odessa, only four months in the competitive cruise business, is scrambling like the rest of the Caribbean ships for new ports to conquer.

Belize probably hasn't seen a passenger ship since Columbus's fourth voyage. "But now we are getting the French ship, Mermoz. The Greek ship, the Argonaut. Now you people, you Russians." (So I look like a Russian?)

On a sandy back street we found the Bellevue Hotel. No Hilton, but it's the only game in town except Mom's. The Bellevue is small and built of stucco. A room with a sea breeze and three meals is $20 a day.

I said: "What's the best rum in B.H.?" "One-Barrel," said the waiter. I said, "Is it good?" He only gave me a sad smile and brought me a glass of it with Coca Cola on the side.

Pirates never grew old on One-Barrel rum.

The electricity had gone off duty — wiring gets some kind of disease in the tropics. The Maya Tavern room was dark as a black cat up a stovepipe.

In the lobby-dining room, the big, lazy ceiling fans (out of a Sidney Greenstreet and Peter Lorre movie) were at full stop.

But a fresh breeze from the sea blows over Belize most of the year. And the Bellevue never closes its doors or windows.

Today's investment opportunity: "Five acres of white sand and coconut trees. Two houses, dock, boat. Sunshine, the Caribbean Sea, the barrier reef, tropical fish. Friendly people and fabulous beachcombing.

☆ ☆ ☆

The town is green and soft gray. Houses, built on stilts to let the wind blow under them, have turned the weatherbeaten gray that comes from tropic sun and hurricane rain and never a feel of the painter's brush.

The yards are splashed with bright tropic flowers. Everywhere there's a pleasant smell of sun-warmed growing things.

"British Honduras can be free of England anytime she wants," said the taxi driver. England gets little from B.H. except the prestige of giving them a figurehead governor and a resident battalion of bored British soldiers.

Across the jungle borders, Guatemala politicians relieve boredom with radio speeches demanding that Britain give British Honduras back. The claim has been going on for hundreds of years.

Nobody pays any attention and it gives a few people something to do.

Grocery Stores Said Unsanitary

By J. L. SCHMIDT
Star Staff Writer

Lincoln grocers could use a lesson in sanitary conditions in preparation, packaging and distribution of the food in their stores, and the Lincoln-Lancaster County Health Department is going to give it to them.

That decision came at a regular meeting of the health board Tuesday night after the results of a report on the conditions in 45 grocery stores was presented to the board.

Calling the results of the survey "astounding," Dr. Ed Lyman, health department director, recommended the educational and other follow-up services by the division of environmental health. A member of that division explained the results of the findings of a survey completed in late January.

The board authorized the survey after receiving a request from Mayor Helen Boosalis based on "citizen complaints concerning the sanitary conditions existing in the preparation, packaging, and distribution of food" in the stores.

Of the stores surveyed, 14 were IGA, 13 independents, eight Safeway and five each of Hinky Dinky and Jack and Jill. Sanitation standards were adapted from the Omaha-Douglas County Municipal Code governing the regulation of food stores and meat markets.

Seventeen major areas were inspected and the results were charted on bar graphs according to percentage of total stores failing to comply with the major areas. The criteria were similar to standards used to inspect restaurants under an existing Lincoln Municipal Code.

Stores were inspected by food sanitarians from Jan. 19-26. In general, the report stated, "it was not uncommon to find several deficiencies in any single major area of sanitation."

"In all major areas of sanitation, the infractions involved could affect grocery product quality and safety," the report noted. The graphic results made it difficult "to represent the extent of the sanitary status noted in the survey through mere numbers," so, "a number of instances have been documented and presented," the report said.

Some of those instances:

—"At one grocery store a putrid odor was detected coming from the meat saw. Meat carcasses were found hanging from metal meat hooks which were supported by a 2x4 covered with mold and mildew. The ceiling and walls in the walk-in were buckling and in need of replacement.

—"In attempting to step over boxes that were stored directly in front of the steps to the second floor, the sanitarian nearly fell when the handrail almost gave way. Located on the second floor of the store were different types of stored display items, paper debris, and a bird's nest in a ventilation system.

—"Expired dated merchandise was still for sale at one meat counter. The merchandise was marked "Sell by December 2, 1975. The survey took place during the second week of January 1976.

—"Corn dogs displayed in the meatcase at another location had insect larva beneath the packages."

The board authorized the educational program which will be augmented by showing the individual store owners the report for their store. A follow-up survey will be conducted after the stores have had a chance to comply with recommendations.

All of the stores inspected were found deficient in the area of storage, display and selling of foods. More than 50% were deficient in the sanitation of floors, walls and ceilings, construction of equipment and utensils, cleaning and bacterial treatment of equipment and utensils, refrigeration and wholesomeness, the report stated.

The report made no attempt to rank the stores as good, better or best, on the basis of the report, Lyman noted. Instead, the areas were dealt with as overall matters of concern, he concluded.

Hit Play 'Equus' Will Be Movie

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The London and Broadway hit play "Equus" has been acquired for motion pictures by producers Elliott Kastner and Lester Persky.

Sidney Lumet, who directed "Dog Day Afternoon," will direct the film for United Artists release. The psychological drama has starred Anthony Hopkins, Anthony Perkins and at present Richard Burton during its New York engagement.

Peter Shaffer wrote the screenplay from his own play script. Production is scheduled to start Sept. 15 in England.

Symphony Has 'Old Home Week'

By RICHARD GRACE

It was "Old Home Week" on the O'Donnel Stage Tuesday evening for the final subscription concert of the Lincoln Symphony's current season. Returning to Lincoln was Soprano Barbara Hendricks, who began her singing career in this city, and Conductor Emeritus Leo Kopp, who completed 30 years of leadership as the symphony's director. Many former and present players of the orchestra received awards for their many years of service after intermission.

Ms. Hendricks, who attended Nebraska Wesleyan University and graduated from University of Nebraska-Lincoln with a B.S. in chemistry, has had her career sky-rocket during the past few seasons. She sang a Mozart concert aria, "Vorrei spiegarvi," "Depuis le jour" from Charpentier's "Louise" and Doretta's aria from "La Rondine" by Puccini. Her voice, which borders between a lyric and coloratura soprano, shows a long range, fine vocal control (as demonstrated by some lovely high pianissimos) and deep sensitivity to the musical language. She had a few problems managing the excessive demands of Mozart, perhaps due to vocal fatigue since she has been quite active in performances in the last few weeks. However, the Charpentier aria, and especially her encore aria of Puccini, were exquisite and her brightly focused tone easily filled the hall. Ms. Hendricks is a talented young singer with a bright future and Lincoln is proud that she refers to this city as her "home."

The orchestra played some oft-performed works, opening with the short but exciting "Fanfare for the Common Man" for brass and percussion by Copland, Moussorgsky's "A Night on the Bald Mountain," three dances from "The Three-Cornered Hat" by De Falla and Wagner's prelude to "Die Meistersinger."

It would be great to report that the orchestra had another successful evening, but that was simply not the case. The lack of ensemble precision in many of the more difficult passages was evidence and it appeared that the players were not able to readjust to the conducting techniques of their former director, Lee Kopp.

The Lincoln Symphony will conclude their celebration of the 50th season with a special presentation performance of Beethoven's Ninth Symphony on April 25 at Pershing Auditorium.

County Has Mass Gathering Rules

By NANCY HICKS
Star Staff Writer

Commissioner Bruce Hamilton got his wish. The Lancaster County Board finally made the mass gathering guidelines a part of its history.

Unspecific guidelines which make promoters of mass gatherings work closely with the city-county health department, but leave final decisions up to the County Board were passed on a 2 to 1 vote.

Only Commissioner Robert Colin, who wanted restrictive time rules and warnings against the use of narcotics written into the guidelines, voted against the flexible standards.

Under state law any group or person who wants to hold an outdoor event open to the public on private property that is outside the city limits must apply for a county amusement license.

The guidelines assure that the promoters will present safety, health and sanitation plans to the health department and work with both the health department and law enforcement agencies.

Then the County Board will look at the plans, listen to health department advice, and after a public hearing decide the exact terms of the amusement license.

The few specifics in the guidelines include the following:

— A warning that state law prohibits sale, possession and even consumption of alcoholic beverages at a pulic gathering.

— Promoters must apply for a license at least 30 days before the event.

— A rule that the event cannot be held within 500 feet of other occupied property unless a written waiver is obtained.

— A rule noise level at the site perimeter can be no more than 70 decibels.

— Specific bonding and insurance requirements for events.

The guidelines were designed primarily for outdoor concerts, but also include such events as carnivals, circuses, and fairs.

Only Ron Wylie, a candidate for the state Unicameral, spoke against the guidelines. Wylie urged commissioners to do away with any guidelines, saying that the state amendment license law and the county actions violated the First Amendment right to peaceable assembly.

In other action, the board set a $43,031 salary for the director and $41,000 and $36,500 salaries for psychiatrists at the Lancaster County Community Health Center. The board also approved a $1,200 raise for each position beginning in July.

These are the same salaries and raises that the three men were getting as state employes. The center became a county operation this week under a state mandated transfer from state to local control.

Under state law, employes were guaranteed that they would lose no income in the transfer.

As a part of the transfer, the board changed the center's name from Lincoln-Lancaster County to Lancaster County, approved the by-laws and appointed a citizen's advisory committee.

Named to the committee were Mrs. Pat Baumert, John Baylor, Mrs. Rowena Boykin, Donald Bredthaer, Shirley Cayou, Marci Crawford, John Doyle, Judge Donald R. Grant, William M. Grossman, Jacqui Herman, Eldon Heskett, Dr. W. Ray Hill, Larry Nelson, Dr. Mary Lou Novak, Lu Pansing, Jim Rakers, Rev. John E. Scavo, Micki Seiboldt, John F. Wells, Walter Whittaker and Norma Young. Ex-officio members are Howard Halpern and James Zietlow.

The board also approved a contract between the county attorney's office and the State Welfare Department which gives the county attorney authority to do child support work with a 75% reimbursement for costs from the state.

Ford Okays Aid To North Dakota

Washington (UPI) — President Ford declared North Dakota eligible for federal disaster aid because of severe flooding in the state.

The flooding began March 20 and the White House said Ford's action will permit use of federal money to provide temporary housing for families that lost their homes.

Lincolnites Gobble Up Thousands Of $2 Bills

By LIANE GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

Several thousand $2 bills disappeared in Lincoln Tuesday without a trace

Postal employes who were the last to see the crisp new currency said they hand-cancelled thousands of the $2 bills just prior to the disappearance

Bank tellers caught a brief glimpse of the bills as they handed them across the counters to waiting customers and collectors

The missing bills were described as 2 5/8 by 6 1/8 inches a mug of Thomas Jefferson on the front and a green tinted etching of the signing of the Declaration of Independence on the flip side

I haven t seen a one insisted Ron Preston assistant buyer at Magees ' I think people are socking them away

Mike Higgins of National Bank of Commerce said as of midafternoon Tuesday the bank had distributed almost 2,400 of the bills

Daryl Hill, teller supervisor at National Bank of Commerce, said the main vault was cleaned out by late afternoon and the tellers might have enough $2 bills on hand to get them through the rest of the day

Citibank teller supervisor Cindy Eicher said the bank had distributed its supply — $600 worth — by 11 a m and she didn t expect a new shipment until Monday

NBC s patio office was rationing the bills — two $2 bills per customer

Even the Federal Reserve bank in Omaha was having a difficult time keeping track of the elusive currency Hill said he called the reserve bank Monday and "they re out of twos, too

' I haven t seen any " said Connie Geren, clerk at Brandeis stationary department

J W Novak of Wilber said he hadn t seen one yet either but he already had plans to ' put the first two in a sock for awhile "

The trail of the missing $2 bills eventually led to the U S Post Office There they were Dozens of them clenched in fists of people waiting in the cancellation lines

I almost feel cheap," admitted Roger Leach as he stood in line "I thought it was neat but I only have two and now I see everybody else has 10 or 15

Leach was planning to glue Bicentennial stamps to his two bills — one for Nebraska and one for his home state of Texas

Postal employe Ed White, who was standing in front of a sign that said "Old Postmen never die they just lose their zip," solved the mystery for certain

' Since 11 30, I think I ve waited on 40 or 50 people ' White said about 2 p m "The guy next to me has waited on a couple hundred

One man came in here with 95 $2 bills he wanted cancelled

Outside, the Post Office parking lot was jammed People were parking illegally others were driving around and around the parking area hunting for empty slots

White said the Post Office s offer to hand cancel stamps stuck on the bills for proof of first-day purchase was one of the cleverest money raising gimmicks it has come up with recently

The money won t get used The stamps won t get used What we re doing is selling a service that nobody will ever use In effect, it s free money for the federal government '

Are those cancelled and stamped bills still legal tender?

Sure, said White ' It doesn't deface the bill I ve been telling people if they want to spend them to bring them back and I ll give them $2 apiece "

Wait until he learns they're worth a fraction of what they were back in 1966 when $2 bills were last issued In fact, Mr White, they're only worth $1 22

Greenwood Man Dead After Pickup Assault

Donald Edelman 40, Greenwood died at a local hospital Tuesday morning after being run over by a pickup during an argument Saturday night

Amended charges against Clyde Rice 31 3700 Cornhusker Hwy Lot 22B, may be filed pending autopsy results, Chief Deputy County Atty Bernie McGinn said

Rice was charged Monday with assault with intent to commit great bodily injury

Police said Edelman was arguing with a man in the VFW Club parking lot 3800 Cornhusker Hwy, when the man got into a pickup and ran over him

Edelman was hospitalized in critical condition with internal injuries a broken pelvis broken ribs and a broken shoulder

Businessman Charged With Heroin Count

Omaha (AP) — An Omaha businessman, believed by police to be the main supplier of heroin to the city s white users, was free on bond after being formally charged Tuesday with possession of a controlled substance with intent to deliver

Charged was Walter D Odinas, 44, who owns several apartment complexes in the eastern portion of the city

Odinas who had no previous criminal record, was arrested Monday at one of his apartment houses

Police said Odinas had about three ounces of heroin in his hands at the time of the arrest

Initially, investigators said the confiscated heroin was worth about $40,000 to $50,000 on the street, but after laboratory tests, the estimated value was upped to between $150,000 and $272,000, depending on how the heroin was "cut "

Dig They Did

Ford Speaks Of 'Ethnic Heritage' As 'A Great Treasure'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford scorned the phrase "ethnic purity" Tuesday, but said ' ethnic heritage is a great treasure ' and should not be destroyed by the federal housing law

Ford told a White House Rose Garden news conference that "ethnic purity," a term first used by Jimmy Carter, is "not the way to describe the practical situation" involving government housing policy

Carter used the term earlier this month, then apologized for it after blacks and political opponents attacked him and questioned his attitude toward equal-housing opportunity

Ford said the real test for Carter will come in the April 27 Pennsylvania primary, which will determine "whether that remark will have any effect on the response he has gotten in black communities in the United States "

In Philadelphia, Carter said, "I am happy to have aroused the interest and the opposition of the President "

The former Georgia governor said Ford "has often expressed his preference not to have me as an opponent and I guess he has now joined the Stop Carter Movement But what he should know from me is that I am going to stop him in November "

The bulk of the news conference for executives attending a Washington convention of the American Society of Newspaper Editors concerned politics

Among other things, Ford said he had met again with former Texas Gov John B Connally but neither sought nor received endorsement, that Ronald Reagan is a formidible challenger but he, Ford, will win the Republican nomination, and that political attacks will not harm the effectiveness of Secretary of State Henry Kissinger

He also repeated his oft-made prediction that Sen Hubert H Humphrey will be the Democratic presidential nominee

On other topics, Ford

—Credited himself and Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld with persuading Congress not to cut defense spending significantly for the next budget year

—Said he has not discussed any plan of military aid or assistance to the People's Republic of China, although "there may have been some discussion I don't know of at a lower level "

—European countries should not be subjected to Soviet domination

—U S actions would "be appropriate firm" if Cuba or other Third World countries intervene militarily in other countries

—"It is not appropriate that I comment" on whether the late billionaire Howard Hughes had any ties with the CIA other than through the mystery salvage ship Glomar Explorer

Concerning the ' ethnic purity" controversy, Ford cited existing housing laws which seek to assure equal opportunity and noted that 1974 legislation grants more local autonomy and responsibility on where housing should be located

Black Leaders Back Carter Despite Comment

By United Press International

Jimmy Carter recovering support from several black leaders after the ' ethnic purity" controversy said Tuesday a win by him in Pennsylvania s primary would take the steam out of efforts to make Hubert Humphrey the Democratic presidential candidate

In Washington financial records disclosed that Ronald Reagan s campaign for the Republican nomination was $1 million in debt at the start of the month President Ford s drive by contrast had a surplus of $750 000

Carter, in Atlanta to open a campaign center said party leaders are ganging up on him and many of those backing Sen Henry Jackson in Pennsylvania's April 27 primary are actually supporters of Humphrey s undeclared candidacy

"If I should win in Pennsylvania which is certainly not a certainty then I think that would eliminate a substantial part of the emphasis on Mr Humphrey s non-candidacy ' Carter said

About 1 500 persons in a downtown Atlanta park heard the Rev Martin Luther King Sr "forgive ' Carter for the "ethnic purity statement he made in a discussion of neighborhood racial integration policies last week

King said other black leaders supporting Carter include Detroit Mayor Coleman Young, Rep Andrew Young, D-Ga , and Ralph Abernathy president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference

State Rep Hosea Williams led about 50 persons picketing the rally with signs saying "Racism Go Home and "No Slip of the Lip the Truth Has Come Out "

In Washington reports filed with the Federal Election Commission showed all the presidential contenders except Ford need the matching federal campaign funds which were cut off March 23 under a Supreme Court order that put the FEC in limbo

The shortage of funds has played a major role in Reagan's decision to cut back on his active campaigning in recent weeks, but he is renewing his drive for the May 1 Texas primary

There are requests for nearly $1 3 million in federal matching money now before the FEC

HOW MUCH MEAT TO BUY?

Learning to estimate the number of servings various cuts of meat will provide comes only from experience...but the learning does pay off! Pieces of a single cut of meat may vary in the amount of gristle, fat and bone they contain so the exact amount to buy often must be determined at the meat counter. This is one of the reasons it's important to buy meat at a store that close-trims its meats. You'll get more meat and less waste for your money. Here are some guidelines that can help you estimate:

If average amounts of waste are assumed and 3 ounces of cooked lean meat is counted as one serving, a pound of meat will provide--

3 to 4 servings of cuts with little or no fat or bone: flank steak, boneless loin steaks, ground meat, round steak, lean stew meat, boned roast with little fat, liver, center cut of ham, veal cutlets, fish steaks and fillets.

2 to 3 servings of cuts with a medium amount of bone: most roasts, some chops and steaks, ham, poultry, dressed fish.

1 to 2 servings of cuts with much bone, gristle or fat: lamb, pork, or veal rib chops, plate and breast of lamb or veal, spareribs, shank, short ribs, chicken wings and backs.

You may want to serve more than 3 ounces or less than that amount depending on how much each person wants or the size of pieces, such as chicken parts, chops or steaks.

Lincoln grocers could use a lesson in sanitary conditions in preparation, packaging and distribution of the food in their stores, and the Lincoln-Lancaster County Health Department is going to give it to them

That decision came at a regular meeting of the health board Tuesday night after the results of a report on the conditions in 45 grocery stores was presented to the board

Calling the results of the survey "astounding," Dr Ed Lyman, health department director, recommended the educational and other follow-up services by the division of environmental health A member of that division explained the results of the findings of a survey completed in late January

The board authorized the survey after receiving a request from Mayor Helen Boosalis based on "citizen complaints concerning the sanitary conditions existing in the preparation, packaging, and distribution of food" in the stores

Of the stores surveyed, 14 were IGA, 13 independents, eight Safeway and five each of Hinky Dinky and Jack and Jill Sanitation standards were adapted from the Omaha-Douglas County Municipal Code governing the regulation of food stores and meat markets

Seventeen major areas were inspected and the results were charted on bar graphs according to percentage of total stores failing to comply with the major areas The criteria were similar to standards used to inspect restaurants under an existing Lincoln Municipal Code

Stores were inspected by food sanitarians from Jan 19-26. In general, the report stated, "it was not uncommon to find several deficiencies in any single major area of sanitation "

' In all major areas of sanitation, the infractions involved could affect grocery product quality and safety," the report noted The graphic results made it difficult "to represent the extent of the sanitary status noted in the survey through mere numbers," so, "a number of instances have been documented and presented," the report said

—"At one grocery store a putrid oder was detected coming from the meat saw Meat carcasses were found hanging from metal meat hooks which were supported by a 2x4 covered with mold and mildew The ceiling and walls in the walk-in were buckling and in need of replacement

—"In attempting to step over boxes that were stored directly in front of the steps to the second floor, the sanitarian nearly fell when the handrail almost gave way Located on the second floor of the store were different types of stored display items, paper debris, and a bird's nest in a ventilation system

—'Expired dated merchandise was still for sale at one meat counter The merchandise was marked "Sell by December 2, 1975 The survey took place during the second week of January 1976

—"Corn dogs displayed in the meatcase at another location had insect larva beneath the packages

The board authorized the educational program which will be augmented by showing the individual store owners the report for their store A follow-up survey will be conducted after the stores have had a chance to comply with recommendations

All of the stores inspected were found deficient in the area of storage, display and selling of foods More than 50% were deficient in the sanitation of floors, walls and ceilings, construction of equipment and utensils, cleaning and bacterial treatment of equipment and utensils, refrigeration and wholesomeness, the report stated

The report made no attempt to rank the stores as good, better or best, on the basis of the report, Lyman noted Instead, the areas were dealt with as overall matters of concern, he concluded

County Has Mass Gathering Rules

By NANCY HICKS
Star Staff Writer

Commissioner Bruce Hamilton got his wish The Lancaster County Board finally made the mass gathering guidelines a part of its history

Unspecific guidelines which make promoters of mass gatherings work closely with the city-county health department, but leave final decisions up to the County Board were passed on a 2 to 1 vote

Only Commissioner Robert Colin, who wanted restrictive time rules and warnings against the use of narcotics written into the guidelines, voted against the flexible standards

Under state law any group or person who wants to hold an outdoor event open to the public on private property that is outside the city limits must apply for a county amusement license

The guidelines assure that the promoters will present safety, health and sanitation plans to the health department and work with both the health department and law enforcement agencies

Then the County Board will look at the plans, listen to health department advice, and after a public hearing decide the exact terms of the amusement license

The few specifics in the guidelines include the following

— A warning that state law prohibits sale, possession and even consumption of alcoholic beverages at a pulic gathering

— Promoters must apply for a license at least 30 days before the event

— A rule that the event cannot be held within 500 feet of other occupied property unless a written waiver is obtained

— A rule noise level at the site perimeter can be no more than 70 decibels

— Specific bonding and insurance requirements for events

The guidelines were designed primarily for outdoor concerts, but also include such events as carnivals circuses, and fairs

Only Ron Wylie, a candidate for the state Unicameral, spoke against the guidelines Wylie urged commissioners to do away with any guidelines, saying that the state amendment license law and the county actions violated the First Amendment right to peaceable assembly

In other action the board set a $43 031 salary for the director and $41 000 and $36,500 salaries for psychiatrists at the Lancaster County Community Health Center The board also approved a $1 200 raise for each position beginning in July

These are the same salaries and raises that the three men were getting as state employes The center became a county operation this week under a state mandated transfer from state to local control

Under state law employes were guaranteed that they would lose no income in the transfer

As a part of the transfer the board changed the center s name from Lincoln-Lancaster County to Lancaster County, approved the by-laws and appointed a citizen s advisory committee

The board also approved a contract between the county attorney s office and the State Welfare Department which gives the county attorney authority to do child support work with a 75% reimbursement for costs from the state

Symphony Has 'Old Home Week'

By RICHARD GRACE

It was "Old Home Week" on the O'Donnel Stage Tuesday evening for the final subscription concert of the Lincoln Symphony's current season Returning to Lincoln was Soprano Barbara Hendricks, who began her singing career in this city, and Conductor Emeritus Leo Kopp, who completed 30 years of leadership as the symphony's director Many former and present players of the orchestra received awards for their many years of service after intermission

Ms Hendricks, who attended Nebraska Wesleyan University and graduated from University of Nebraska-Lincoln with a B.S in chemistry, has had her career sky-rocket during the past few seasons She sang a Mozart concert aria, "Vorrei spiegarvi," "Depuis le jour" from Charpentier's "Louise" and Doretta's aria from "La Rondine" by Puccini Her voice, which borders between a lyric and coloratura soprano, shows a long range, fine vocal control (as demonstrated by some lovely high pianissimos) and deep sensitivity to the musical language She had a few problems managing the excessive demands of Mozart, perhaps due to vocal fatigue since she has been quite active in performances in the last few weeks However the Charpentier aria and especially her encore aria of Puccini, were exquisite and her brightly focused tone easily filled the hall Ms Hendricks is a talented young singer with a bright future and Lincoln is proud that she refers to this city as her "home "

The orchestra played some oft-performed works, opening with the short but exciting "Fanfare for the Common Man" for brass and percussion by Copland, Moussorgsky's "A Night on the Bald Mountain," three dances from "The Three-Cornered Hat by De Falla and Wagner s prelude to "Die Meistersinger "

It would be great to report that the orchestra had another successful evening, but that was simply not the case The lack of ensemble precision in many of the more difficult passages was evidence and it appeared that the players were not able to readjust to the conducting techniques of their former director Lee Kopp

The Lincoln Symphony will conclude their celebration of the 50th season with a special presentation performance of Beethoven s Ninth Symphony on April 25 at Pershing Auditorium

Faculty Recommends Pay Divvy

By DICK HOLMAN
Star Staff Writer

After spirited debate Tuesday on how University of Nebraska pay increases should be awarded this fall, the Lincoln campus Faculty Senate endorsed a study with recommendations to guide the chancellor in dividing the 7% boost.

The study proposes that 4% be used to make parity adjustments that would improve UNL's competitive faculty pay levels, 1% to reward meritorious individual performance and 2% for a cost-of-living increase.

UNL Interim Chancellor Adam Breckenridge will meet Wednesday with the Faculty Senate executive committee to discuss the pay budget. NU President D. B. Varner met with his President's Council Tuesday and reportedly considered imposing restrictions on authorizing merit pay.

With that possibility, the senate unanimously instructed its executive officers to try to persuade Breckenridge and Varner not to divide merit pay on a formula basis, but to leave that to deans of UNL academic colleges.

Sen. Donald C. Haack, executive mechanics professor, cited an unsubstantiated report that NU system officials are considering giving faculty a 3% across-the-board increase; of the remaining 4%, two-thirds would be given to no more than one-third of the faculty.

Four Times As Much

That, Haack said, means the top third would get four times as much in salary boosts as the others. He labeled such a prospect divisive, "completely unjust" and an "unnecessary restriction" which would do "a great disservice" to those meriting raises but arbitrarily falling in the lower category.

Senators largely shared Haack's sentiment that the Legislature never again will award unrestricted pay dollars, to be distributed at NU officials' discretion. He said if merit isn't rewarded this year, given paltry previous sums, "we might as well forfeit the game."

Also sparking hot debate was the 2% provision to meet inflation. "We're headed for disaster" without more, Prof. William B. Campbell, physics and astronomy, described the concern of his constituents and numerous senators as well.

'Aggravate Problem'

But the consensus was that using most or all of the 7% salary increase dollars would only "aggravate the problem" of pay disparities at lower levels, as English Prof. Dudley Bailey put it.

Bailey also characterized the prevailing senate comments, when he pointed out that using part of the pay fund to upgrade parity or marketplace standings means most faculty members would get more than a 2% total increase.

Bailey said he has no doubts some departments will be hurt, but he discouraged "agitating" against Breckenridge or Varner, over whom faculty have "no power." The study proposals would put 6% of the 7% increase in dean's hands, whom "we can get rid of" if inequities aren't improved, he said.

Larry A. Braskamp, assistant to the chancellor and chairman of the committee that prepared the salary study, said the recommendations "probably will not be the same" as those the system office preliminarily drafted. "The regents may approve this Saturday" in their Lincoln meeting.

(The Legislature appropriated separately an additional $200,000 for Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources faculty, to upgrade their relatively lower pay positions.)

3-Year Plan Endorsed

Braskamp said his committee's study and report "essentially endorses" the three-year plan begun last year to bring UNL pay to the average of Association of American Universities (AAU) public member institutions.

First, to distribute the 7% package to UNL college units, the report recommends that dollars from discontinued programs, unfilled budget lines and other sources be used for pay hikes for current faculty.

Other guidelines would allocate salary increases from a college parity fund, a chancellor's discretionary fund for merit awards and the cost-of-living fund. No pay recommendations for Law College faculty are made, presumably because they voted to pursue collective bargaining.

Minimum Proposed

Of the proposed 1% merit pay pool, the report suggests minimum pay levels for associate and full professors. Braskamp said that "affects few faculty members" and would cost approximately $20,000. The minimum for nine-month appointments would be $13,953 and $16,507, and for 11-months, $17,054 and $20,175.

Stressing merit pay as "one of the highest priorities," Braskamp said UNL colleges' distribution of increases to departments and faculty members would be left to the deans and department chairmen. No campus-wide formula would be imposed.

The report indicates that UNL faculty since 1967 haven't increased their earning power comparably to Nebraskans generally or to state general fund (tax) revenue increases.

The study shows that the average pay of all UNL faculty is $17,161 on a nine-month basis, and that about 40% of them in the past three years chose higher-paying employment options elsewhere during summer sessions.

While pay increases would allow approaching parity among competitive universities, discrepancies are wider within UNL colleges, Braskamp said.

Great Disparity

The study revealed that if two faculty members hold equal credentials (rank, degrees, department chairman, age, tenure, for example) with only one variable — such as longevity — the individuals' pay may be thousands of dollars apart.

When compared to eight AAU land-grant universities, the 1,190 UNL faculty in equivalent positions earn from 3.6% to 16.9% less. The discrepancies are pronounced at the associate and full professor ranks, but more competitive for assistant professors. UNL home economics faculty generally exceed averages.

The study also showed that UNL faculty members with nine-month appointments during 1974-75 and 1975-76 got a 6.48% average pay gain, and with all-year jobs, 6.85%, below the combined inflation rates, although exceeding national averages.

Faculty Senate Says 'April Fool' To Tardy

Calling a proposal that students should only have to wait 15 minutes for a tardy professor an April fool-type joke, the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Faculty Senate dispatched the idea to purgatory.

The senate indefinitely postponed the 15-minute proposal after English Professor Dudley Bailey defended the status quo.

"I just assumed this was here because it is April. This is ridiculous. . . . Instructors should be there when the class starts . . . and if they aren't they should be dealt with by the department," he said.

The proposal by the senate's professional conduct committee resulted from an incident in which a faculty member was 30 minutes late to class, explained engineering mechanics Professor Don Haack.

The students only waited 25 minutes and were all given zeroes for the day, Haack said.

Five faculty members received distinguished teacher awards, presented by the Nebraska Builders, a student organization.

The faculty members, elected by the student body during the ASUN elections, were Dr. Dale Flowerday, professor of agronomy; Dr. David Brooks, professor in chemistry; Dr. George Holdren, professor of accounting, Dr. Keith Prichard, professor of history; Dr. Leenhardt Kersten, assistant professor in engineering mechanics and Deanna Eversoll, instructor in human development and the family.

During the May meeting, the senate will be electing a new president to fill the unexpired term of animal science Professor Franklin Eldridge. Eldridge will be on assignment in India from July through November.

NWU Department Head Assignments Announced

Changes in department head assignments at Nebraska Wesleyan University were announced Tuesday by Dr. Frederick Blumer, vice president for academic affairs.

William Pfeffer, associate professor of philosophy, will assume the position of head of the department of philosophy effective next fall, Blumer said. Pfeffer replaces Dr. John M. Walker as head of the department. Pfeffer has been on the staff at NWU since 1966.

In anoher change, Dr. Mel Harp, assistant professor of music, will replace Dr. Charles Tritt as head of the music department. Harp has been at NWU since last fall.

In a faculty election, Dr. Daniel Howell, associate professor of chemistry, has been named chairman of the Division of Natural Sciences. He will succeed Dr. Joe Wampler, professor of mathematics for the five-year term of office.

Ackerman Named Head Of Search Panel AT NWU

Lincoln attorney James Ackerman has been appointed chairman of a 16-member committee that will find a successor to retiring Nebraska Wesleyan University President Dr. Vance Rogers.

Rogers submitted his resignation to the NWU board of governors effective no later than May 1977. The search committee is to recommend three persons for the position by January 1977.

Other members of the committee are:

Judge Warren K. Urbom, Lincoln, vice chairman; Dr. David Mackey, Lincoln, secretary; Eugen A. Conley, Omaha; Mrs. Frank C. Sidles, Lincoln; Keith Wycoff, Lexington; Bishop Don W. Holter and C. Rex Bevins, both of Lincoln; James C. Olson, Kansas City; and E. N. Thompson, Lincoln.

NWU faculty representatives are Dr. Paul H. Laursen and Ruth O. Stephenson; alumni representatives are Marilyn M. Marsh, Omaha, and Dwight L. Ohs, Lincoln; Paul Elofson, Omaha, and Larry Weston, Gibbon, represent NWU students.

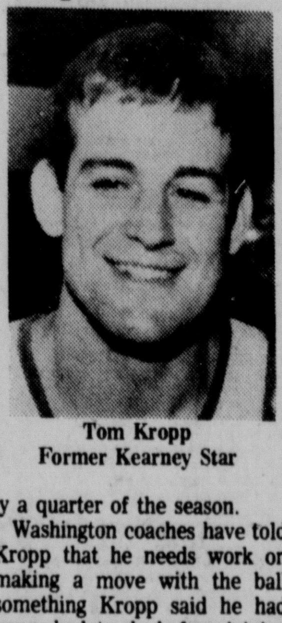
Kropp Prepared For 1st Playoffs



Tom Kropp
Former Kearney Star

Washington (AP) — Tom Kropp, a rookie for the Washington Bullets of the National Basketball Association, said his team is "putting everything behind it and going up to Cleveland to play ball" in the NBA playoffs, which began Tuesday night.

Kropp, who played collegiate ball at Kearney State College, said the Bullets have received quite a bit of local pressure from the media who think Washington ahould have won their division instead of finishing behind Cleveland. Kropp is a native of Aurora, Neb.

Kropp said the Bullets are ready for the playoffs and that either his team or the Boston Celtics are the team to beat in the NBA Eastern Division.

He said he has thought that way all year despite his club's record. Kropp said his own season has been hampered by two separate elbow injuries that have caused him to dismiss nearly a quarter of the season.

Washington coaches have told Kropp that he needs work on making a move with the ball something Kropp said he had never had to do before joining the pros.

He said he was looking forward to the playoffs and especially to next year.

Montreal, Flyers Take 2-0 Leads

From News Wires

Ross Lonsberry and Don Saleski scored second-period goals just 70 seconds apart as the Philadelphia Flyers beat the Toronto Maple Leafs 3-1 Tuesday night and took a 2-0 lead in the best-of-seven-game Stanley Cup quarter-final series.

The Flyers' almost impregnable defense frustrated the sagging Maple Leafs, especially in the second period, when Toronto failed to score with a two-man advantage for 1:50.

The Leafs managed only a total of five shots on seven power play opportunities.

The series resumes Thursday and Saturday in Maple Leaf Gardens, where the Leafs haven't beaten the Flyers since March 14, 1973.

Montreal 3, Chicago 1

Yvan Cournoyer and Jacques Lemaire scored power play goals 14 seconds apart in the second period, carrying the Montreal Canadiens to a 3-1 victory over the Chicago Black Hawks and a 2-0 lead in their series.

Chicago's Darcy Rota had scored the Black Hawks' first goal of the series on a power play at 3:55 of the opening period for a 1-0 lead goalie Tony Esposito protected until defenseman Phil Russell and center Pit Martin were sent off for penalties at 13:01 and 14:18, respectively.

Cournoyer converted passes from Guy Lafleur and Steve Shutt at 14:51, then Lemaire—with help from Yvon Lambert and Cournoyer—put Montreal ahead to stay at 15:05. Cournoyer's tally was the 55th of his Stanley Cup career.

Buffalo 3, New York 2

Danny Gare's goal from short range at 14:04 of overtime helped the Buffalo Sabres overcome a valiant New York comeback to score a 3-2 triumph over the Islanders in Buffalo and take a 2-0 lead in their series.

Gare's shot from 35 feet glanced off New York goaltender Billy Smith and hit the backboards. Center Don Luce retrieved the disc and shoveled it in front to Gare, whose shot from just outside the crease ended the longest playoff game the Islanders had ever played.

It was Gare's second game-winning overtime goal in the five playoff games the Sabres have played this season.

The tally raised Buffalo's record to 7-1 in overtime games in the franchise's history.

The Sabres held New York without a shot on goal in the extra session.

Goals by Denis Potvin and J. P. Parise had brought the Islanders into a tie. Parise's score with just 1:05 remaining in regulation time forced the Sabres into the third overtime contest in their four playoff games at home. Buffalo had won the two previous, in the preliminary round against St. Louis.

Potvin finally cracked Sabres goalie Gerry Desjardins, who—with the help of his defense—had been spectacular in blunting a ferocious New York attack. With 6:53 left in the third period and Buffalo two men short through penalties, Potvin's shot from just inside the Sabres' blue line beat the partially-screened netminder.

Los Angeles 3, Boston 2

Butch Goring tipped in a shot by Mike Murphy during a power play just 27 seconds into sudden death overtime, lifting the Los Angeles Kings to a 3-2 victory over the Boston Bruins and tying their series at one game apiece.

With Boston's Dallas Smith still in the penalty box serving a hooking penalty assessed at 19:09 of the third period, the Kings struck quickly to hand Boston its first home loss in 22 games.

Bob Murdoch fired from the point and his shot was kicked out by Boston goalie Gerry Cheevers. The puck went back out directly to Murphy, who let go a 25-footer.

Cheevers didn't have a chance as Goring steered in the shot.

Veteran Jean Ratelle, who scored two goals in Boston's 4-0 victory in the series opener Sunday, put the Bruins in front by scoring at 5:53 of the first period.

Ratelle connected on a 25-foot shot from the slot, just after the Kings had killed a penalty.

High-scoring Marcel Dionne converted his own rebound after a two-on-one break to tie the score at 3:08 of the second period.

However, Johnny Bucyk, Boston's 41-year-old veteran, regained the lead for the Bruins with a power play goal at 14:31 of the middle session.

Dionne forced the game into overtime by scoring on a short flip after Boston goalie Cheevers made four outstanding saves.

Dionne scored at 6:53 of the third period while Boston defenseman Smith was serving an interference penalty.

Washington Wins Opener

CLEVELAND (AP) — Elvin Hayes scored 28 points and the Washington Bullets held off a furious fourth-quarter rally by the Cleveland Cavaliers for a 100-95 victory Tuesday night in the first game of their best-of-seven National Basketball Association playoff series.

The Eastern Conference semifinal series continues Thursday night in Landover, Md.

The Coliseum crowd of 19,974 was the biggest NBA playoff crowd in history, eclipsing the mark of 19,694 set and tied numerous times by the New York Knicks in Madison Square Garden.

The Bullets blitzed the Cavaliers in the first quarter, shooting 65 per cent from the field and grabbing a 37-19 edge. Washington continued the pressure in the second period and went into the second half sporting a 56-35 margin, their biggest lead of the night.

The Cavaliers began pecking away as Washington's shooting cooled off, cutting the margin to 14 points several times before the Bullets climbed back to 78-60 at the end of the third period.

Cleveland scored the first nine points of the fourth period to cut the margin to 78-69 and kept the pressure on the Bullets the rest of the way.

The Cavs narrowed the edge to six points and had possession of the ball with 54 seconds remaining, but Bullets guard Dave Bing, who scored 24 points, stole the ball from Cleveland's Jim Cleamons with 37 seconds left and Hayes hit one of two free throws to put it away.

Jimmy Chones led Cleveland with 23 points and Campy Russell came off the bench for 19. Cleamons scored 13 of his 17 points in the final period to lead the late charge.

The loss negated the Cavaliers' home court advantage which they won during the regular season by beating the Bullets by one game in the Central Division race.

Milwaukee 110, Detroit 107

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Milwaukee Bucks, sparked by reserve Gary Brokaw's

The Milwaukee Bucks, sparked by reserve Gary Brokaw's career-high 36 points, held on to beat Detroit 110-107 for a 1-0 lead in their best-of-three Western Conference series at Milwaukee.

Bob Dandridge added 21 points for the Bucks and Brian Winters 18.

Only hours earlier, Coach Larry Costello received a vote of confidence from James Fitzegerald, the club's majority stockholder, who earlier had reportedly wanted Costello replaced but said Tuesday he would recommend he be rehired.

The Bucks could win the series bv beating the Pistons at Detroit Thursday. Game three, if necessary, would be in Milwaukee Sunday.

The winner advances to a best-of-seven quarter-final series against defending NBA champion Golden State.

Brokaw, who averaged 8.3 points a game in the regular season, started because regular guard Jim Price had an ankle injury. Brokaw, a second-year player, put in 23 points in the first half.

After the game was tied 12 times, three successive free throws by rookie Dave Meyers gave Milwaukee the lead to stay at 86-83 with 9:53 to play.

Two baskets by veteran Jon McGlocklin and a pair of free throws by Elmore Smith, who scored 16 points, gave the Bucks a 96-89 lead with five minutes to go.

A hook by Bob Lanier, who finished with 25 points, brought Detroit to within 102-97. But Smith responded with two free throws and Dandridge with a basket.

Chris Ford, averaging eight points a game during the season, had 22 points for Detroit.

Sports Signals

Athletes Inventive

Today's athlete seems to be the inventive sort, developing styles that help produce records. Take the case of the high jumper in Wisconsin who put his gymnastics knowledge to use to high jump 7-feet-3, just 3¾ inches shy of the world record.

The only catch is the judges disqualified him after a leap of 6-10½ in a recent meet. His name is Glen Schmeling, of Wisconsin-LaCrosse. They said the cartwheel he did before he went over the bar wasn't legal.

The judges ruled that Schmeling's flight began on two feet and that he has to start movement over the bar on one foot. The opposing coach complained and the judges saw it his way.

Maybe Schmeling can work on a cartwheel with just one foot for a take off.

Poor Facility . . . Untalented Players

Odds and ends around the sports beat:

When Dick Harter, Oregon head basketball coach, turned downthe offer of Colorado to succeed Sox Walseth he looked back a few years to the rebuilding job he had to do to make the Ducks a basketball power:

"As much fun as the first couple of years were here, they were still tough times. (His first OU team went 6-20). You don't look at a situation like Colorado's without looking back four or five years ago. They have a poor facility right now and untalented players. It's a real rebuilding job."

USC 20-18: It's difficult to imagine Southern California's baseball record so far this season is a mere 20 victories and 18 losses. Defending College World Series champion Texas, which is 26-10, defeated the Trojans 4-3 Monday in Austin, Tex.

Signing Day: Wednesday is the first day colleges can sign basketball players to the national letter of intent. Coach Joe Cipriano of Nebraska has had several prospects visit so far, but says he doesn't expect to have any announcements on opening day.

The Metric System: The midwest relay circuit (Texas, Kansas and Drake) is running all individual events at metric distances this year because of the Olympics this summer. Even the Big Eight outdoor meet scheduled for Nebraska's Ed Weir Track in mid-May will use the metric system.

Plucknett Qualifies: Ben Plucknett, Beatrice native who now is a senior at Missouri, has qualified for the NCAA track and field meet with a toss of 198 feet, 5 inches in the discus. He finished second in the Texas Relays with a 198-2 effort. Best throw of the year, so far, according to Track & Field News, is 213-6 by John Powell of the Pacific Coast Track Club.

The 'Pro' All-Americans

Offense: Wide receivers — Billy Brooks of Oklahoma and Sammie White of Grambling; Tight End — Bennie Cunningham of Clemson; Linemen — Dennis Lick of Wisconsin, Rod Walters of Iowa, Tom Glassic of Virginia and Mark Koncar of Colorado; Center — Pete Brock of Colorado; Quarterback — Richard Todd of Alabama; running backs — Chuck Muncie of California and Joe Washington of Oklahoma.

Defense: Linemen — Leroy Selmon of Oklahoma, Steve Niehaus of Notre Dame, Troy Archer of Colorado and Ken Novak of Purdue; Linebackers — Larry Gordon of Arizona State, Kim Bokamper of San Jose State and Kevin McLain of Colorado State; Defensive backs — James Hunter of Grambling, Mike Haynes of Arizona State, Mario Clark of Oregon and Tim Fox of Ohio State.

Nebraska Wesleyan's Scott Votava (12) prepares to slide while stealing second base as Doane's second baseman Bo Gutzwiler tries to catch the ball. The Plainsmen swept the doubleheader at Sherman Field Tuesday, 4-3 and 8-4.

NWU Takes Pair From Doane

By KEN HAMBLETON
State College Writer

Although the Nebraska Wesleyan Plainsmen have won 29 straight Nebraska Intercollegiate Athletic Conference games, coach Ron Bachman is not about to let his team look past any more league games this year.

The Plainsmen were shaken Tuesday afternoon in a doubleheader sweep over Doane, 4-3 and 8-4, at Sherman Field.

In the opener, NWU had to rally for one run in the fifth inning and one in the seventh to top the Tigers. In the nightcap, the Plainsmen didn't take the lead until Jim Hamersky slugged a bases-loaded triple in the fifth inning.

Wesleyan had downed Doane 13-0 and 13-2 in the conference openers for both teams three weeks ago at Crete and the Tigers hadn't shown much since, losing nine of their first 10 games, eight of those by the 10-run rule.

But Doane, the only team in the NIAC without an early spring trip south, is finally catching up to its competition and last Saturday surprised Dana by splitting a doubleheader.

Doane jumped to a 3-0 lead off freshman starter Doug Dawson in the second inning of the opener on a single, two walks and one hit batter before Bachman sent in reliever Ted Hall.

The Plainsmen scored two runs in the bottom of the second when senior centerfielder Mike Reta slammed a towering homer against a stiff wind over the left center field fence, scoring Gene Lessman, who walked.

Wesleyan tied the game in the fifth when Scott Votava singled, stole second and raced to score on a grounder to the shortstop by Bob Blake.

Hall, now 3-2, allowed only five baserunners after the second inning, and none got past second base to keep NWU in the game.

With one out in the bottom of the seventh, Blake reached first on an error and stole second. Then Lessman, who had been suffering from a fever before the game, belted a triple to right field scoring Blake, the winning run.

In the nightcap, the Tigers' Jack Rhein opened with a double, followed by a single by Bo Gutzwiler. Both runners scored, giving the Tigers a 2-0 lead and bringing in Wesleyan righthander Mike Ginn in relief of starter Kim Gloystein. Ginn got Doane's Fran Burke to ground into a double play and then he struck out Tiger pitcher Marty Shields to end the inning.

The Plainsmen scored two runs in the second on two bases-loaded walks with two outs issued by Shields, which brought in reliever Parker Sharman, who ended the inning by striking out Bruce Reed.

Blake put the Plainsmen in the lead in the third inning when he singled, stole second, gained third on a wild pitch and scored on a groundout by Byron Stallworth.

But a double by Doane's Burke, with two men on in the bottom of the inning, put the Tigers back in the lead, 4-3.

Sharman kept the Plainsmen at bay with a good mix of pitches until the fifth inning when Blake and Reta singled and Lessman walked to load the bases before Hamersky's triple to the right field fence.

In the meantime, Ginn, a senior from Wayne, allowed just two baserunners, both on walks, while striking out 11 Tigers.

Wesleyan added two insurance runs in the sixth when Reed singled in Scott Votava, who singled and stole second. Reed then scored on a sharply hit ball by Lessman which the shortstop mishandled.

"We learned a lesson today," said Bachman, whose team is now 13-9 overall and 10-0 in the conference. "We had such an easy time with Doane before, we just weren't up for these games. Doane played very well and is as good a defensive team as we've faced this year."

Bachman said he would start senior pitchers Jack Ball and Larry Abel against the Kearney State Antelopes Wednesday in a doubleheader that begins at 1:30 p.m. at Sherman Field.

Sargent Named To NSAA Post

Conde Sargent, sportswriter and columnist for the Omaha World-Herald the past 10 years, has been named an assistant executive secretary for the Nebraska School Activities Association (NSAA).

The NSAA also announced the appointment of Sue Zinn to an administrative assistant post.

Conde Sargent
Joins NSAA Staff

Mrs. Zinn, assistant athletic director at Omaha Burke, and Sargent will join the NSAA staff on July 1, according to new executive secretary Jim Riley.

Sargent will be an assistant to Riley, who succeeds retiring Les Chamberlin in the NSAA's top position in July. Sargent's duties will focus on publications and public relations, football and basketball rules interpretations, administration of baseball and golf and other activities, including the state football playoffs.

Sargent a former prep writer for the Sunday Journal and Star, succeeded Gregg McBride and has rated high school football and basketball for 10 years for the World-Herald. He was named Nebraska's Sportswriter of the Year five times, including four consecutive honors from 1970-73.

Mrs. Zinn will be an adminstrative assistant. Her duties mostly will be in the area of tennis, swimming, volleyball and gymnastics.

"With the increase in our staff, we believe we have some versatility and flexibility we didn't have in the past," Riley said. "We hope to become more aware of the needs of our schools and provide more services to them and to the fans who support our programs."

Mrs. Zinn also is the girls swimming and tennis coach at Burke. She has experience in the association's rulesmaking process, representing District 2 at the recent Representative Assembly meeting.

Hiring Mrs. Zinn becomes "quite a landmark for us," Riley said. "She is the first woman to break into high school activities administration on the state level."

Rex Jones, another assistant executive secretary, has been on the staff for one year. He will continue duties with football and wrestling and become supervisor of officials.

Ajic Jay Shows Fonner Bettors Where The Money Is

By MARK GORDON
Star Sports Writer

Grand Island — Who says race tracks can't lose money?

"If I had to do it all over again, I'd do the same thing. People come here to bet and if they want, we'll let them," noted Fonner Park general manager Al Swihart after Fonner Park sustained a $2,791.55 loss on the eighth race.

The loss resulted from what is known as a "minus pool." Nebraska race tracks are obliged to pay at least $2.20 for each winning ticket. When breakage and the 15 per cent for the state and track are deducted, there sometimes is not enough money left in the mutuel pool to pay winners.

That happended Saturday in the eighth race when Les Horn's Ajic Jay was an overwhelming 1-5 favorite. In fact, the big money was on the Larry Staroscik-trained horse to show.

Ajic Jay's win total was $16,595, $7,301 was to place and $23,247 was to show. Overall, of the $75,321 bet on the eighth race, $47,143 was on Ajic Jay.

Despite losing by a half-length to Clara Hamilton's Screenplay over a mile course, Ajic Jay returned $2.60 to place and the mandatory $2.20 to show.

That was the largest race loss Fonner has suffered since opening 1954. Still, Swihart admitted he didn't think the race would sustain that great a loss.

"It's hard to know what the public will do," he said. "It's all guesswork. I've been fooled before, but I've never had anything like this.

"I thought the minus pool would be small. I didn't think they'd bet like that with a six-horse field. Even if we had canceled show betting, we probably would have had a minus pool, although it might not have been as big."

At some major tracks with four or five-horse fields and one entrant that looks outstanding, show betting is canceled. When the Meadow Stable's Secretariat ran, show and place betting were canceled on occasions.

In fact, sometimes with a limited field and one standout, no betting is permitted and the race is termed an exhibition.

A few years ago, Fonner canceled show betting when there was a limited field, including a two-horse entry.

"I never thought of doing that (no show betting). It's not fair to the public and I thought there'd be enough bet on the others in a six-horse field," Swihart said.

Meanwhile, in Omaha, Ak-Sar-Ben executive director and general manager Dick Becker said he agrees with Swihart that it's best not to eliminate show betting.

"I feel the same as Al does as long as it's not an impossible situation," Becker said. "It depends somewhat on the size of the field. When we get down to a four or five-horse field, then we have to take a long look at it," he added.

In last year's Ak-Sar-Ben Coronation Stakes, the Kemling Brothers, Inc. entered a three-horse entry of Patsy's Reign, Queen's Turn and Black Heiress in the 10-horse field.

It was bet down to 2-5 favoritism and when Patsy's Reign finished second it created a total minus pool of $7,851.15.

"I don't think Ak-Sar-Ben has ever eliminated show betting since I've been here, but that isn't to say we wouldn't. We'd have to consider a lot of specifics before we'd do anything," said Becker.

Five years ago, the Kemlings raced their outstanding sprinter Bold Accent in the Inaugural Handicap at the State Fairgrounds in Lincoln.

She went at 1-5 odds and created a minus pool of more than $3,000. In fact, like the Ajic Jay race, more money was wagered to show than to win on Bold Accent.

Of the $16,755 bet to show, $13,624 was wagered on Bold Accent.

In fact, despite a lengthy line at $50 window, State Fairgrounds general manager Henry Brandt flashed the signal to let the race go despite the shutting out some $50 bettors — a cardinal sin among race track managers.

But be careful.

"Horses aren't machines. Just because the board says 1-5, the horse doesn't know it. Anything can happen in a race," noted Staroscik after Ajic Jay's loss.

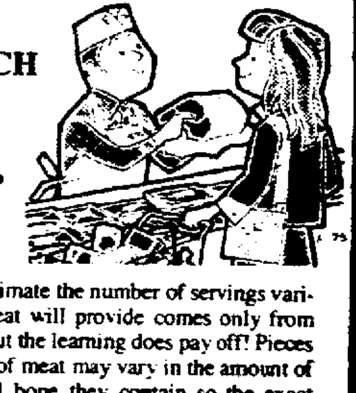
KNOW YOUR FOOD



HOW MUCH MEAT TO BUY?

Learning to estimate the number of servings various cuts of meat will provide comes only from experience...but the learning does pay off! Pieces of a single cut of meat may vary in the amount of gristle, fat and bone they contain so the exact amount to buy often must be determined at the meat counter. This is one of the reasons it's important to buy meat at a store that close-trims its meats. You'll get more meat and less waste for your money. Here are some guidelines that can help you estimate:

If average amounts of waste are assumed and 3 ounces of cooked lean meat is counted as one serving, a pound of meat will provide—

3 to 4 servings of cuts with little or no fat or bone: flank steak, boneless loin steaks, ground meat, round steak, lean stew meat, boned roast with little fat, liver, center cut of ham, veal cutlets, fish steaks and fillets.

2 to 3 servings of cuts with a medium amount of bone: most roasts, some chops and steaks, ham, poultry, dressed fish.

1 to 2 servings of cuts with much bone, gristle or fat: lamb, pork, or veal rib chops, plate and breast of lamb or veal, spareribs, shank, short ribs, chicken wings and backs.

You may want to serve more than 3 ounces or less than that amount depending on how much each person wants or the size of pieces, such as chicken parts, chops or steaks.

Morning Briefing

Buck Exec Now Backs Costello

James Fitzgerald Changes Mind?

James Fitzgerald, a top Milwaukee Bucks' shareholder who reportedly has been seeking to dump coach Larry Costello, told surprised newsmen Tuesday that he would recommend that the National Basketball Association club's board of directors rehire the veteran coach.

Fitzgerald read an eight-paragraph statement. He refused to answer any questions.

Other Basketball

Four University of Nevada-Reno basketball players waived a preliminary hearing on marijuana possession charges. They were arrested last month while sitting in a car parked outside their residence. A police officer reported that he smelled marijuana near the car.

Phil Sellers and Ed Jordan, starters for Rutgers, team are among 25 to 30 players to be invited to try out for the 12-man U.S. Olympic basketball team.

The Golden State Warriors are even money favorites to repeat as National Basketball Association champs, oddsmakers announced.

Football

The Kansas City Chiefs have traded safety Mike Sensibaugh and defensive tackle Marvin Upshaw to the St. Louis Cardinals for second-year defensive back Tim Gray.

California's star running back Chuck Muncie became the first first-round football draft pick to sign when he contracted with the New Orleans Saints for a seven-year contract worth over $1 million.

Sources involved in the negotiations said the contract was worth $1 to $1.6 million for the 6-3, 218-pound all-American.

Lynn Stiles, assistant football coach at UCLA for the past five years, has been named head coach at San Jose State.

Jim Valek, former Illinois head football coach, has been promoted to assistant general manager of the New England Patriots. He had been administrative assistant to head Coach Chuck Fairbanks and a special teams' coach.

An attempt to buy the San Francisco 49ers made by Wayne Valley, former partner of the National Football League's Oakland Raiders, was blocked by Franklin Mieuli, one of the 49ers shareholders, who said he would match any Valley offer.

One of the hottest issues on the Iowa State University campus is whether or not the administration is going to ignore a student vote last fall that requested that the school's year-old football stadium be named after Jack Trice, a black ISU football player who died from injuries in a game in 1923.

Baseball

Ron Swoboda, 31, who had been out of baseball for two years, has given up his efforts to make a major league comeback, a spokesman for the New York Mets said.

Catcher Randy Hundley was reacquired by the Chicago Cubs on waivers after spending two seasons with the Minnesota Twins and San Diego Padres.

Other Sports

The most viable solution to the financial problems plaguing the National Hockey League's Kansas City Scouts appears to be its sale to the owners of the Kansas City Kings of the National Basketball Association, a spokesman said for the mayor's office.

Sweden's Bjorn Borg won and Americans Roscoe Tanner and Marty Riessen went down to quick defeats in the quarterfinals of the Monaco International Tennis Tournament.

Big Ten Aids North Rout

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — The inside strength of Indiana's Scott May and Quinn Buckner and Michigan's Wayman Britt propelled the North to a 121-95 victory over the South in the first Mid-America All-American Basketball Classic Tuesday night.

May, who was named the top college player of the season, scored 21 points. Buckner and Britt tossed in 19 each.

A pair of South Carolina stars led the South's scoring. Alex English collected 20 points and Mike Dunleavy had 18.

But the difference was the power of the trio from the two NCAA tourney finalists. Indiana's Jim Crews guided the North's offense and also contributed 12 points.

Faculty Recommends Pay Divvy

By DICK HOLMAN
Star Staff Writer

After spirited debate Tuesday on how University of Nebraska pay increases should be awarded this fall, the Lincoln campus Faculty Senate endorsed a study with recommendations to guide the chancellor in dividing the 7% boost.

The study proposes that 4% be used to make parity adjustments that would improve UNL's competitive faculty pay levels, 1% to reward meritorious individual performance and 2% for a cost-of-living increase.

UNL Interim Chancellor Adam Breckenridge will meet Wednesday with the Faculty Senate executive committee to discuss the pay budget. NU President D. B. Varner met with his President's Council Tuesday and reportedly considered imposing restrictions on authorizing merit pay.

With that possibility, the senate unanimously instructed its executive officers to try to persuade Breckenridge and Varner not to divide merit pay on a formula basis, but to leave that to deans of UNL academic colleges.

Sen. Donald C. Haack, executive mechanics professor, cited an unsubstantiated report that NU system officials are considering giving faculty a 3% across-the-board increase; of the remaining 4%, two-thirds would be given to no more than one-third of the faculty.

Four Times As Much

That, Haack said, means the top third would get four times as much in salary boosts as the others. He labeled such a prospect divisive, "completely unjust" and an "unnecessary restriction" which would do "a great disservice" to those meriting raises but arbitrarily falling in the lower category.

Senators largely shared Haack's sentiment that the Legislature never again will award unrestricted pay dollars, to be distributed at NU officials' discretion. He said if merit isn't rewarded this year, given paltry previous sums, "we might as well forfeit the game."

Also sparking hot debate was the 2% provision to meet inflation. "We're headed for disaster" without more, Prof. William B. Campbell, physics and astronomy, described the concern of his constituents and numerous senators as well.

'Aggravate Problem'

But the consensus was that using most or all of the 7% salary increase dollars would only "aggravate the problem" of pay disparities at lower levels, as English Prof. Dudley Bailey put it.

Bailey also characterized the prevailing senate comments, when he pointed out that using part of the pay fund to upgrade parity or marketplace standings means most faculty members would get more than a 2% total increase

Bailey said he has no doubts some departments will be hurt, but he discouraged "agitating" against Breckenridge or Varner, over whom faculty have "no power." The study proposals would put 6% of the 7% increase in dean's hands, whom "we can get rid of" if inequities aren't improved, he said

Larry A. Braskamp, assistant to the chancellor and chairman of the committee that prepared the salary study, said the recommendations "probably will not be the same" as those the system office preliminarily drafted. "The regents may approve this Saturday" in their Lincoln meeting

(The Legislature appropriated separately an additional $200,000 for Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources faculty, to upgrade their relatively lower pay positions.)

3-Year Plan Endorsed

Braskamp said his committee's study and report "essentially endorses" the three-year plan begun last year to bring UNL pay to the average of Association of American Universities (AAU) public member institutions.

First, to distribute the 7% package to UNL college units, the report recommends that dollars from discontinued programs, unfilled budget lines and other sources be used for pay hikes for current faculty.

Other guidelines would allocate salary increases from a college parity fund, a chancellor's discretionary fund for merit awards and the cost-of-living fund. No pay recommendations for Law College faculty are made, presumably because they voted to pursue collective bargaining.

Minimum Proposed

Of the proposed 1% merit pay pool, the report suggests minimum pay levels for associate and full professors. Braskamp said that "affects few faculty members" and would cost approximately $20,000. The minimum for nine-month appointments would be $13,953 and $16,507, and for 11-months, $17,054 and $20,175.

Stressing merit pay as "one of the highest priorities," Braskamp said UNL colleges' distribution of increases to departments and faculty members would be left to the deans and department chairmen. No campus-wide formula would be imposed.

The report indicates that UNL faculty since 1967 haven't increased their earning power comparably to Nebraskans generally or to state general fund (tax) revenue increases.

The study shows that the average pay of all UNL faculty is $17,161 on a nine-month basis, and that about 40% of them in the past three years chose higher-paying employment options elsewhere during summer sessions.

While pay increases would allow approaching parity among competitive universities, discrepancies are wider within UNL colleges, Braskamp said.

Great Disparity

The study revealed that if two faculty members hold equal credentials (rank, degrees, department chairman, age, tenure, for example) with only one variable — such as longevity — the individuals' pay may be thousands of dollars apart.

When compared to eight AAU land-grant universities, the 1,190 UNL faculty in equivalent positions earn from 3.6% to 16.9% less. The discrepancies are pronounced at the associate and full professor ranks, but more competitive for assistant professors. UNL home economics faculty generally exceed averages.

The study also showed that UNL faculty members with nine-month appointments during 1974-75 and 1975-76 got a 6.48% average pay gain, and with all-year jobs, 6.85%, below the combined inflation rates, although exceeding national averages.

Faculty Senate Says 'April Fool' To Tardy

Calling a proposal that students should only have to wait 15 minutes for a tardy professor an April fool-type joke, the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Faculty Senate dispatched the idea to purgatory.

The senate indefinitely postponed the 15-minute proposal after English Professor Dudley Bailey defended the status quo.

"I just assumed this was here because it is April. This is ridiculous. . . . Instructors should be there when the class starts . . . and if they aren't they should be dealt with by the department," he said.

The proposal by the senate's professional conduct committee resulted from an incident in which a faculty member was 30 minutes late to class, explained engineering mechanics Professor Don Haack.

The students only waited 25 minutes and were all given zeroes for the day, Haack said.

Five faculty members received distinguished teacher awards, presented by the Nebraska Builders, a student organization.

The faculty members, elected by the student body during the ASUN elections, were Dr. Dale Flowerday, professor of agronomy; Dr. David Brooks, professor in chemistry; Dr. George Holdren, professor of accounting, Dr. Keith Prichard, professor of history; Dr. Leenhardt Kersten, assistant professor in engineering mechanics and Deanna Eversoll, instructor in human development and the family.

During the May meeting, the senate will be electing a new president to fill the unexpired term of animal science Professor Franklin Eldridge. Eldridge will be on assignment in India from July through November.

NWU Department Head Assignments Announced

Changes in department head assignments at Nebraska Wesleyan University were announced Tuesday by Dr. Frederick Blumer, vice president for academic affairs.

William Pfeffer, associate professor of philosophy, will assume the position of head of the department of philosophy effective next fall, Blumer said. Pfeffer replaces Dr. John M. Walker as head of the department. Pfeffer has been on the staff at NWU since 1966.

In anoher change, Dr. Mel Harp, assistant professor of music, will replace Dr. Charles Tritt as head of the music department. Harp has been at NWU since last fall.

In a faculty election, Dr. Daniel Howell, associate professor of chemistry, has been named chairman of the Division of Natural Sciences. He will succeed Dr. Joe Wampler, professor of mathematics for the five-year term of office.

Ackerman Named Head Of Search Panel AT NWU

Lincoln attorney James Ackerman has been appointed chairman of a 16-member committee that will find a successor to retiring Nebraska Wesleyan University President Dr. Vance Rogers.

Rogers submitted his resignation to the NWU board of governors effective no later than May 1977. The search committee is to recommend three persons for the position by January 1977

Other members of the committee are

Judge Warren K. Urbom, Lincoln, vice chairman, Dr. David Mackey, Lincoln secretary, Eugen A. Conley, Omaha, Mrs. Frank C. Sidles, Lincoln, Keith Wycoff, Lexington, Bishop Don W. Holter and C. Rex Bevins, both of Lincoln, James C. Olson, Kansas City, and E. N. Thompson, Lincoln.

NWU faculty representatives are Dr. Paul H. Laursen and Ruth O. Stephenson; alumni representatives are Marilyn M. Marsh, Omaha, and Dwight L. Ohs, Lincoln. Paul Elofson, Omaha, and Larry Weston, Gibbon, represent NWU students.

Huskers Split With Bluejays

Omaha — Nebraska's baseball team slammed Creighton 10-3 after losing the opener, 4-2, to gain a split in a doubleheader here Tuesday afternoon at William Booth College World Series Park.

The games left coach Tony Sharpe's Huskers with a 12-17 record while the Bluejays moved to 14-13. The teams play a 2 p.m. doubleheader Wednesday at the NU Diamond in Lincoln.

In the opener, Creighton tallied three runs in the first inning off starter Kirk Eymann, a lefthanded junior from Papillion. Second baseman Steve Vogel drove in two runs with a triple while third baseman Ron Williams drove in another with a single.

Junior Paul Haas, a former Lincoln Southeast standout, belted a fourth-inning home run for Nebraska to close the gap to 4-1. Another run in the sixth inning wasn't enough as Steve Kleinsmith, a sophomore from Woodbine, Iowa, tallied the pitching triumph.

In the second game, the Huskers exploded for five runs in the first three innings for the easy win.

Leftfielder Dick Anderson, first baseman Larry Winum and catcher Jon Henne each drove in runs in the third.

Anderson and designated hitter Bob Gebler drove in single runs in the third. The Huskers added two runs in the sixth and seventh innings and one in the fourth.

Dave Buehrer, a senior righthander from Downers Grove, Ill., improved his record to 2-4. He tossed a four-hitter in hurling a complete game.

It was the sixth straight doubleheader split for Nebraska.

Jackson Seeking $3 Million Pact

NEW YORK (AP) — Reggie Jackson is holding out for a five-year contract totaling close to $3 million with the Baltimore Orioles, the New York Times reported Tuesday.

Jackson, 29-year-old All-Star outfielder, and pitcher Ken Holtzman were traded to the Orioles by the Oakland A's recently.

Murray Chass, writing in the Times, said Jackson earned around $140,000 last season but had been offered a three-year contract for $525,000 by A's owner Charles O. Finley. When Jackson rejected it, he was traded.

Chass said the Orioles and Jackson were far apart in their contract negotiations, with the Orioles offering around $1 million for five years.

The Times writer said he had learned from a responsible source that Jackson was demanding the following:

—A five-year contract with a salary of $175,000 this year and salaries in the ensuing years of $200,000, $225,000, $250,000 and $275,000.

—A bonus, beginning the sixth year, of $100,000 a year for 15 years, totaling $1.5 million.

—A $250,000 interest-free, five-year loan to Jackson's corporation.

—Lesser payments, not described in detail.

Hank Peters, Baltimore general manager, was quoted as describing the demands "totally unacceptable."

WHA Schedules Special Meeting

By The Associated Press

The third game of the violence-marred World Hockey Assocation playoff series between the Quebec Nordiques and Calgary Cowboys remained in doubt Wednesday as the league scheduled an early-morning meeting in Winnipeg to investigate the brawl that occurred in the second game.

John Dacres, president of the Nordiques, is on record as saying his team will forefeit the series unless three conditions are met.

—He wants a lifetime suspension for Rick Jodzio of the Cowboys, who sent high-scoring Marc Tardif of Quebec to the hospital Sunday night with a severe concussion. Quebec Solicitor-General Fernand Lalonde said Tuesday that Jodzio would be criminally charged with causing bodily harm with intent to injure.

—He wants Calgary Coach Joe Crozier suspended for the remainder of the best-of-seven series in which the Cowboys hold a 2-0 lead.

—And he wants the firing of Bud Poile as the league's vice-president in charge of hockey operations. Poile was an observer at the game.

Dacres at first insisted his team wouldn't stir from Quebec as long as his demands were not met. But he relented when Ben Hatskin, the WHA's chief executive officer, called Wednesday's meeting. The Nordiques arranged to fly to Winnipeg at 7 p.m. Tuesday night but whether they will go any further will depend on the outcome of the meeting.

The first announcement from Hatskin's Winnipeg office said the meeting would be in Calgary at 10 a.m. Then he said it had been switched to 7 a.m. in Winnipeg but that deliberations would continue in Calgary later in the day if the issue was not resolved at the first session.

The coaches and general managers of the two teams and some of their players, including Jodzio, will be present at the Winnipeg sessions, Hatskin said. Poile will also attend.

He added that, assuming the matter is settled Wednesday, the third game of the series will go off as scheduled in Calgary Wednesday night.

One of the principals who will not attend the Winnipeg meeting is Tardif, the WHA's scoring champion who with 71 goals this season joined Bobby Hull and Phil Esposito as the only players in major league hockey to score 70 goals or more.

The Quebec left wing was hospitalized at the Hospital Enfant Jesus until Tuesday afternoon, where he was recovering from the concussion suffered when he was crashed to the ice by Jodzio in the first period of Sunday's game, ultimately won 8-4 by the Cowboys. After his release, he was sent home to continue his convalescence.

A Nordiques spokesman said Tardif would not be able to work out for at least three weeks.

He says he has been told he cannot play for at least two weeks.

Tardif said in the telephone interview: "I don't remember what happened. I didn't see him coming. I didn't know if it was done on purpose . . . or if it was an accident."

UNO Women Sweep NU

Omaha — A fifth-inning explosion gave the University of Nebraska-Omaha softball team an 11-1 win Tuesday over the University of Nebraska-Lincoln in the second game of a doubleheader. UNO also won the first game 3-0.

Deb VanFleet earned the only run for the Huskers in the final inning when she socked a homerun but UNO answered with eight runs in the bottom of that inning, three driven in on Wichman's triple.

UNL's next contest is in Kearney Wednesday against Kearney State.

TORONTO (AP) — The American League is prepared to schedule as many as 40 games in Washington next season in return for the right to place an expansion franchise here, the Toronto Globe and Mail has reported.

The newspaper says Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn will meet with AL President Lee MacPhail Wednesday in Chicago to discuss the proposal.

The Baltimore Orioles would shift 14 of their 81 home games to Washington.

Grid Citation To Veitzer

Omaha — The fifth annual Clarence E. Swanson Memorial Award for outstanding contributions to University of Nebraska athletics will be presented to Irving Veitzer, president of the Omaha Bedding Company.

Veitzer has been active in the Husker Touchdown Club for some 20 years. One of his most cherished duties has been in aiding young Husker hopefuls in employment.

The Award, named in honor of the late Nebraska National football Hall of Fame Member, will be presented to Veitzer at the Nebraska Hall of Fame Chapter's annual banquet, May 14, 6:30 p.m., in the new Domed Center, Holiday Inn, 72nd and Grover.

Ohio State's head football coach, Woody Hayes will make the principal address.

Former Nebraska Wesleyan University standout Cliff Squires and the late Fred Shirey of Nebraska will be inducted into the Chapter's Hall of Fame at the event.

Tickets, at $12.50 each, and table reservations are available to the general public. Order through the Omaha Civic Auditorium Boxoffice or the Hall of Fame Office, 7835 "F" Street, Omaha.

LSE-Pius X Set

The Lincoln Southeast baseball game at Lincoln Pius X, rained out April 8, has been rescheduled for April 20, according to Southeast athletic director Bill Miller.

Fonner's $2 Bills 'Slow'

By MARK GORDON
Star Sports Writer

The $2 bet is still the basic wager at horse tracks, but the $2 bill didn't gain much popularity Tuesday at Fonner Park in Grand Island.

"We only handled about $300 worth of the $2 bills today (Tuesday) said Fonner mutuels manager Tom Borros. "It's a nuisance and it always has been. We never have dealt them back to cashiers to pay off winners.

"In all the years I've been at race tracks, no track ever gave them to cashiers to pay off," he said.

Tuesday morning was the first time the new $2 bills have been available since the Treasury Department removed them from circulation in 1966.

Since the minimum wager is $2 at race tracks, you'd think it would be easier for everyone if one $2 bill rather than two $1s were used.

Not so.

"I don't like them ($2 bills). A lot of clerks confuse the $2 with the $20 and even the 5. They don't see enough of them and aren't used to them," said Fonner general manager Al Swihart.

Borros pointed out that the wooden boxes for sellers and cashiers to put their money in generally contain space for $1, $5, $10 and $20 bills. In some instances, there is room for $50 and $100 bills at the $50 windows.

But another slot will be needed now for the $2 bills so they don't get mixed with the other bills.

"We're not dealing the money back to the cashiers," Borros said. "I just talked with John Vogel (Fonner money room manager) and he said we'll do what we did before (not give it to cashiers).

"I haven't talked to Ak-Sar-Ben yet (the Omaha track which begins its 75-day meeting on April 27 — three days after Fonner closes)," Borros said. "But if the people give it to us, we've got to accept the deuces.

"One person bought a $10 ticket today with five $2 bills," he chuckled.

Borros noted that many track patrons are superstitious about the $2 bills and tear off the corners to "avoid" the bad luck associated with the $2 bills.

"I'm sure we'll get more $2 bills as the season goes along. Today it was a little slow," Borros said, in adding that Tuesday's handle was $318,378 — less than 1% in $2 bills.

Players Wary Of $2 Bill

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The $2 bill is back in town, a bad omen for horse players.

"They'd rather tangle with a live rattlesnake than handle a deuce," said Jim Filburn, director of mutuels at Churchill Downs. "We're not ordering any $2 bills from the bank."

There are two reasons: the May 1 Kentucky Derby, and the fact that many racing fans believe the bills are jinxed.

Filburn said the Downs will have enough problems on Derby Day "without requiring our sellers to fiddle around with these new denomination bills. Suppose a guy buys a $2 win ticket with a $5 bill. Ordinarily, he'd get three singles in return.

"But things get complicated if the seller has a stack of the $2 bills in his cash drawer. He has to stop and decide how he's gonna make change for the customer.

"It wouldn't save us any time," he continued. "In fact, we would have to enlarge our cash drawers. We now have slots for ones, fives, tens, twenties, and a slot for our $50 and $100 bills. If you throw that deuce in there, you gotta have more space."

Churchill Downs has more than 600 betting windows "so you can see what we would be facing," Filburn said.

Spring Fun Run May 2

The Spring Fun Run has been scheduled for 9 a.m. May 2 at Lincoln's Pioneer Park.

Entrants can choose either a four-mile or eight-mile course through the park, and every runner who completes the course will receive a certificate.

The entry fee is $1, and applications are available from the two sponsors of the Fun Run, the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce and the University of Nebraska-Lincoln department of physical education and recreation.

Runners will also be able to register from 7:30-8:40 a.m. the day of the race at the Lee's Restaurant parking lot on West Van Dorn Street near the park.

Kropp Prepared For 1st Playoffs

Washington (AP) — Tom Kropp, a rookie for the Washington Bullets of the National Basketball Association, said his team is "putting everything behind it and going up to Cleveland to play ball" in the NBA playoffs, which began Tuesday night.

Tom Kropp
Former Kearney Star

Kropp, who played collegiate ball at Kearney State College, said the Bullets have received quite a bit of local pressure from the media who think Washington ahould have won their division instead of finishing behind Cleveland. Kropp is a native of Aurora, Neb.

Kropp said the Bullets are ready for the playoffs and that either his team or the Boston Celtics are the team to beat in the NBA Eastern Division.

He said he has thought that way all year despite his club's record. Kropp said his own season has been hampered by two separate elbow injuries that have caused him to dismiss nearly a quarter of the season.

Washington coaches have told Kropp that he needs work on making a move with the ball something Kropp said he had never had to do before joining the pros.

He said he was looking forward to the playoffs and especially to next year.

Washington Wins Opener

CLEVELAND (AP) — Elvin Hayes scored 28 points and the Washington Bullets held off a furious fourth-quarter rally by the Cleveland Cavaliers for a 100-95 victory Tuesday night in the first game of their best-of-seven National Basketball Association playoff series.

The Eastern Conference semifinal series continues Thursday night in Landover, Md.

The Coliseum crowd of 19,974 was the biggest NBA playoff crowd in history, eclipsing the mark of 19,694 set and tied numerous times by the New York Knicks in Madison Square Garden.

The Bullets blitzed the Cavaliers in the first quarter, shooting 65 per cent from the field and grabbing a 37-19 edge. Washington continued the pressure in the second period and went into the second half sporting a 56-35 margin, their biggest lead of the night.

The Cavaliers began pecking away as Washington's shooting cooled off, cutting the margin to 14 points several times before the Bullets climbed back to 78-60 at the end of the third period.

Cleveland scored the first nine points of the fourth period to cut the margin to 78-69 and kept the pressure on the Bullets the rest of the way.

The Cavs narrowed the edge to six points and had possession of the ball with 54 seconds remaining, but Bullets guard Dave Bing, who scored 24 points, stole the ball from Cleveland's Jim Cleamons with 37 seconds left and Hayes hit one of two free throws to put it away.

Jimmy Chones led Cleveland with 23 points and Campy Russell came off the bench for 19. Cleamons scored 13 of his 17 points in the final period to lead the late charge.

The loss negated the Cavaliers' home court advantage which they won during the regular season by beating the Bullets by one game in the Central Division race.

Milwaukee 110, Detroit 107

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Milwaukee Bucks, sparked by reserve Gary Brokaw's

The Milwaukee Bucks, sparked by reserve Gary Brokaw's career-high 36 points, held on to beat Detroit 110-107 for a 1-0 lead in their best-of-three Western Conference series at Milwaukee.

Bob Dandridge added 21 points for the Bucks and Brian Winters 18.

Only hours earlier, Coach Larry Costello received a vote of confidence from James Fitzegerald, the club's majority stockholder, who earlier had reportedly wanted Costello replaced but said Tuesday he would recommend he be rehired.

The Bucks could win the series bv beating the Pistons at Detroit Thursday. Game three, if necessary, would be in Milwaukee Sunday.

The winner advances to a best-of-seven quarter-final series against defending NBA champion Golden State.

Brokaw, who averaged 8.3 points a game in the regular season, started because regular guard Jim Price had an ankle injury. Brokaw, a second-year player, put in 23 points in the first half.

After the game was tied 12 times, three successive free throws by rookie Dave Meyers gave Milwaukee the lead to stay at 86-83 with 9:53 to play.

Two baskets by veteran Jon McGlocklin and a pair of free throws by Elmore Smith, who scored 16 points, gave the Bucks a 96-89 lead with five minutes to go.

A hook by Bob Lanier, who finished with 25 points, brought Detroit to within 102-97. But Smith responded with two free throws and Dandridge with a basket.

Chris Ford, averaging eight points a game during the season, had 22 points for Detroit.

Athletes Inventive

Today's athlete seems to be the inventive sort, developing styles that help produce records. Take the case of the high jumper in Wisconsin who put his gymnastics knowledge to use to high jump 7-feet-3, just 3¾ inches shy of the world record.

The only catch is the judges disqualified him after a leap of 6-10½ in a recent meet. His name is Glen Schmeling, of Wisconsin-LaCrosse. They said the cartwheel he did before he went over the bar wasn't legal.

The judges ruled that Schmeling's flight began on two feet and that he has to start movement over the bar on one foot. The opposing coach complained and the judges saw it his way.

Maybe Schmeling can work on a cartwheel with just one foot for a take off.

Poor Facility . . . Untalented Players

Odds and ends around the sports beat:

When Dick Harter, Oregon head basketball coach, turned downthe offer of Colorado to succeed Sox Walseth he looked back a few years to the rebuilding job he had to do to make the Ducks a basketball power:

"As much fun as the first couple of years were here, they were still tough times. (His first OU team went 6-20). You don't look at a situation like Colorado's without looking back four or five years ago. They have a poor facility right now and untalented players. It's a real rebuilding job."

USC 20-18: It's difficult to imagine Southern California's baseball record so far this season is a mere 20 victories and 18 losses. Defending College World Series champion Texas, which is 26-10, defeated the Trojans 4-3 Monday in Austin, Tex.

Signing Day: Wednesday is the first day colleges can sign basketball players to the national letter of intent. Coach Joe Cipriano of Nebraska has had several prospects visit so far, but says he doesn't expect to have any announcements on opening day.

The Metric System: The midwest relay circuit (Texas, Kansas and Drake) is running all individual events at metric distances this year because of the Olympics this summer. Even the Big Eight outdoor meet scheduled for Nebraska's Ed Weir Track in mid-May will use the metric system.

Plucknett Qualifies: Ben Plucknett, Beatrice native who now is a senior at Missouri, has qualified for the NCAA track and field meet with a toss of 198 feet, 5 inches in the discus. He finished second in the Texas Relays with a 198-2 effort. Best throw of the year, so far, according to Track & Field News, is 213-6 by John Powell of the Pacific Coast Track Club.

The 'Pro' All-Americans

Offense: Wide receivers — Billy Brooks of Oklahoma and Sammie White of Grambling; Tight End — Bennie Cunningham of Clemson; Linemen — Dennis Lick of Wisconsin, Rod Walters of Iowa, Tom Glassic of Virginia and Mark Koncar of Colorado; Center — Pete Brock of Colorado; Quarterback — Richard Todd of Alabama; running backs — Chuck Muncie of California and Joe Washington of Oklahoma.

Defense: Linemen — Leroy Selmon of Oklahoma, Steve Niehaus of Notre Dame, Troy Archer of Colorado and Ken Novak of Purdue; Linebackers — Larry Gordon of Arizona State, Kim Bokamper of San Jose State and Kevin McLain of Colorado State; Defensive backs — James Hunter of Grambling, Mike Haynes of Arizona State, Mario Clark of Oregon and Tim Fox of Ohio State.

Montreal, Flyers Take 2-0 Leads

From News Wires

Ross Lonsberry and Don Saleski scored second-period goals just 70 seconds apart as the Philadelphia Flyers beat the Toronto Maple Leafs 3-1 Tuesday night and took a 2-0 lead in the best-of-seven-game Stanley Cup quarter-final series.

The Flyers' almost impregnable defense frustrated the sagging Maple Leafs, especially in the second period, when Toronto failed to score with a two-man advantage for 1:50.

The Leafs managed only a total of five shots on seven power play opportunities.

The series resumes Thursday and Saturday in Maple Leaf Gardens, where the Leafs haven't beaten the Flyers since March 14, 1973.

Montreal 3, Chicago 1

Yvan Cournoyer and Jacques Lemaire scored power play goals 14 seconds apart in the second period, carrying the Montreal Canadiens to a 3-1 victory over the Chicago Black Hawks and a 2-0 lead in their series.

Chicago's Darcy Rota had scored the Black Hawks' first goal of the series on a power play at 3:55 of the opening period for a 1-0 lead goalie Tony Esposito protected until defenseman Phil Russell and center Pit Martin were sent off for penalties at 13:01 and 14:18, respectively.

Cournoyer converted passes from Guy Lafleur and Steve Shutt at 14:51, then Lemaire—with help from Yvon Lambert and Cournoyer—put Montreal ahead to stay at 15:05. Cournoyer's tally was the 55th of his Stanley Cup career.

Buffalo 3, New York 2

Danny Gare's goal from short range at 14:04 of overtime helped the Buffalo Sabres overcome a valiant New York comeback to score a 3-2 triumph over the Islanders in Buffalo and take a 2-0 lead in their series.

Gare's shot from 35 feet glanced off New York goaltender Billy Smith and hit the backboards. Center Don Luce retrieved the disc and shoveled it in front to Gare, whose shot from just outside the crease ended the longest playoff game the Islanders had ever played.

It was Gare's second game-winning overtime goal in the five playoff games the Sabres have played this season.

The tally raised Buffalo's record to 7-1 in overtime games in the franchise's history.

The Sabres held New York without a shot on goal in the extra session.

Goals by Denis Potvin and J. P. Parise had brought the Islanders into a tie. Parise's score with just 1:05 remaining in regulation time forced the Sabres into the third overtime contest in their four playoff games at home. Buffalo had won the two previous, in the preliminary round against St. Louis.

Potvin finally cracked Sabres goalie Gerry Desjardins, who—with the help of his defense—had been spectacular in blunting a ferocious New York attack. With 6:53 left in the third period and Buffalo two men short through penalties, Potvin's shot from just inside the Sabres' blue line beat the partially-screened netminder.

Los Angeles 3, Boston 2

Butch Goring tipped in a shot by Mike Murphy during a power play just 27 seconds into sudden death overtime, lifting the Los Angeles Kings to a 3-2 victory over the Boston Bruins and tying their series at one game apiece.

With Boston's Dallas Smith still in the penalty box serving a hooking penalty assessed at 19:09 of the third period, the Kings struck quickly to hand Boston its first home loss in 22 games.

Bob Murdoch fired from the point and his shot was kicked out by Boston goalie Gerry Cheevers. The puck went back out directly to Murphy, who let go a 25-footer.

Cheevers didn't have a chance as Goring steered in the shot.

Veteran Jean Ratelle, who scored two goals in Boston's 4-0 victory in the series opener Sunday, put the Bruins in front by scoring at 5:53 of the first period.

Ratelle connected on a 25-foot shot from the slot, just after the Kings had killed a penalty.

High-scoring Marcel Dionne converted his own rebound after a two-on-one break to tie the score at 3:08 of the second period.

However, Johnny Bucyk, Boston's 41-year-old veteran, regained the lead for the Bruins with a power play goal at 14:31 of the middle session.

Dionne forced the game into overtime by scoring on a short flip after Boston goalie Cheevers made four outstanding saves.

Dionne scored at 6:53 of the third period while Boston defenseman Smith was serving an interference penalty.

NWU Takes Pair From Doane

By KEN HAMBLETON
State College Writer

Although the Nebraska Wesleyan Plainsmen have won 29 straight Nebraska Intercollegiate Athletic Conference games, coach Ron Bachman is not about to let his team look past any more league games this year.

The Plainsmen were shaken Tuesday afternoon in a doubleheader sweep over Doane, 4-3 and 8-4, at Sherman Field.

In the opener, NWU had to rally for one run in the fifth inning and one in the seventh to top the Tigers. In the nightcap, the Plainsmen didn't take the lead until Jim Hamersky slugged a bases-loaded triple in the fifth inning.

Wesleyan had downed Doane 13-0 and 13-2 in the conference openers for both teams three weeks ago at Crete and the Tigers hadn't shown much since, losing nine of their first 10 games, eignt of those by the 10-run rule.

But Doane, the only team in the NIAC without an early spring trip south, is finally catching up to its competition and last Saturday surprised Dana by splitting a doubleheader.

Doane jumped to a 3-0 lead off freshman starter Doug Dawson in the second inning of the opener on a single, two walks and one hit batter before Bachman sent in reliever Ted Hall.

The Plainsmen scored two runs in the bottom of the second when senior centerfielder Mike Reta slammed a towering homer against a stiff wind over the left center field fence, scoring Gene Lessman, who walked.

Wesleyan tied the game in the fifth when Scott Votava singled, stole second and raced to score on a grounder to the shortstop by Bob Blake.

Hall, now 3-2, allowed only five baserunners after the second inning, and none got past second base to keep NWU in the game.

With one out in the bottom of the seventh, Blake reached first on an error and stole second. Then Lessman, who had been suffering from a fever before the game, belted a triple to right field scoring Blake, the winning run.

In the nightcap, the Tigers' Jack Rhein opened with a double, followed by a single by Bo Gutzwiler. Both runners scored, giving the Tigers a 2-0 lead and bringing in Wesleyan righthander Mike Ginn in relief of starter Kim Gloystein. Ginn got Doane's Fran Burke to ground into a double play and then he struck out Tiger pitcher Marty Shields to end the inning.

The Plainsmen scored two runs in the second on two bases-loaded walks with two outs issued by Shields, which brought in reliever Parker Sharman, who ended the inning by striking out Bruce Reed.

Blake put the Plainsmen in the lead in the third inning when he singled, stole second, gained third on a wild pitch and scored on a groundout by Byron Stallworth.

But a double by Doane's Burke, with two men on in the bottom of the inning, put the Tigers back in the lead, 4-3.

Sharman kept the Plainsmen at bay with a good mix of pitches until the fifth inning when Blake and Reta singled and Lessman walked to load the bases before Hamersky's triple to the right field fence.

In the meantime, Ginn, a senior from Wayne, allowed just two baserunners, both on walks, while striking out 11 Tigers.

Wesleyan added two insurance runs in the sixth when Reed singled in Scott Votava, who singled and stole second. Reed then scored on a sharply hit ball by Lessman which the shortstop mishandled.

"We learned a lesson today," said Bachman, whose team is now 13-9 overall and 10-0 in the conference. "We had such an easy time with Doane before, we just weren't up for these games. Doane played very well and is as good a defensive team as we've faced this year."

Bachman said be would start senior pitchers Jack Ball and Larry Abel against the Kearney State Antelopes Wednesday in a doubleheader that begins at 1:30 p.m. at Sherman Field.

Sargent Named To NSAA Post

Conde Sargent, sportswriter and columnist for the Omaha World-Herald the past 10 years, has been named an assistant executive secretary for the Nebraska School Activities Association (NSAA).

The NSAA also announced the appointment of Sue Zinn to an administrative assistant post.

Conde Sargent
Joins NSAA Staff

Mrs. Zinn, assistant athletic director at Omaha Burke, and Sargent will join the NSAA staff on July 1, according to new executive secretary Jim Riley.

Sargent will be an assistant to Riley, who succeeds retiring Les Chamberlin in the NSAA's top position in July. Sargent's duties will focus on publications and public relations, football and basketball rules interpretations, administration of baseball and golf and other activities, including the state football playoffs.

Sargent a former prep writer for the Sunday Journal and Star, succeeded Gregg McBride and has rated high school football and basketball for 10 years for the World-Herald. He was named Nebraska's Sportswriter of the Year five times, including four consecutive honors from 1970-73.

Mrs. Zinn will be an adminstrative assistant. Her duties mostly will be in the area of tennis, swimming, volleyball and gymnastics.

"With the increase in our staff, we believe we have some versatility and flexibility we didn't have in the past," Riley said. "We hope to become more aware of the needs of our schools and provide more services to them and to the fans who support our programs."

Mrs. Zinn also is the girls swimming and tennis coach at Burke. She has experience in the association's rulesmaking process, representing District 2 at the recent Representative Assembly meeting.

Hiring Mrs. Zinn becomes "quite a landmark for us," Riley said. "She is the first woman to break into high school activities administration on the state level."

Rex Jones, another assistant executive secretary, has been on the staff for one year. He will continue duties with football and wrestling and become supervisor of officials.

Ajic Jay Shows Fonner Bettors Where The Money Is

By MARK GORDON
Star Sports Writer

Grand Island — Who says race tracks can't lose money?

"If I had to do it all over again, I'd do the same thing. People come here to bet and if they want, we'll let them," noted Fonner Park general manager Al Swihart after Fonner Park sustained a $2,791.56 loss on the eighth race.

The loss resulted from what is known as a "minus pool." Nebraska race tracks are obliged to pay at least $2.20 for each winning ticket. When breakage and the 15 per cent for the state and track are deducted, there sometimes is not enough money left in the mutuel pool to pay winners.

That happended Saturday in the eighth race when Les Horn's Ajic Jay was an overwhelming 1-5 favorite. In fact, the big money was on the Larry Starocik-trained horse to show.

Ajic Jay's win total was $16,595, $7,301 was to place and $23,247 was to show. Overall, of the $75,321 bet on the eighth race, $47,143 was on Ajic Jay.

Despite losing by a half-length to Clara Hamilton's Screenplay over a mile course, Ajic Jay returned $2.60 to place and the mandatory $2.20 to show.

That was the largest race loss Fonner has suffered since opening 1954. Still, Swihart admitted he didn't think the race would sustain that great a loss.

"It's hard to know what the public will do," be said. "It's all guesswork. I've been fooled before, but I've never had anything like this.

"I thought the minus pool would be small. I didn't think they'd bet like that with a six-horse field. Even if we had canceled show betting, we probably would have had a minus pool, although it might not have been as big."

At some major tracks with four or five-horse fields and one entrant that looks outstanding, show betting is canceled. When the Meadow Stable's Secretariat ran, show and place betting were canceled on occasions.

In fact, sometimes with a limited field and one standout, no betting is permitted and the race is termed an exhibition.

A few years ago, Fonner canceled show betting when there was a limited field, including a two-horse entry.

"I never thought of doing that (no show betting). It's not fair to the public and I thought there'd be enough bet on the others in a six-horse field," Swihart said.

Meanwhile, in Omaha, Ak-Sar-Ben executive director and general manager Dick Becker said be agrees with Swihart that it's best not to eliminate show betting.

"I feel the same as Al does as long as it's not an impossible situation," Becker said. "It depends somewhat on the size of the field. When we get down to a four or five-horse field, then we have to take a long look at it," he added.

In last year's Ak-Sar-Ben Coronation Stakes, the Kemling Brothers, Inc. entered a three-horse entry of Patsy's Reign, Queen's Turn and Black Heiress in the 10-horse field.

It was bet down to 2-5 favoritism and when Patsy's Reign finished second it created a total minus pool of $[illegible].

"I don't think Ak-Sar-Ben has ever eliminated show betting since I've been here, but that isn't to say we wouldn't. We'd have to consider a lot of specifics before we'd do anything like that," be said.

Five years ago, the Kemlings raced their outstanding sprinter Bold Accent in the Inaugural Handicap at the State Fairgrounds in Lincoln.

She won at 1-5 odds and created a minus pool of more than $3,000. In fact, like the Ajic Jay race, more money was wagered to show than to win on Bold Accent.

Of the $16,755 bet to show, $13,624 was wagered on Bold Accent.

In fact, despite a lengthy line at $50 window, State Fairgrounds general manager Henry Brandt flashed the signal to let the race go despite the shutting out some $50 bettors — a cardinal sin among race track managers.

But be careful.

"Horses aren't machines. Just because the board says 1-5, the horse doesn't know it. Anything can happen in a race," noted Starocik after Ajic Jay's loss.

Fantaski Stops Pius X

Papillion — Senior Mike Fantaski propelled Papillion to a 2-1 last-inning victory over Lincoln Pius X Tuesday at Fricke Field.

Fantaski, the Monarchs' starting shortstop, came in to pitch the final two innings and struck out six Thunderbolts while not allowing a hit.

The righthander (2-3) tied the game in the seventh inning with a 350-foot home run to left-center field and watched his teammates rally.

After an out, 'Bolt shortstop Pat Fuller booted a grounder, and a pair of walks loaded the bases. Pius X righthander Jerry Kobza, who is 0-1, walked in the winning run on a 3-1 pitch with two out.

Pius X scored in the fourth inning when Jim Haas walked, stole second and scored on a double over the leftfielder's head by Mark Cooper.

Pius X now is 1-2 and Papillion is 3-3.

Jensen Remains All-Events Leader

Beatrice — Lincoln's Max Jensen remains the all events leader after weekend activity in the men's state bowling tournament at Henry's Bowl and Tonka Lanes here.

Jensen is one of three Lincoln bowlers in the top five in all events and has the lead with a 1917 total.

Willie Harstick of West Point is second with 1867 for nine games, 50 pins behind Jensen's total. Jensen won the city bowling tournament all events title in February.

Lincolnites Mike White and Jim Russell are fourth and fifth in the all events.

Despite their overall good showing, Lincoln bowlers hold only two spots among the top five in teams, singles or doubles.

Jim McKay is fourth in singles with a 624-78—702 behind Ralph Cox of Fullerton's 684-69—753 lead. Cox, who bowled this past weekend, edged out Jensen for the scratch lead in singles with his 684 series. Jensen had shot 672.

In doubles, Neil and Rich Weeks are second with 1209-177—1386 to trail leaders Bill Vanover and Les Hawkins of Beatrice, who have 1261-144—1405. Vanover and Hawkins are also the scratch leaders.

The tournament has two more weekends to run.

California s star running back Chuck Muncie became the first first-round football draft pick to sign when he contracted with the New Orleans Saints for a seven-year contract worth over $1 million

Sources involved in the negotiations said the contract was worth $1 to $1 6 million for the 6-3, 218-pound all-American

Lynn Stiles, assistant football coach at UCLA for the past five years, has been named head coach at San Jose State

Jim Valek, former Illinois head football coach, has been promoted to assistant general manager of the New England Patriots He had been administrative assistant to head Coach Chuck Fairbanks and a special teams' coach

An attempt to buy the San Francisco 49ers made by Wayne Valley, former partner of the National Football League's Oakland Raiders. was blocked by Franklin Mieuli, one of the 49ers shareholders, who said he would match any Valley offer

One of the hottest issues on the Iowa State University campus is whether or not the administration is going to ignore a student vote last fall that requested that the school's year-old football stadium be named after Jack Trice, a black ISU football player who died from injuries in a game in 1923

Baseball

Ron Swoboda, 31, who had been out of baseball for two years, has given up his efforts to make a major league comeback, a spokesman for the New York Mets said

Catcher Randy Hundley was reacquired by the Chicago Cubs on waivers after spending two seasons with the Minnesota Twins and San Diego Padres

Other Sports

The most viable solution to the financial problems plaguing the National Hockey League's Kansas City Scouts appears to be its sale to the owners of the Kansas City Kings of the National Basketball Association, a spokesman said for the mayor s office

Sweden s Bjorn Borg won and Americans Roscoe Tanner and Marty Riessen went down to quick defeats in the quarterfinals of the Monaco International Tennis Tournament

Winning Homer

New York (UPI) — Only one World Series ever has been decided by a home run in the bottom half of the final inning. Bill Mazeroski hit it to give the Pittsburgh Pirates their seven-game victory over the New York Yankees in 1960.

Big Ten Aids North Rout

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — The inside strength of Indiana's Scott May and Quinn Buckner and Michigan's Wayman Britt propelled the North to a 121-95 victory over the South in the first Mid-America All-American Basketball Classic Tuesday night

May, who was named the top college player of the season, scored 21 points Buckner and Britt tossed in 19 each

A pair of South Carolina stars led the South's scoring Alex English collected 20 points and Mike Dunleavy had 18

But the difference was the power of the trio from the two NCAA tourney finalists. Indiana's Jim Crews guided the North's offense and also contributed 12 points.

Huskers Split With Bluejays

Omaha — Nebraska's baseball team slammed Creighton 10-3 after losing the opener, 4-2, to gain a split in a doubleheader here Tuesday afternoon at William Booth College World Series Park

The games left coach Tony Sharpe s Huskers with a 12-17 record while the Bluejays moved to 14-13 The teams play a 2 p m doubleheader Wednesday at the NU Diamond in Lincoln.

In the opener, Creighton tallied three runs in the first inning off starter Kirk Eymann, a lefthanded junior from Papillion Second baseman Steve Vogel drove in two runs with a triple while third baseman Ron Williams drove in another with a single

Junior Paul Haas, a former Lincoln Southeast standout, belted a fourth-inning home run for Nebraska to close the gap to 4-1 Another run in the sixth inning wasn t enough as Steve Kleinsmith, a sophomore from Woodbine, Iowa, tallied the pitching triumph

In the second game, the Huskers exploded for five runs in the first three innings for the easy win

Leftfielder Dick Anderson, first baseman Larry Winum and catcher Jon Henne each drove in runs in the third

Anderson and designated hitter Bob Gebler drove in single runs in the third The Huskers added two runs in the sixth and seventh innings and one in the fourth

Dave Buehrer, a senior righthander from Downers Grove, Ill , improved his record to 2-4 He tossed a four-hitter in hurling a complete game.

It was the sixth straight doubleheader split for Nebraska

Jackson Seeking $3 Million Pact

NEW YORK (AP) — Reggie Jackson is holding out for a five-year contract totaling close to $3 million with the Baltimore Orioles, the New York Times reported Tuesday.

Jackson, 29-year-old All-Star outfielder, and pitcher Ken Holtzman were traded to the Orioles by the Oakland A's recently

Murray Chass, writing in the Times, said Jackson earned around $140,000 last season but had been offered a three-year contract for $525,000 by A's owner Charles O Finley. When Jackson rejected it, he was traded

Chass said the Orioles and Jackson were far apart in their contract negotiations, with the Orioles offering around $1 million for five years

The Times writer said he had learned from a responsible source that Jackson was demanding the following

—A five-year contract with a salary of $175,000 this year and salaries in the ensuing years of $200,000, $225,000, $250,000 and $275,000

—A bonus, beginning the sixth year, of $100,000 a year for 15 years, totaling $1.5 million.

—A $250,000 interest-free, five-year loan to Jackson's corporation.

—Lesser payments, not described in detail.

Hank Peters, Baltimore general manager, was quoted as describing the demands "totally unacceptable."

WHA Schedules Special Meeting

By The Associated Press

The third game of the violence-marred World Hockey Assocation playoff series between the Quebec Nordiques and Calgary Cowboys remained in doubt Wednesday as the league scheduled an early-morning meeting in Winnipeg to investigate the brawl that occurred in the second game

John Dacres, president of the Nordiques, is on record as saying his team will forefeit the series unless three conditions are met.

—He wants a lifetime suspension for Rick Jodzio of the Cowboys, who sent high-scoring Marc Tardif of Quebec to the hospital Sunday night with a severe concussion Quebec Solicitor-General Fernand Lalonde said Tuesday that Jodzio would be criminally charged with causing bodily harm with intent to injure.

—He wants Calgary Coach Joe Crozier suspended for the remainder of the best-of-seven series in which the Cowboys hold a 2-0 lead.

—And he wants the firing of Bud Poile as the league's vice-president in charge of hockey operations Poile was an observer at the game.

Dacres at first insisted his team wouldn't stir from Quebec as long as his demands were not met. But he relented when Ben Hatskin the WHA's chief executive officer, called Wednesday's meeting. The Nordiques arranged to fly to Winnipeg at 7 p.m. Tuesday night but whether they will go any further will depend on the outcome of the meeting.

The first announcement from Hatskin's Winnipeg office said the meeting would be in Calgary at 10 a.m. Then he said it had been switched to 7 a.m. in Winnipeg but that deliberations would continue in Calgary later in the day if the issue was not resolved at the first session.

The coaches and general managers of the two teams and some of their players, including Jodzio, will be present at the Winnipeg sessions, Hatskin said. Poile will also attend.

He added that, assuming the matter is settled Wednesday, the third game of the series will go off as scheduled in Calgary Wednesday night.

One of the principals who will not attend the Winnipeg meeting is Tardif, the WHA's scoring champion who with 71 goals this season joined Bobby Hull and Phil Esposito as the only players in major league hockey to score 70 goals or more.

The Quebec left wing was hospitalized at the Hospital Enfant Jesus until Tuesday afternoon, where he was recovering from the concussion suffered when he was crashed to the ice by Jodzio in the first period of Sunday's game, ultimately won 8-4 by the Cowboys. After his release, he was sent home to continue his convalescence.

A Nordiques spokesman said Tardif would not be able to work out for at least three weeks.

He says he has been told he cannot play for at least two weeks.

Tardif said in the telephone interview "I don't remember what happened. I didn't see him coming I didn't know if it was done on purpose or if it was an accident."

Fonner's $2 Bills 'Slow'

By MARK GORDON
Star Sports Writer

The $2 bet is still the basic wager at horse tracks but the $2 bill didn t gain much popularity Tuesday at Fonner Park in Grand Island

We only handled about $300 worth of the $2 bills today (Tuesday) said Fonner mutuels manager Tom Borros It s a nuisance and it always has been We never have dealt them back to cashiers to pay off winners

In all the years I ve been at race tracks no track ever gave them to cashiers to pay off he said

Tuesday morning was the first time the new $2 bills have been available since the Treasury Department removed them from circulation in 1966

Since the minimum wager is $2 at race tracks you d think it would be easier for everyone if one $2 bill rather than two $1s were used

Not so

I don t like them ($2 bills) A lot of clerks confuse the $2 with the $20 and even the 5 They don t see enough of them and aren t used to them said Fonner general manager Al Swihart

Borros pointed out that the wooden boxes for sellers and cashiers to put their money in generally contain space for $1 $5 $10 and $20 bills In some instances there is room for $50 and $100 bills at the $50 windows

But another slot will be needed now for the $2 bills so they don t get mixed with the other bills

We re not dealing the money back to the cashiers Borros said I just talked with John Vogel (Fonner money room manager) and he said we ll do what we did before (not give it to cashiers)

I haven t talked to Ak Sar-Ben yet (the Omaha track which begins its 75-day meeting on April 27 — three days after Fonner closes) Borros said But if the people give it to us, we ve got to accept the deuces

One person bought a $10 ticket today with five $2 bills," he chuckled

Borros noted that many track patrons are superstitious about the $2 bills and tear off the corners to avoid the bad luck associated with the $2 bills

I m sure we ll get more $2 bills as the season goes along Today it was a little slow, Borros said in adding that Tuesday s handle was $318,378 — less than 1% in $2 bills

Players Wary Of $2 Bill

LOUISVILLE, Ky (AP) — The $2 bill is back in town, a bad omen for horse players

"They'd rather tangle with a live rattlesnake than handle a deuce," said Jim Filburn, director of mutuels at Churchill Downs "We're not ordering any $2 bills from the bank "

There are two reasons the May 1 Kentucky Derby, and the fact that many racing fans believe the bills are jinxed

Filburn said the Downs will have enough problems on Derby Day "without requiring our sellers to fiddle around with these new denomination bills Suppose a guy buys a $2 win ticket with a $5 bill Ordinarily, he'd get three singles in return

"But things get complicated if the seller has a stack of the $2 bills in his cash drawer He has to stop and decide how he's gonna make change for the customer

"It wouldn't save us any time," he continued "In fact, we would have to enlarge our cash drawers We now have slots for ones, fives, tens, twenties, and a slot for our $50 and $100 bills If you throw that deuce in there, you gotta have more space "

Churchill Downs has more than 600 betting windows "so you can see what we would be facing," Filburn said

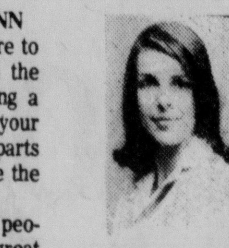
Car Deal Entails More Than Price

By JANE BRYANT QUINN



Jane Bryant Quinn

New York — There's more to a new-car negotiation than the price. It's no good wangling a terrific deal, then giving up your gains by neglecting other parts of the transaction. Here are the things to think of:

THE TRADE IN — Some people can be offered such a great buy on a new car that they'll overlook a poor trade-in price. Or, the other way around, they are so pleased with getting an extra $100 for their old heap they barely notice the fact that the new car is priced $150 higher than another dealer offered. What a dealer gives up on one end of the deal he'll try to make back on the other. Your cost is the difference between what you get for the old car and what you pay for the new car, no matter how much the figures vary from dealer to dealer.

When preparing your car for trade-in, clean the inside thoroughly, replace burned-out bulbs (so it won't appear that something is wrong with the electrical system), get the engine tuned up and fill it with water, oil, and transmission and brake fluid. Any further repairs will cost you more than you'll get back in the trade-in price.

'If you sell it yourself you'll get more than the wholesale price the dealer offers. On the other hand, you'll have selling expenses, will have to spend time showing the car, and, if something goes wrong mechanically, will have to deal with an angry buyer. If you do sell the car yourself, ask for cash or a certified check.

THE FINANCING — Sometimes (but not always) you get a small break on the car price by financing with a dealer, because he makes something on the loan. But you'll lose in the end if the dealer's rate of interest is higher than you'd pay elsewhere. In general, a credit union charges the least for loans; banks come next; and finally dealers. But car loans have become so competitive that the dealer's price may be the best available.

The interest rate on car loans now runs in the area of 12 to 13%. But some salesmen still mislead customers by quoting the price as only 7% "add-on," or 6% "discounted." This sounds so low that you might not bother looking anywhere else. But stated as true annual percentage rates (as the law requires), the above rates are respectively 12.83% and 13.88% on a 36-month loan.

If you can't cope with interest rates, and always arrange financing simply by asking "how much a month," get a clear fix on exactly how much you have to borrow. Then ask both the bank and a dealer "how much a month" to repay the loan over three years, to see which lender is cheaper. If you want to repay over two years, or four years, ask "how much a month" for those time periods as well.

CREDIT INSURANCE — Cars have become so expensive that more lenders are pushing credit insurance. This pays off the loan if you die or have so severe an accident or illness that you can't work. Naturally, the lender makes money on the transaction. If your financial position is marginal, a bank might not lend you money without insurance (in which case its cost should be figured into the interest rate disclosed on the truth in-lending statement).

But before you buy from the lender, ask your own insurance agent to give you a bid. His rate likely will be lower than that offered by the auto dealer or the bank. If you already have enough insurance and savings to pay off the car loan if anything happened to you, don't bother buying any more.

THE DEALER — It's worth paying an extra $100 for the car if it buys you a dealer who's reliable about makinga warranty repairs. Ask your friends who they use, and how good his service is. Always have a look at the dealer's repair shop before you buy. It should be two or three times the size of his showroom, or he isn't serious about his work.

DEALER PREPARATION — With American cars and some foreign cars, the factory normally reimburses the dealer for checking the car out and putting it in condition to drive. If the dealer puts a "dealer prep" sticker on the car, he may be collecting twice for the same work. Whatever the price you pay for the car, be sure it includes dealer prep, so you won't be surprised with an extra charge. However, you do have to pay extra for bigger jobs such as undercoating and waxing.

Blue Chip Issues Lead Sharp Rally

NEW YORK (AP) — Blue chip issues led a sharp but slow-paced technical rally in the stock market Tuesday that erased some of last week's losses.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, reflecting the strength in the blue chip sector, climbed 12.99 to 984.26. It was the average's largest gain since March 24, when it picked up 13.78 points.

A broader market measure, the daily tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues, showed a less emphatic 7-5 edge for gainers over losers.

Big Board volume came to only 15.99 million shares, down from Monday's 14-week low of 6.03 million.

Analysts said there was nothing particular in the economic news to inspire the upturn.

They said investors seemed simply to be shopping for bargains among the stocks depressed by the 35-point drop, as measured by the Dow, that the market took in the last four trading days of last week.

The sluggish pace of trading was ascribed partly to the approach of the Easter and Passover holidays later in the week. The market week will end Thursday prior to observance of Good Friday.

Several blue chips which are components of the Dow benefited from individual corporate news developments.

Du Pont, for example, was up more than 2 points after the company's report Monday of sharply higher quarterly profits.

Eastman Kodak, which plans to introduce its long-anticipated instant photography products next week, also gained more than 2 points.

And Procter & Gamble rose a point on a dividend increase.

In the auto group, General Motors, Ford and Chrysler all registered point-sized gains.

One notable exception to the uptrend was Merrill Lynch, down more than point and the day's most active issue on turnover of better than 280,000 shares.

The company, parent of the nation's largest brokerage house, announced record earnings for the first quarter.

But investors who had bought the stock earlier in anticipation of such a report from the company evidently chose its release as an occasion to cash in on their profits. The stock had more than doubled since the start of the year.

Analysts also pointed out that heavy stock trading volume earlier in the year — a major contributor to Merrill Lynch's profit gains — had slackened off lately.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index picked up .85 to 101.05 and the NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks was up .40 at 53.73.

At the American Stock exchange, the market value index slipped .09 to 101.60.

The NASDAQ composite index for the over-the-counter market closed at 88.66, up .06.

Grand Island Group Blasts Frontier Plan

Grand Island (AP) — The Aviation Committee of the Grand Island Chamber of Commerce is "alarmed and disappointed almost to the point of being angry" over a recently announced Frontier Airlines application to the Civil Aeronautics Board, according to committee member Jim Kelly.

Frontier has asked the CAB to approve a jet route serving Topeka, Kan., Lincoln and Chicago.

Monday, Kelly told the Hall County Airport Authority that he hopes the panel will oppose the request.

Kelly said Aviation Committee members are upset because Frontier apparently did not consider the possibility of including Grand Island in the proposed jet route.

"We were not aware that Frontier was going to do this," Kelly said. "If Grand Island was not considered, then we are at least owed an explanation."

After hearing Kelly's remarks the board took no formal action.

The chamber's board of directors met Tuesday and gave the Aviation Committee the formal go-ahead to oppose the Frontier request.

Kelly did not elaborate on what procedures will be taken in opposing the request.

York Broker Loses License

The Nebraska Real Estate Commission Tuesday revoked the license of a York broker and suspended the licenses of an Omaha broker and his firm.

The license of Don Bair was revoked for failing to file a copy of a land contract for Frank and Anna Priest and allowing the property to be sold to another party.

Data Realty, Inc., and Donald E. Fette were given a two-month suspension for failing to keep adequate amounts in trust accounts.

The two-month suspension is to be followed by 10 months of probation.

They include Paul Bocuse, formerly of the Elysee Palace; Michel Guerard, Freddie Girardet, Pierre Himeyer, Roger Verge and Gaston Le Notre.

Hogs, Cattle Show Some Weakness

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—For the first time in nearly two weeks, both hogs and cattle prices showed some weakness on the Omaha livestock market Tuesday, but still another record was set in the lamb pens.

The day's hog run was estimated at about 4,000 head. Barrows and gilts trended steady to 25-cents lower in fairly active trade, with top-grading, uniform handyweights bulking from $49.25-$49.75.

Sows turned 25-to-50 cents higher on tickets marked from $42.75-$43.75.

The cattle run was estimated at about 5,200 head. The trade on both slaughter steers and heifers was called moderately active.

Steers trended steady to weak when compared with the trade late Monday, while heifers turned weak to 25-cents lower and cows earned a firm call.

Choice steers weighing in from 975-to-1,275 pounds cashed from $42.00-$43.50, with a large number of loads clearing at $43.00.

A few loads of choice with end-prime heifers hitting the scales from 975-to-1,025 pounds moved from $42.25-$42.50, with choice 875-to-1,050-pound she stock selling from $40.75-$42.00.

Utility and commercial cows traded from $28.50-$31.50, a few to $32.00, while canners and cutters sold from $22.00-$28.00.

The sheep run was estimated at about 600 head. Slaughter lambs trended $1.00 higher when compared with last Wednesday's trade, with 286 head of choice with end-prime shorn lambs clearing at a record top of $58.75. The old record, $57.75, was set last Wednesday.

Ewes were scarce.

Futures Open On Weak Tone, Keep Declining

Chicago (AP) — Farm commodity futures opened on a weak tone on the Chicago Board of Trade Tuesday, then declined progressively to close at lows for the session.

Soybeans were under greatest selling pressure, losing 6½ cents a bushel. Wheat and oats were down 3½ cents and corn 2½. Soybean meal fell back $1 a ton and soybean oil lost some 35 points, or slightly more than one-third cent a pound. Iced broilers closed on a mixed tone with nearbys up more than ½ cent a pound but deferreds about ¼ cent lower.

Fantaski Stops Pius X

Papillion — Senior Mike Fantaski propelled Papillion to a 2 1 last inning victory over Lincoln Pius X Tuesday at Fricke Field

Fantaski the Monarchs starting shortstop came in to pitch the final two innings and struck out six Thunderbolts while not allowing a hit

The righthander (2-3) tied the game in the seventh inning with a 350-foot home run to left-center field and watched his teammates rally

After an out Bolt shortstop Pat Fuller booted a grounder, and a pair of walks loaded the bases Pius X righthander Jerry Kobza who is 0-1 walked in the winning run on a 3-1 pitch with two out

Pius X scored in the fourth inning when Jim Haas walked, stole second and scored on a double over the leftfielder's head by Mark Cooper

Jensen Remains All-Events Leader

Beatrice — Lincoln's Max Jensen remains the all events leader after weekend activity in the men's state bowling tournament at Henry's Bowl and Tonka Lanes here

Jensen is one of three Lincoln bowlers in the top five in all events and has the lead with a 1917 total

Willie Harstick of West Point is second with 1867 for nine games, 50 pins behind Jensen's total Jensen won the city bowling tournament all events title in February

Lincolnites Mike White and Jim Russell are fourth and fifth in the all events

Despite their overall good showing, Lincoln bowlers hold only two spots among the top five in teams, singles or doubles.

Jim McKay is fourth in singles with a 624-78—702 behind Ralph Cox of Fullerton s 684-69—753 lead Cox, who bowled this past weekend, edged out Jensen for the scratch lead in singles with his 684 series Jensen had shot 672

In doubles, Neil and Rich Weeks are second with 1209-177—1386 to trail leaders Bill Vanover and Les Hawkins of Beatrice, who have 1261-144—1405 Vanover and Hawkins are also the scratch leaders

The tournament has two more weekends to run

LIMITED WARRANTY

WARDS warrants its passenger car tires for specified miles when used on passenger cars, except taxis. If your tire does not give you this mileage because of: defects, normal road hazard failure, or premature tread wearout unless due to misalignment, WARDS will: 1. During first 10% of warranted mileage, replace the tire free. 2. During the remaining mileage, replace for a prorata charge based on mileage used.

For adjustments, return tire to Wards with Warranty Booklet.

Prorata charge based on price in effect at time of return at branch to which returned, including Federal Excise Tax.

Jockey Jumps Out Of Cakes

San Jose, Calif. (UPI) — Danny Zezzo used to jump horses. Now he jumps out of cakes.

Last year the 5-foot-2 former jockey heard of a request for a male pastry popper for a bachelorette party and decided to fulfill it in person.

"The first time I was nervous. It was a strange feeling, especially when one girl fainted. And when she came to, she just wouldn't leave me alone," recalls the zesty Zezzo. But as word got around, and more requests came in, his act became a routine.

Now, the manager of "Dancers A La Carte" — a theatrical agency that specializes in dancers and models — pops out of pastries and packages at a couple of birthday or bridal shower parties a week. Sometimes, he has one of his male dancers help him out.

Dave Williams, a 6-foot psychology student at San Jose State University, is also in the cake jumping business. His three leaps a week carry him a long way in paying his tuition.

Each pop — performed with a strategically placed ribbon, bikini shorts or au naturel — costs $50, but the experience for performers and party-goers is priceless.

Williams, who started jumping a couple of years ago on a dare, recalls how one tipsy lady bit him on the chest. "I'll never forget that, but neither will I forget the more typical reactions of embarrassed laughter and delighted squealing."

He is using his experiences in analyzing men's and women's sexual attitudes for his master's thesis. One of his findings: "Women are much more liberal than men. You see many a lady who gladly orders a female popper for her husband's party, but most men wouldn't think of returning the favor."

Paul Ford Dies; TV's Sgt. Bilko

Mineola, N.Y. (UPI) — Veteran actor Paul Ford, 74, best known for his roles in Broadway's "A Thurber Carnival" and television's long-running "Sergeant Bilko" series, died Monday at Nassau Hospital in Mineola.

A spokeswoman at the hospital said the actor with the distinctive rough-cut voice died at 8:30 p.m., some 5½ hours after being admitted in "very grave condition" from the United Presbyterian Home in Syosset.

The spokeswoman said Ford died of "apparently natural causes." The Nassau County medical examiner's office will conduct an autopsy, police said.

He starred in "A Thurber Carnival" in 1962, following two years later with the lead in the comedy "Never Too Late."

Ford played Col. Purdy for 2½ years in "The Teahouse of the August Moon" and had five years in the role on the Phil Silvers "Bilko" show.

Another leading Ford role was Mayor Shinn in "The Music Man."

The actor was once described as sporting the "mournful mien, complete with dangling dewlaps, of a basset (hound)" with a voice that "sounds appropriately forlorn."

The Baltimore-born Ford attended Dartmouth one year. He began his career in show business by helping to put on shows for the WPA Federal Theatre.

Wise Will Do Both

2 Followers Of Manson Sentenced

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Sandra Good and another follower of Charles Manson were sentenced to prison terms Tuesday for making death threats to business and govenment leaders. The prosecutor called the sentences a death blow to the so-called Manson family.

"They're all in jail. I don't know what they can do now," Asst. U.S. Atty. Bruce Babcock said after the sentencing.

Miss Good, 32, former roommate of Lynette "Squeaky" Fromme, was sentenced to 15 years in prison by the same judge who sentenced Miss Fromme to a life term for trying to kill President Ford.

Another friend of the women and a self-described Manson follower, Susan Murphy, 33, was sentenced to five years in prison.

Miss Good could have been sentenced to 25 years, but U.S. District Court Judge Thomas MacBride said two of her five five-year terms would run concurrently. Miss Murphy's sentence was the maximum allowed by law.

'Lord Of Rings' To Be Cartoon

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "The Lord of the Rings," classic tales by J.R.R. Tolkein, will reach the screen as an animated feature by Ralph Bakshi.

MGM has announced the production by Bakshi, creator of "Fritz the Cat," "Heavy Traffic," "Coonskin" and the forthcoming "War Wizards."

Car Deal Entails More Than Price

By JANE BRYANT QUINN

Jane Bryant Quinn

New York — There s more to a new-car negotiation than the price It s no good wangling a terrific deal, then giving up your gains by neglecting other parts of the transaction Here are the things to think of

THE TRADE IN — Some people can be offered such a great buy on a new car that they'll overlook a poor trade-in price Or the other way around, they are so pleased with getting an extra $100 for their old heap they barely notice the fact that the new car is priced $150 higher than another dealer offered What a dealer gives up on one end of the deal he ll try to make back on the other Your cost is the difference between what you get for the old car and what you pay for the new car no matter how much the figures vary from dealer to dealer

When preparing your car for trade-in clean the inside thoroughly, replace burned-out bulbs (so it won t appear that something is wrong with the electrical system), get the engine tuned up and fill it with water oil and transmission and brake fluid Any further repairs will cost you more than you'll get back in the trade-in price

'If you sell it yourself you'll get more than the wholesale price the dealer offers On the other hand you ll have selling expenses, will have to spend time showing the car, and if something goes wrong mechanically, will have to deal with an angry buyer If you do sell the car yourself, ask for cash or a certified check

THE FINANCING — Sometimes (but not always) you get a small break on the car price by financing with a dealer, because he makes something on the loan But you'll lose in the end if the dealer s rate of interest is higher than you'd pay elsewhere In general a credit union charges the least for loans banks come next and finally dealers But car loans have become so competitive that the dealer s price may be the best available

The interest rate on car loans now runs in the area of 12 to 13% But some salesmen still mislead customers by quoting the price as only 7% "add-on," or 6% "discounted " This sounds so low that you might not bother looking anywhere else But stated as true annual percentage rates (as the law requires), the above rates are respectively 12 83% and 13 88% on a 36-month loan

If you can t cope with interest rates and always arrange financing simply by asking ' how much a month get a clear fix on exactly how much you have to borrow Then ask both the bank and a dealer "how much a month to repay the loan over three years to see which lender is cheaper If you want to repay over two years or four years ask ' how much a month for those time periods as well

CREDIT INSURANCE — Cars have become so expensive that more lenders are pushing credit insurance This pays off the loan if you die or have so severe an accident or illness that you can t work Naturally, the lender makes money on the transaction If your financial position is marginal, a bank might not lend you money without insurance (in which case its cost should be figured into the interest rate disclosed on the truth in-lending statement)

But before you buy from the lender, ask your own insurance agent to give you a bid His rate likely will be lower than that offered by the auto dealer or the bank If you already have enough insurance and savings to pay off the car loan if anything happened to you, don t bother buying any more

THE DEALER — It s worth paying an extra $100 for the car if it buys you a dealer who s reliable about makinga warranty repairs Ask your friends who they use, and how good his service is Always have a look at the dealer's repair shop before you buy It should be two or three times the size of his showroom, or he isn t serious about his work

DEALER PREPARATION — With American cars and some foreign cars, the factory normally reimburses the dealer for checking the car out and putting it in condition to drive If the dealer puts a "dealer prep" sticker on the car, he may be collecting twice for the same work Whatever the price you pay for the car, be sure it includes dealer prep, so you won t be surprised with an extra charge However you do have to pay extra for bigger jobs such as undercoating and waxing

NEW YORK (AP) — Blue chip issues led a sharp but slow-paced technical rally in the stock market Tuesday that erased some of last week's losses

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, reflecting the strength in the blue chip sector, climbed 12 99 to 984 26 It was the average's largest gain since March 24, when it picked up 13 78 points

A broader market measure, the daily tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues, showed a less emphatic 7-5 edge for gainers over losers

Big Board volume came to only 15 99 million shares, down from Monday's 14-week low of 6 03 million

Analysts said there was nothing particular in the economic news to inspire the upturn

They said investors seemed simply to be shopping for bargains among the stocks depressed by the 35-point drop, as measured by the Dow, that the market took in the last four trading days of last week

The sluggish pace of trading was ascribed partly to the approach of the Easter and Passover holidays later in the week The market week will end Thursday prior to observance of Good Friday

Several blue chips which are components of the Dow benefited from individual corporate news developments

Du Pont, for example, was up more than 2 points after the company's report Monday of sharply higher quarterly profits

Eastman Kodak, which plans to introduce its long-anticipated instant photography products next week, also gained more than 2 points

And Procter & Gamble rose a point on a dividend-increase

In the auto group, General Motors, Ford and Chrysler all registered point-sized gains

One notable exception to the uptrend was Merrill Lynch, down more than point and the day's most active issue on turnover of better than 280,000 shares

The company, parent of the nation's largest brokerage house, announced record earnings for the first quarter

But investors who had bought the stock earlier in anticipation of such a report from the company evidently chose its release as an occasion to cash in on their profits The stock had more than doubled since the start of the year

Analysts also pointed out that heavy stock trading volume earlier in the year — a major contributor to Merrill Lynch's profit gains — had slackened off lately

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index picked up 85 to 101 05 and the NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks was up 40 at 53 73

At the American Stock exchange, the market value index slipped 09 to 101 60

Grand Island Group Blasts Frontier Plan

Grand Island (AP) — The Aviation Committee of the Grand Island Chamber of Commerce is "alarmed and disappointed almost to the point of being angry ' over a recently announced Frontier Airlines application to the Civil Aeronautics Board, according to committee member Jim Kelly

Frontier has asked the CAB to approve a jet route serving Topeka, Kan , Lincoln and Chicago

Monday Kelly told the Hall County Airport Authority that he hopes the panel will oppose the request

Kelly said Aviation Committee members are upset because Frontier apparently did not consider the possibility of including Grand Island in the proposed jet route

We were not aware that Frontier was going to do this Kelly said If Grand Island was not considered then we are at least owed an explanation

After hearing Kelly s remarks the board took no formal action

The chamber s board of directors met Tuesday and gave the Aviation Committee the formal go-ahead to oppose the Frontier request

Kelly did not elaborate on what procedures will be taken in opposing the request

Hogs, Cattle Show Some Weakness

OMAHA, Neb (AP)—For the first time in nearly two weeks, both hogs and cattle prices showed some weakness on the Omaha livestock market Tuesday, but still another record was set in the lamb pens

The day's hog run was estimated at about 4,000 head Barrows and gilts trended steady to 25-cents lower in fairly active trade, with top-grading, uniform handyweights bulking from $49 25-$49 75

Sows turned 25-to-50 cents higher on tickets marked from $42 75-$43 75

The cattle run was estimated at about 5,200 head The trade on both slaughter steers and heifers was called moderately active

Steers trended steady to weak when compared with the trade late Monday, while heifers turned weak to 25-cents lower and cows earned a firm call

Choice steers weighing in from 975-to-1,275 pounds cashed from $42.00-$43 50, with a large number of loads clearing at $43 00

A few loads of choice with end-prime heifers hitting the scales from 975-to-1,025 pounds moved from $42 25-$42.50, with choice 875-to-1,050-pound she stock selling from $40 75-$42 00

Utility and commercial cows traded from $28 50-$31 50, a few to $32 00, while canners and cutters sold from $22 00-$28 00

The sheep run was estimated at about 600 head Slaughter lambs trended $1 00 higher when compared with last Wednesday's trade, with 286 head of choice with end-prime shorn lambs clearing at a record top of $58 75 The old record, $57 75, was set last Wednesday

Lebanese Christian Leaders Praise Syrian Intervention

By The Associated Press

Lebanon's top Christian leaders praised Syria on Tuesday for its military intervention in the Lebanese civil war, but leftist Moslems battling the Christians asked other Arab countries to check the Syrian move.

Israel, a nervous observer of the Syrian maneuvers, reportedly was strengthening its defenses along the border with Lebanon.

Israel has warned before that it might intervene if Syrian troops entered Lebanon. Foreign Minister Yigal Allon told parliament Monday that if Syria expands its limited entrance in Lebanon it could lengthen the military front against Israel. He said he would make no further public statements at present.

Syrian President Hafez Assad, trying to enforce the weak cease-fire he arranged between the Lebanese Christians and Moslems, declared Monday his troops were "ready to move into Lebanon to protect any victims of aggression."

Kamal Jumblatt, chieftain of the Moslem leftists, accused Syria of planning a major invasion of Lebanon and appealed to other Arab leaders to prevent it. He claimed 6,000 Lebanese troops had moved into Lebanon's eastern frontier region, blocking the main Beirut-Damascus highway.

The Syrian regulars are in addition to 7,000 Syrian-based Saiqa Palestinian guerrillas in Lebanon, Jumblatt said.

Lebanon's Christian president, Suleiman Franjieh, and right-wing Christian leader Pierre Gemayel thanked Assad for moving in.

Franjieh cabled Assad expressing "gratitude for Syria's action to safeguard Lebanon" and Gemayel said the Syrian intervention was a "heroic, decisive action to salvage the peace."

Moslem leftists allied with Lebanon-based Palestinian guerrillas are demanding a greater share in Lebanon's economic and political power structure, which was dominated by the Christians' 40% minority.

In a move to try and ease the situation, Lebanon's parliament approved Saturday a constitutional amendment that would replace Franjieh before his term expires Sept. 23. Franjieh, a hard-liner, has given no indication if he will sign the amendment.

There were these other Middle East developments:

—Pentagon spokesmen in Washington announced that the U.S. aircraft carrier Saratoga and two escort destroyers were backing a seven-ship, U.S. Navy task force standing about 400 miles off the Lebanese coast. The ships could evacuate some 1,400 American citizens from Lebanon if necessary.

—Arabs in the Israeli-occupied West Bank of Jordan voted Monday in peaceful elections for mayors and municipal councils in 24 towns. Clear victors were the anti-Israeli candidates. At least 148 of the 205 winners were newcomers, most identified with the Palestine Liberation Organization, Palestinian nationalists or Communists.

—Egyptian President Anwar Sadat returned to Cairo from a 16-day European trip and said he was satisfied with its results. Before leaving Vienna, he said Egypt's air force chief would visit China soon. It was believed one purpose of the Peking trip would be to seek Chinese spare parts for Egypt's Soviet-built MIG jets. Sadat nullified Egypt's 15-year friendship with Russia in March.

—In Washington, a House committee killed congressional moves that would have blocked the sale of six U.S. C130 cargo planes to Egypt. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger assured Congress the sale would not open the door to American arms sales. Sadat has indicated he will ask Washington for F5E jetfighters and antitank weapons.

Hijackers On Hold In Libya

TRIPOLI, Libya (AP) — Three Filipino Moslem gunmen demanded direct contact with Libyan leader Col. Moammar Khadafy after they flew to Benghazi on Tuesday, the sixth day in the world's longest-lasting aerial hijacking, officials said.

Authorities said the hijackers refused Libyan requests that they leave the country and release their hostages. They were holding two hostages and eight crew members on a Philippine AirLines (PAL) jet at Benghazi's Benina Airport.

Gastone Nardoni, director of PAL's office in Rome, said the gunmen seemed quite firm in their demands to talk with Khadafy and their refusal to release their captives. Nardoni said he had talked with the Benghazi control tower and was taking a special plane there to negotiate with the hijackers.

The Libyan Arab Revolution News Agency (ARNA) reported in Tripoli that Benghazi airport officials said they were "not ready to receive the three hijackers and their hostages" but would supply fuel and supplies "to continue the voyage to any other country."

But the hijackers had "refused to give orders to the plane to leave the airport" and the four-engine DC8 jet was still on the runway, ARNA said. Nardoni said the plane was surrounded by police in an isolated area, where Libyan authoritites had provided food for those aboard.

"They insist on contacting Khadafy," Nardoni said. "It is unbelievable. We don't know what they want, we don't know where they want to go."

The hijackers had no assurance they would be welcome in Libya when they came here earlier Tuesday from Karachi, Pakistan. Pakistani authorities said the gunmen had told a Philippine official they would free their hostages on arrival in Benghazi.

The record hijacking began last Wednesday, when the gunmen took over a PAL twin-engine BAC111 jet in the southern Philippines and ordered it to Manila, where they exchanged its 67 passengers for PAL employes.

They then flew to Bangkok, where they switched to the DC8, a larger airplane with a longer range, keeping only the pilot of the original plane and a PAL vice president as hostages in addition to the crew of the new plane.

The longest previous hijacking on record, that of a Japan Airlines plane finally blown up in in Dubai, lasted four days.

The three young gunmen say they belong to the Moro Liberation Front, a Moslem group fighting a guerrilla war for independence in the southern Philippines. But a Front spokesman in Cairo disowned the hijacking.

Israel Allows Saudi Plane To Fly Home

Tel Aviv, Israel (UPI) — Israel Tuesday released all 36 passengers and crew, including three Americans, of a Saudi Arabian Air Force transport plane which was forced to land Monday after violating Israeli air space.

The American copliot, Arthur Phillips, was at the controls when the U.S.-built C130 Hercules took off for Riyadh, Saudi Arabia, with an escort of Israeli jet fighter planes.

The official Saudi Press Agency reported from Riyadh that the plane arrived safely.

Black Couple Sue Landlord For Prejudice

A Lincoln man has been sued for $80,720 by a couple who claim he refused to rent to them because they are black.

The suit, filed in Federal District Court, contends that Robert Potter told Robert and Neithola Turner he didn't own the house at 1534 S. 23rd St., later "falsely advising" them that the renter would stay.

The suit seeks $50,000 for "shame, embarrassment, humiliation and mental anguish," $30,000 punitive damages and $720 to offset a higher-priced house they rented.

Bob Hope Show From Canada Is Olympic Benefit

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Famed traveler Bob Hope is going to Canada for his next television special, the first he has originated north of the border.

Hope will be joined by Bing Crosby, Sammy Davis Jr. and Shirley Jones in a 90-minute NBC telecast originated at the Montreal Forum. The show will appear on the network April 21.

The special will be a benefit performance for Olympic athletes of the United States and Canada. Proceeds from attendance — hopefully 18,000 — will be divided equally between the two teams, NBC has announced.

Jesse Owens, winner of four gold medals in the 1936 Olympics in Berlin, will also appear.

Kalamity Kate Show Saturday

A headline in the TView section of the April 11 Sunday Journal and Star incorrectly stated that the pre-Easter puppet show in the Brandeis cafeteria would be Friday. The story correctly stated the show would be at 9 a.m. Saturday. Hosted by Kalamity Kate from KOLN-KGIN's Cartoon Corral, the Saturday performance will feature the George Churley puppets.

Drug Arrests Double

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — The number of arrests for drug crimes and the volume of drugs seized in Malaysia more than doubled from 1974 to 1975, Atty. Gen. Abdul Kadir told parliament.

Jockey Jumps Out Of Cakes

San Jose, Calif (UPI) — Danny Zezzo used to jump horses Now he jumps out of cakes

Last year the 5-foot-2 former jockey heard of a request for a male pastry popper for a bachelorette party and decided to fulfill it in person

'The first time I was nervous It was a strange feeling, especially when one girl fainted And when she came to, she just wouldn't leave me alone,' recalls the zesty Zezzo But as word got around, and more requests came in, his act became a routine

Now, the manager of "Dancers A La Carte — a theatrical agency that specializes in dancers and models — pops out of pastries and packages at a couple of birthday or bridal shower parties a week Sometimes he has one of his male dancers help him out

Dave Williams, a 6-foot psychology student at San Jose State University, is also in the cake jumping business His three leaps a week carry him a long way in paying his tuition

Each pop — performed with a strategically placed ribbon, bikini shorts or au naturel — costs $50, but the experience for performers and party-goers is priceless

Williams, who started jumping a couple of years ago on a dare, recalls how one tipsy lady bit him on the chest "I'll never forget that, but neither will I forget the more typical reactions of embarrassed laughter and delighted squealing "

He is using his experiences in analyzing men's and women's sexual attitudes for his master's thesis One of his findings "Women are much more liberal than men You see many a lady who gladly orders a female popper for her husband's party, but most men wouldn't think of returning the favor "

VOILA! . . . jockey's helper jumps out.

Paul Ford Dies; TV's Sgt. Bilko

Mineola, N Y (UPI) — Veteran actor Paul Ford, 74, best known for his roles in Broadway's "A Thurber Carnival" and television's long-running "Sergeant Bilko" series, died Monday at Nassau Hospital in Mineola

A spokeswoman at the hospital said the actor with the distinctive rough-cut voice died at 8 30 p m, some 5½ hours after being admitted in "very grave condition' from the United Presbyterian Home in Syosset

The spokeswoman said Ford died of "apparently natural causes" The Nassau County medical examiner's office will conduct an autopsy, police said

He starred in "A Thurber Carnival" in 1962, following two years later with the lead in the comedy "Never Too Late"

Ford played Col Purdy for 2½ years in "The Teahouse of the August Moon" and had five years in the role on the Phil Silvers "Bilko" show

Another leading Ford role was Mayor Shinn in "The Music Man."

The actor was once described as sporting the "mournful mien, complete with dangling dewlaps, of a basset (hound)" with a voice that "sounds appropriately forlorn"

The Baltimore born Ford attended Dartmouth one year He began his career in show business by helping to put on shows for the WPA Federal Theatre

Wise Will Do Both

Hollywood (UPI) — Robert Wise will produce and direct "Audrey Rose," Frank De Felitta s current novel, for United Artists

2 Followers Of Manson Sentenced

SACRAMENTO, Calif (AP) — Sandra Good and another follower of Charles Manson were sentenced to prison terms Tuesday for making death threats to business and govenment leaders The prosecutor called the sentences a death blow to the so-called Manson family

"They're all in jail I don't know what they can do now," Asst U S Atty Bruce Babcock said after the sentencing

Miss Good, 32, former roommate of Lynette "Squeaky" Fromme, was sentenced to 15 years in prison by the same judge who sentenced Miss Fromme to a life term for trying to kill President Ford

Another friend of the women and a self-described Manson follower, Susan Murphy, 33, was sentenced to five years in prison.

Miss Good could have been sentenced to 25 years, but U S District Court Judge Thomas MacBride said two of her five five-year terms would run concurrently Miss Murphy's sentence was the maximum allowed by law

'Lord Of Rings' To Be Cartoon

Probe Focuses On VA Hospital

Omaha (AP) — Sen. Carl Curtis has been told that the U.S. attorney's office in Omaha is probing the Veterans Administration Hospital in Omaha to see whether any action should be taken in connection with alleged irregularities at the hospital.

The report was published Tuesday in the Omaha World-Herald.

In a letter to Curtis, VA Administrator Richard Roudebush summarized the results of the investigation.

Roudebush said U.S. Atty. Daniel Wherry of Omaha has asked that the investigation report not be released until he determines if prosecutions are warranted.

No individuals were named in Roudebush's letter, but he wrote, "The investigation disclosed that a physician in the anesthesiology section frequently worked at non-VA hospitals during hours that were in conflict with his scheduled tour of duty, failed to make himself available for scheduled operations while on detail to the VA hospital, Grand Junction, Colo., conducted personal business during duty hours and made a proposal of questionable legality concerning the disbursement of $2,400 in callback pay for nurse anesthetists."

One of the allegations Curtis had asked the VA to investigate was that Dr. Jerry R. Haskin, former head of the anesthesiology department at the VA hospital here, was paid for work he did not do.

Haskins was fired from the post.

Curtis' office said the VA has informed the senator that the physician who was fired has repaid $4,171 of the $4,969 the VA feels he was overpaid.

However, Roudebush wrote that a complaint that an anesthesiologist at the hospital was guilty of malpractice in handling emergency cases could not be substantiated, nor were allegations concerning improper practices within the anesthesiology section.

In addition, Roudebush reported that three other employes were found to have worked occasionally at other hospitals when they were scheduled to work at the VA hospital, but that they had apparently worked the required number of hours at the VA facility.

Roudebush told Curtis that "appropriate corrective actions are being taken" to assure that hospital employes adhere to their work schedules.

A hospital official who did not exercise proper control over worker attendance and who used VA secretaries to type personal correspondence, has resigned, said Roudebush, adding that a nurse who abused sick leave privileges has also quit.

Storm Increase Interest In Bicentennial Heritage

By TOM COOK
Outstate Nebraska Bureau

York — With power outages continuing in rural south central Nebraska, the Bicentennial Heritage Festival in York Wednesday had a special meeting.

It wasn't clear whether the thousands attending felt closer to the past from their recent experiences without electricity, or if they were taking notes for the future.

Power has been restored to all the communities that lost it, but many farmers — without electricity for two weeks — face several more candle-lit nights.

Bernice Mettenbrink, county extention agent for York, Fillmore and Thayer Counties, said the timing of the event her office sponsored was purely accidental.

"One reason we planned this was to celebrate the bicentennial. The other was for education — to teach the people the skills of the past," she said. "We didn't know it would have this kind of meaning."

Audience Participation

The more than 150 festival participants not only displayed their oldtime abilities, but also let spectators take part whenever possible.

This made the homemade ice cream display a must stop for the youngsters, and led to a lot of note-taking by adults interested in starting a new hobby.

George Ditloff, 68, of Bradshaw, let excited youngsters turn the crank of his 65-year-old seed corn separator.

Ditloff said he used the machine many times in his youth, but it was the first time he has demonstrated it publicly.

Not So Impressed

His father was a pioneer in the seed corn business in York County, but Ditloff said he was never quite so excited about the machine as the youngsters patiently waiting their turn.

"Heck, my dad used to tell me, if you get mad cause you have to turn it, then just turn it a little faster," he said.

The art of soapmaking has not only been kept alive by Ruth Junge of Waco, she's been practicing it every week for 40 years "with only two failures."

"You bet it works. I grind it up and put it in my washer with my husband's $12 shirt," she said. "It's also a mind changer. If someone dies in the family or something, I make a little soap, and it changes my mind."

Karen Friesen of Henderson has been making cornhusk dolls for four years. She says in this case the old methods are not up to snuff with the new.

Harder Old Way

"It's harder to do the old-fashioned way. You have to pick the husks when they're green and dry them in the sun," she said. "It's a lot of work, and they don't turn out as well as if you buy the husks at the hobby store."

Shirley Trauger was dressed in pioneer garb and up to her elbows in water to demonstrate the wash day art of the scrub board.

"With the power outages, this isn't as funny as it would have been a month ago," she said.

One of those watching her work chimed in, "That's for sure, I was doing that a week ago."

Mrs. Mettenbrink said they expected a large turnout, especially since school children within a 30-mile radius of York were invited, but it was even larger than expected.

As one woman in the crowd put it, "It was a good break from all we've been through since the storm."

Reference Is Obvious

Cincinnati (UPI) — Julian Bond didn't mention any names, but it was obvious which presidential candidate he was referring to.

"Look beyond bright smiles and don't let anyone pull the peanut butter over your eyes," Bond advised voters in a reference to Jimmy Carter.

Bond, a Georgia state legislator, made the remark Tuesday at a local high school as he campaigned for Morris Udall, who is battling Carter for the Democratic Party's presidential nomination.

Lebanese Christian Leaders Praise Syrian Intervention

By The Associated Press

Lebanon's top Christian leaders praised Syria on Tuesday for its military intervention in the Lebanese civil war, but leftist Moslems battling the Christians asked other Arab countries to check the Syrian move.

Israel, a nervous observer of the Syrian maneuvers, reportedly was strengthening its defenses along the border with Lebanon.

Israel has warned before that it might intervene if Syrian troops entered Lebanon. Foreign Minister Yigal Allon told parliament Monday that if Syria expands its limited entrance in Lebanon it could lengthen the military front against Israel. He said he would make no further public statements at present.

Syrian President Hafez Assad, trying to enforce the weak cease-fire he arranged between the Lebanese Christians and Moslems, declared Monday his troops were "ready to move into Lebanon to protect any victims of aggression."

Kamal Jumblatt, chieftain of the Moslem leftists, accused Syria of planning a major invasion of Lebanon and appealed to other Arab leaders to prevent it. He claimed 6,000 Lebanese troops had moved into Lebanon's eastern frontier region, blocking the main Beirut-Damascus highway.

The Syrian regulars are in addition to 7,000 Syrian-based Saiqa Palestinian guerrillas in Lebanon, Jumblatt said.

Franjieh cabled Assad expressing "gratitude for Syria's action to safeguard Lebanon" and Gemayel said the Syrian intervention was a "heroic, decisive action to salvage the peace."

Moslem leftists allied with Lebanon-based Palestinian guerrillas are demanding a greater share in Lebanon's economic and political power structure, which was dominated by the Christians' 40% minority.

In a move to try and ease the situation, Lebanon's parliament approved Saturday a constitutional amendment that would replace Franjieh before his term expires Sept. 23. Franjieh, a hard-liner, has given no indication if he will sign the amendment.

There were these other Middle East developments:

—Pentagon spokesmen in Washington announced that the U.S. aircraft carrier Saratoga and two escort destroyers were backing a seven-ship, U.S. Navy task force standing about 400 miles off the Lebanese coast. The ships could evacuate some 1,400 American citizens from Lebanon if necessary.

—Arabs in the Israeli-occupied West Bank of Jordan voted Monday in peaceful elections for mayors and municipal councils in 24 towns. Clear victors were the anti-Israeli candidates. At least 148 of the 205 winners were newcomers, most identified with the Palestine Liberation Organization, Palestinian nationalists or Communists.

—Egyptian President Anwar Sadat returned to Cairo from a 16-day European trip and said he was satisfied with its results. Before leaving Vienna, he said Egypt's air force chief would visit China soon. It was believed one purpose of the Peking trip would be to seek Chinese spare parts for Egypt's Soviet-built MIG jets. Sadat nullified Egypt's 15-year friendship with Russia in March —In Washington, a House committee killed congressional moves that would have blocked the sale of six U.S. C130 cargo planes to Egypt. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger assured Congress the sale would not open the door to American arms sales. Sadat has indicated he will ask Washington for F5E jetfighters and antitank weapons.

Hijackers On Hold In Libya

TRIPOLI, Libya (AP) — Three Filipino Moslem gunmen demanded direct contact with Libyan leader Col. Moammar Khadafy after they flew to Benghazi on Tuesday, the sixth day in the world's longest-lasting aerial hijacking, officials said.

Authorities said the hijackers refused Libyan requests that they leave the country and release their hostages. They were holding two hostages and eight crew members on a Philippine AirLines (PAL) jet at Benghazi's Benina Airport.

Gastone Nardoni, director of PAL's office in Rome, said the gunmen seemed quite firm in their demands to talk with Khadafy and their refusal to release their captives. Nardoni said he had talked with the Benghazi control tower and was taking a special plane there to negotiate with the hijackers.

The Libyan Arab Revolution News Agency (ARNA) reported in Tripoli that Benghazi airport officials said they were "not ready to receive the three hijackers and their hostages" but would supply fuel and supplies "to continue the voyage to any other country."

But the hijackers had "refused to give orders to the plane to leave the airport" and the four-engine DC8 jet was still on the runway, ARNA said. Nardoni said the plane was surrounded by police in an isolated area, where Libyan authoritites had provided food for those aboard.

"They insist on contacting Khadafy," Nardoni said. "It is unbelievable. We don't know what they want, we don't know where they want to go."

The hijackers had no assurance they would be welcome in Libya when they came here earlier Tuesday from Karachi, Pakistan. Pakistani authorities said the gunmen had told a Philippine official they would free their hostages on arrival in Benghazi.

The record hijacking began last Wednesday, when the gunmen took over a PAL twin-engine BAC111 jet in the southern Philippines and ordered it to Manila, where they exchanged its 67 passengers for PAL employes.

They then flew to Bangkok, where they switched to the DC8, a larger airplane with a longer range, keeping only the pilot of the original plane and a PAL vice president as hostages in addition to the crew of the new plane.

The longest previous hijacking on record, that of a Japan Airlines plane finally blown up in in Dubai, lasted four days.

The three young gunmen say they belong to the Moro Liberation Front, a Moslem group fighting a guerrilla war for independence in the southern Philippines. But a Front spokesman in Cairo disowned the hijacking.

Israel Allows Saudi Plane To Fly Home

Tel Aviv, Israel (UPI) — Israel Tuesday released all 36 passengers and crew, including three Americans, of a Saudi Arabian Air Force transport plane which was forced to land Monday after violating Israeli air space

The American copilot, Arthur Phillips, was at the controls when the U.S.-built C130 Hercules took off for Riyadh, Saudi Arabia, with an escort of Israeli jet fighter planes

The official Saudi Press Agency reported from Riyadh that the plane arrived safely

The Saudi chief pilot and Phillips argued at the airport about who was to blame for getting lost in cloudy skies above Damascus, Syria early Monday and flying west instead of east, airport sources said. Israeli jets intercepted the camouflaged Hercules in Israeli air space

Black Couple Sue Landlord For Prejudice

A Lincoln man has been sued for $80,720 by a couple who claim he refused to rent to them because they are black.

The suit, filed in Federal District Court, contends that Robert Potter told Robert and Neithola Turner he didn't own the house at 1534 S. 23rd St., later "falsely advising" them that the renter would stay.

Potter continued to advertise the house for rent, "subsequently offering (it) ... to Caucasians," it says.

The suit seeks $50,000 for "shame, embarrassment, humiliation and mental anguish," $30,000 punitive damages and $720 to offset a higher-priced house they rented.

Bob Hope Show From Canada Is Olympic Benefit

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Famed traveler Bob Hope is going to Canada for his next television special, the first he has originated north of the border.

Hope will be joined by Bing Crosby, Sammy Davis Jr. and Shirley Jones in a 90-minute NBC telecast originated at the Montreal Forum. The show will appear on the network April 21.

The special will be a benefit performance for Olympic athletes of the United States and Canada. Proceeds from attendance — hopefully 18,000 — will be divided equally between the two teams, NBC has announced.

Jesse Owens, winner of four gold medals in the 1936 Olympics in Berlin, will also appear.

Kalamity Kate Show Saturday

A headline in the TView section of the April 11 Sunday Journal and Star incorrectly stated that the pre-Easter puppet show in the Brandeis cafeteria would be Friday. The story correctly stated the show would be at 9 a.m. Saturday. Hosted by Kalamity Kate from KOLN-KGIN's Cartoon Corral, the Saturday performance will feature the George Churley puppets.

Drug Arrests Double

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — The number of arrests for drug crimes and the volume of drugs seized in Malaysia more than doubled from 1974 to 1975, Atty. Gen. Abdul Kadir told parliament.

Probe Focuses On VA Hospital

Omaha (AP) — Sen. Carl Curtis has been told that the U.S. attorney's office in Omaha is probing the Veterans Administration Hospital in Omaha to see whether any action should be taken in connection with alleged irregularities at the hospital.

The report was published Tuesday in the Omaha World-Herald.

In a letter to Curtis, VA Administrator Richard Roudebush summarized the results of the investigation.

Roudebush said U.S. Atty. Daniel Wherry of Omaha has asked that the investigation report not be released until he determines if prosecutions are warranted.

No individuals were named in Roudebush's letter, but he wrote, "The investigation disclosed that a physician in the anesthesiology section frequently worked at non-VA hospitals during hours that were in conflict with his scheduled tour of duty, failed to make himself available for scheduled operations while on detail to the VA hospital, Grand Junction, Colo., conducted personal business during duty hours and made a proposal of questionable legality concerning the disbursement of $2,400 in callback pay for nurse anesthetists."

One of the allegations Curtis had asked the VA to investigate was that Dr. Jerry R. Haskin, former head of the anesthesiology department at the VA hospital here, was paid for work he did not do.

Haskins was fired from the post.

Curtis' office said the VA has informed the senator that the physician who was fired has repaid $4,171 of the $4,969 the VA feels he was overpaid.

However, Roudebush wrote that a complaint that an anesthesiologist at the hospital was guilty of malpractice in handling emergency cases could not be substantiated, nor were allegations concerning improper practices within the anesthesiology section.

In addition, Roudebush reported that three other employes were found to have worked occasionally at other hospitals when they were scheduled to work at the VA hospital, but that they had apparently worked the required number of hours at the VA facility.

Roudebush told Curtis that "appropriate corrective actions are being taken" to assure that hospital employes adhere to their work schedules.

A hospital official who did not exercise proper control over worker attendance and who used VA secretaries to type personal correspondence, has resigned, said Roudebush, adding that a nurse who abused sick leave privileges has also quit.

Storm Increase Interest In Bicentennial Heritage

By TOM COOK

Outstate Nebraska Bureau

York — With power outages continuing in rural south central Nebraska, the Bicentennial Heritage Festival in York Wednesday had a special meeting.

It wasn't clear whether the thousands attending felt closer to the past from their recent experiences without electricity, or if they were taking notes for the future.

Power has been restored to all the communities that lost it, but many farmers — without electricity for two weeks — face several more candle-lit nights.

Bernice Mettenbrink, county extention agent for York, Fillmore and Thayer Counties, said the timing of the event her office sponsored was purely accidental.

"One reason we planned this was to celebrate the bicentennial. The other was for education — to teach the people the skills of the past," she said. "We didn't know it would have this kind of meaning."

Audience Participation

The more than 150 festival participants not only displayed their oldtime abilities, but also let spectators take part whenever possible.

This made the homemade ice cream display a must stop for the youngsters, and led to a lot of note-taking by adults interested in starting a new hobby.

George Ditloff, 68, of Bradshaw, let excited youngsters turn the crank of his 65-year-old seed corn separator.

Ditloff said he used the machine many times in his youth, but it was the first time he has demonstrated it publicly.

Not So Impressed

His father was a pioneer in the seed corn business in York County, but Ditloff said he was never quite so excited about the machine as the youngsters patiently waiting their turn.

"Heck, my dad used to tell me, if you get mad cause you have to turn it, then just turn it a little faster," he said.

The art of soapmaking has not only been kept alive by Ruth Junge of Waco, she's been practicing it every week for 40 years "with only two failures."

"You bet it works. I grind it up and put it in my washer with my husband's $12 shirt," she said. "It's also a mind changer. If someone dies in the family or something, I make a little soap and it changes my mind."

Karen Friesen of Henderson has been making cornhusk dolls for four years. She says in this case the old methods are not up to snuff with the new.

Harder Old Way

"It's harder to do the old-fashioned way. You have to pick the husks when they're green and dry them in the sun," she said. "It's a lot of work, and they don't turn out as well as if you buy the husks at the hobby store."

Shirley Trauger was dressed in pioneer garb and up to her elbows in water to demonstrate the wash day art of the scrub board.

"With the power outages, this isn't as funny as it would have been a month ago," she said.

One of those watching her work chimed in. "That's for sure. I was doing that a week ago."

Mrs. Mettenbrink said they expected a large turnout, especially since school children within a 30-mile radius of York were invited, but it was even larger than expected.

As one woman in the crowd put it, "It was a good break from all we've been through since the storm."

Reference Is Obvious

Cincinnati (UPI) — Julian Bond didn't mention any names, but it was obvious which presidential candidate he was referring to.

"Look beyond bright smiles and don't let anyone pull the peanut butter over your eyes," Bond advised voters in a reference to Jimmy Carter.

Bond, a Georgia state legislator, made the remark Tuesday at a local high school as he campaigned for Morris Udall, who is battling Carter for the Democratic Party's presidential nomination.

1. Sharp Investors:
Take your choice of these two excellent rental properties in the Wesleyan area. One is a sound older duplex with new electrical service, and a zero vacancy factor. The other is a two bedroom home located on a 50'x142' lot with super potential. Both are showing good returns.

2. Low Payments:
Are only one of the advantages of living in this better than new Bella Vista mobile home. New water heater, fully skirted and the storage shed stays!

3. Fight Inflation:
With this two bedroom, two story home. Completely fenced yard, humidifier on newer furnace and within walking distance of east campus. Teens.

4. Country Living:
At a low, low price. Hard to find a cuter home than this and it's located on a huge tree shaded lot in Alvo. New electrical service, and bus stops at the corner.

5. Elkcrest Drive:
Is the location of the nicest home you can imagine. This home has professional decoration, an efficient floor plan, huge lot, and the best in quality. New and affordable.

Officers Miss Their Cycles

By JIM CAMDEN
Star Staff Writer

When the Lincoln Police Department puts most of its motorcycles on the auction block May 1, more than hunks of steel, chrome and rubber will be sold to the highest bidders.

The motorcycles occupied a special place in the hearts of the men who rode them — men who shared common bonds of an Electra Glide in black and blue full of accidents, injuries, anecdotes and the joy of riding 1200 c.c. Harley-Davidson hogs on warm spring days.

The bikes are being discarded because their maintenance costs are too high for the amount of time they're in service, because there are too many accidents and because they don't fit in with Chief George Hansen's concept of the total patrolman.

Almost all former motorcycle officers, "motormen" as the department called them, will admit that getting rid of the bikes is the most logical, practical, reasonable thing to do . . .

But they still miss their bikes.

Sgt. Doug Ahlberg, who rode a motorcycle for seven years, pointed out that the cost of the Harleys, $4,200, compared to the cost of a cruiser, $4,500, makes them uneconomical particularly since the bikes were only in service eight months out of the year.

Still, "I'm gonna miss the stupid things. To get paid money to ride a motorcycle in the summertime . . ." Ahlberg's voice trailed off for a second.

"But when it's 15 degrees in the winter, no, I won't miss 'em."

Time Lost To Weather

Nebraska climate is one big factor that did in the LPD motorcycle. The bikes weren't ridden when it was too cold, wet or snowy. If motormen got caught in the rain, they either went back to the station and switched to a cruiser or pulled into a fire station or a bar to wait out the storm. Either way, the department lost time that a patrolman could have been working.

During the winter, motormen had to wear 15 extra pounds of clothing, a definite disadvantage. They couldn't raise their arms very high or move their legs very fast.

"If you had to get off and chase somebody, you were good for about a block," said Officer Jeff Olson.

Balancing the exposure to the rages of Mother Nature, was the bikes' superior maneuverability in heavy traffic situations.

Cycle Could Get Through

"The frustration of traffic really gets to you when you're in a cruiser," Officer John Seberger said. A motorman and his bike could weave around and through traffic to get where he wanted to go; with a car, he might just have to sit.

Motormen were in charge of traffic control under the old system while cruiser officers handled criminal complaints. Under the new system each policeman has a geographic area in which he is responsible for all problems that arise.

For this job, Assistant Chief Dean Leitner explained, a patrolman needs an office on wheels where he can write reports, isolate a person to talk in private and carry all the equipment needed for a policeman's job.

LPD will keep six motorcycles around for special traffic details, such as football Saturdays. Former motormen will vie for those assignments.

But it just won't be the same.

They'll miss the respect and the moxie that a uniformed figure on a shining white Harley used to have.

"There's only one thing cooler than a Lincoln police motorcycle man riding down the street," Seberger said: "two Lincoln police motorcycle men riding down the street."

The Kids All Waved

"When you were on that motorcycle, there wasn't a kid in Lincoln who didn't wave," said Officer John Morris, who has had stints with cruisers, motorcycles and the police helicopter. "When you're in a cruiser, you're just another cop."

Motormen said they felt more exposed to the public and, consequently, kept their boots polished, pants cleaned and helmets shined. They felt the public noticed them more than cruiser officers.

"There's nothing really unique about a cruiser," said Officer Tom Casady. "You can't polish a soft hat."

Leitner also points out, however, that many times the motorcycle patrolman was less visible. When going through a red light with lights flashing and siren blaring, a motorcycle is harder to see than a cruiser. This often resulted in accidents.

Leitner knows about such accidents firsthand — in 1959, he was in one at 11th and Cornhusker. He totally demolished the citizen's car and his motorcycle, he almost lost a leg and spent a year recuperating.

"Since then, I haven't had an urge to get back on one," he said.

LPD lost two motormen to fatal accidents, many hours to minor accidents. Most motorcycle officers have stories of bone-jarring incidents.

A favorite belongs to Officer Ron Van Meter, who was chasing a speeder on I-180. At 75 miles per hour, the bike developed a high-speed wobble and Van Meter lost control. The motorcycle rolled 412 feet, Van Meter rolled about 300. The speeder came back to see if Van Meter was all right.

Although he ground down the studs and the leather on his gun belt and ruined his uniform, Van Meter was back at work the next day. But the Harley was destroyed.

Equipment Shook Apart

Even without accidents, though, the bikes were hard on equipment. Guns and flashlights shook apart from the vibrations. Saddle bags and citation books blew off. Muffler burns and oil sprays ruined pants.

"You had to like it to ride it," Van Meter said.

And no one who didn't want to rode a motorcycle for LPD. "You had to ask to ride a motorcycle," said Capt. Clifton Koch, adding that helped produce high esprit de corps.

Under the old system, men who wanted to work solo often asked for a bike because cruisers were two-man units.

"Years ago, you were pretty much your own boss," Koch said. "The big thing was that you could do what you wanted to."

Motormen said they felt that working solo gave them a greater sense of accomplishment.

"You were rated on your performance as an individual," Olson said. "You could come in after a full day's work and say, 'Hey, I did a hell of a job today.' "

Adjustment Less Difficult

But now most cruisers also are one-man units. The motormen don't have to adjust to working with a partner, only to working without a motorcycle.

"Looking at it objectively," said Officer Leo Nissen, "you can't keep 'em around just so a bunch of us can get our kicks riding when the weather's nice."

Still there's that tinge of regret.

"When you first get off a motorcycle and into a car," Ahlberg said, "it feels like you're in a box and somebody ought to throw dirt in your face."

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
Pass	2 NT	Pass	3 NT

Opening lead - jack of spades.

Let's assume you're East, defending three notrump, and West leads a spade. Declarer wins with the queen and plays the king of diamonds, West following suit with the five. How would you defend the hand?

You don't see declarer's cards, but can pretty much tell what he has. He opened two notrump, showing 22 to 24 points, and the missing high cards are the A-K-Q of spades, queen of hearts, K-J of diamonds and A-K of clubs. That comes to 22 points and South presumably has all of them.

Your first problem is whether to take the king of diamonds. West's five indicates either a singleton, which would make the contract unstoppable, or a doubleton, which would mean that South started with K-J-x. Either way, it won't matter whether you win this diamond or the next one, so let's say you take the king with the ace.

The next problem is what to return. If you choose the neutral return of a spade or a club, South is sure to make at least nine tricks. He'll force out your queen of diamonds and score three spades, one heart, three diamonds and two clubs.

You don't want this to happen, so you make the sparkling return of the king of hearts! You don't know whether this play will do the job, but you do know that no other return has a ghost of a chance.

As it happens, your king play knocks South out of the box. Your illustrious partner has the decency to hold the ten of hearts and, when you duck the jack of diamonds next, South can amass only eight tricks. Killing dummy's only entry by sacrificing your king of hearts proves to be an unusual but successful play.

Change Attitude, Not Product Name

DEAR ABBY: Irving and I have been married for a little over a year. It's the second marriage for both of us.

First, I want it clearly understood that I had nothing to do with breaking up Irving's 21-year-old marriage. When I went to work for his company, his marriage was already turning sour even though he was still living at home for appearance's sake.

The problem: Irving's business is named after his ex-wife. She never was in the business and contributed nothing to its success. It has grown into a multimillion-dollar corporation, and Irving owns it all. (He manufactures a commercial product that bears his ex-wife's name, and I detest the sound of it!)

I have asked Irving to change the name of the company because it upsets me to hear it. He says I am asking him to do a most unreasonale thing because it would cost a fortune to change the name now, and he simply cannot do it.

Abby, I know he can do it if he really wants to. Am I wrong to insist on this one favor?

NUMBER TWO

DEAR NUMBER TWO: Being a business woman you should know how costly and impractical changing the name of a successfully established product would be. I suggest you go to work on changing your attitude.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 14-year-old girl with a very upsetting problem, but I can't tell anyone because they wouldn't believe me.

My dad comes into my bedroom during the night and plays with my body. I get so scared I don't know what to do. I was going to tell my mom, but she would be so hurt, and I don't know if she would even believe me.

My dad acts like nothing has happened the next day, and I can't even stand the sight of him anymore.

Don't tell me to talk to a counselor or a preacher. I wouldn't be able to look anybody in the face and talk about it.

Please tell me what to do. He doesn't use any precautions, and I am afraid I might get pregnant.

I can't give you my name because I don't want to cause any trouble and don't want to be disgraced.

CAN'T TALK IN OHIO

DEAR CAN'T: You must tell your mother at once! If she doesn't believe you, call the Child Protective Services unit of your County Welfare or Probation Department and tell them that Abby told you to call. Then tell them the whole story.

Your father is a very sick man and needs treatment. Please act at once and let me know immediately what happens. I care.

DEAR ABBY: I am a high school principal who has had it up to here with thoughtless parents who just pop in at their convenience for a special conference.

Will you please ask parents who want to discuss a problem concerning their child to phone for an appointment or write a note?

Other professionals do not accept walk-in conferences except in cases of emergency. Last week I had 16 walk-in meetings with parents! My time is scheduled, and I just can't see all these people who want to see me when it suits them.

HAD IT IN FULLERTON

DEAR HAD IT: You aren't the only one with this problem. Many teachers have complained, too. I hope this helps.

CONFIDENTIAL TO YOU: If you have run away from home — for any reason — I beg you to call this toll-free number: 1-800-231-6946.

A friendly volunteer will take your call and phone a member of your family to let them know that you are alive and well. No questions concerning yourself or your whereabouts will be asked. No lectures, no preaching, and your call will not be traced!

If you need help, you will be told where you can get it free wherever you are. If you want to get a message to your family, the operator will act as a go-between. Please call OPERATIONS PEACE OF MIND today. Their phones are manned around the clock. You will sleep better tonight, and so will your family. I care about you.

LOVE, ABBY

P.S. Please post this where it will be seen by other runaways.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

☆ By SIDNEY OMARR ☆

Wednesday, April 14, 1976

I get along with Scorpio. Not every person can make that statement. The Scorpio woman draws me to her with "magnetic eyes." The Scorpio man impresses me as a fierce but fair competitor. Scorpio, whether man or woman, is alive and kicking, stubborn, crative, jealous and almost always willing to aid during times of crisis. Scorpio is no angel, but the stuff of living is here, glamorous, mysterious yet down-to-earth in a fashion such as to let you know what is going on and what is very likely to occur — and to give one this knowledge straight and with no kid gloves or prettying up or pretense. Scorpio is very real.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Be careful, observant and diplomatic. Full Moon position emphasizes need for caring about public responses, partnership, dealing with special relationship which includes marriage. Taurus, Libra figure prominently. Home situation needs your close attention.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Avoid trying to get something for nothing. Steer clear of self-deception. Attitude based on realism does best for you. Accent on work, health and realization that older relative is "human." Pisces, Virgo figure pominently.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Full Moon aspects highlight love nature, creative resources and also cause costs and credits to be analyzed. Key is to organize, to focus on priorities. You get results of tests, inquiries, submissions. You get good news but also added responsibilities.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Keynote is completion. Finish rather than start — close transaction. Protect property — get appraisal. Refuse to be bullied into any decision. Aries, Libra persons could be in picture. You'll be called in for conference by one who wields authority.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Humor, flirtation, fun, creativity are featured. Don't take others — or yourself — too seriously. Remain flexible. You gain added recognition, but don't let it go to your head. Communication from relative is high on agenda.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Collect what you need — refuse to give up something for nothing. Follow through on knowledge — don't defer, wait, say I should have or could have done it. Do it! Aquarius, Leo persons could be in picture. Older friend may sing blues. Ignor it.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Stress versatility — reach understanding with one who pulls strings. Be versatile, not foolish. Watch diet — keep health resolutions. Gemini, Sagittarius individuals are spotlighted. Cycle is high and, to the surprise of many, you land on your feet.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Stand tall for principles. But also be big enough to recognize need for revision when it arises. What occurs behind the scenes could be more important than what's up front. Message will become increasingly clear.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Accent on love, friendship, fulfillment of desires. Full Moon position highlights involvement, emotional commitment. Gemini, Virgo and Libra could figure prominently. Money, as it affects partner or mate, is a matter for prime consideration.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Home adjustment, improvement could be featured. Be diplomatic — don't rush to judgment. Moderate pace could actually accomplish wonders. Emphasis on achievement, a mature understanding of what is real as contrasted to juvenile fantasy.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Perfect techniques — reach beyond the apparent. Analyze. Piece together bits of information. Full Moon position highlights the long-range, future, journeys, publications, unique methods of communication. Pisces, Virgo figure in picture.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Creative force is evident and requires outlet. Older persons, who think they know, try to tell you what to do. Key is to permit your own resources to surface. Be aware of lease, tax requirements. You are not going to be handed anything on silver platter.

IF APRIL 14th IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are analytical, attractive, going through creative cycle. If single, marriage is upcoming. Married or single, be ready for change, travel variety. If married, there could be an addition to family. Gemini, Virgo persons play important roles in your life.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Officers Miss Their Cycles

By JIM CAMDEN
Star Staff Writer

When the Lincoln Police Department puts most of its motorcycles on the auction block May 1, more than hunks of steel, chrome and rubber will be sold to the highest bidders

The motorcycles occupied a special place in the hearts of the men who rode them — men who shared common bonds of an Electra Glide in black and blue full of accidents injuries, anecdotes and the joy of riding 1200 c c Harley-Davidson hogs on warm spring days

The bikes are being discarded because their maintenance costs are too high for the amount of time they re in service, because there are too many accidents and because they don't fit in with Chief George Hansen's concept of the total patrolman.

Almost all former motorcycle officers, "motormen as the department called them, will admit that getting rid of the bikes is the most logical practical, reasonable thing to do

But they still miss their bikes

Sgt Doug Ahlberg, who rode a motorcycle for seven years, pointed out that the cost of the Harleys, $4,200, compared to the cost of a cruiser, $4 500, makes them uneconomical particularly since the bikes were only in service eight months out of the year

Still, "I m gonna miss the stupid things To get paid money to ride a motorcycle in the summertime " Ahlberg's voice trailed off for a second

"But when it s 15 degrees in the winter, no, I won t miss 'em '

Time Lost To Weather

Nebraska climate is one big factor that did in the LPD motorcycle The bikes weren t ridden when it was too cold, wet or snowy If motormen got caught in the rain, they either went back to the station and switched to a cruiser or pulled into a fire station or a bar to wait out the storm Either way, the department lost time that a patrolman could have been working

During the winter, motormen had to wear 15 extra pounds of clothing, a definite disadvantage They couldn't raise their arms very high or move their legs very fast

' If you had to get off and chase somebody you were good for about a block, ' said Officer Jeff Olson

Balancing the exposure to the rages of Mother Nature, was the bikes superior maneuverability in heavy traffic situations

Cycle Could Get Through

"The frustration of traffic really gets to you when you re in a cruiser," Officer John Seberger said A motorman and his bike could weave around and through traffic to get where he wanted to go, with a car, he might just have to sit

Motormen were in charge of traffic control under the old system while cruiser officers handled criminal complaints Under the new system each policeman has a geographic area in which he is responsible for all problems that arise

For this job, Assistant Chief Dean Leitner explained a patrolman needs an office on wheels where he can write reports isolate a person to talk in private and carry all the equipment needed for a policeman s job

LPD will keep six motorcycles around for special traffic details such as football Saturdays Former motormen will vie for those assignments

But it just won t be the same

They'll miss the respect and the moxie that a uniformed figure on a shining white Harley used to have

There s only one thing cooler than a Lincoln police motorcycle man riding down the street " Seberger said ' two Lincoln police motorcycle men riding down the street."

The Kids All Waved

"When you were on that motorcycle there wasn t a kid in Lincoln who didn t wave said Officer John Morris, who has had stints with cruisers motorcycles and the police helicopter ' When you re in a cruiser, you're just another cop "

Motormen said they felt more exposed to the public and consequently kept their boots polished, pants cleaned and helmets shined They felt the public noticed them more than cruiser officers

"There s nothing really unique about a cruiser ' said Officer Tom Casady ' You can t polish a soft hat

Leitner also points out however that many times the motorcycle patrolman was less visible When going through a red light with lights flashing and siren blaring, a motorcycle is harder to see than a cruiser This often resulted in accidents

Leitner knows about such accidents firsthand — in 1959 he was in one at 11th and Cornhusker He totally demolished the citizen s car and his motorcycle, he almost lost a leg and spent a year recuperating

"Since then I haven t had an urge to get back on one, he said

LPD lost two motormen to fatal accidents, many hours to minor accidents Most motorcycle officers have stories of bone-jarring incidents

A favorite belongs to Officer Ron Van Meter, who was chasing a speeder on I 180 At 75 miles per hour the bike developed a high-speed wobble and Van Meter lost control The motorcycle rolled 412 feet Van Meter rolled about 300 The speeder came back to see if Van Meter was all right

Although he ground down the studs and the leather on his gun belt and ruined his uniform Van Meter was back at work the next day But the Harley was destroyed

Equipment Shook Apart

Even without accidents though the bikes were hard on equipment Guns and flashlights shook apart from the vibrations Saddle bags and citation books blew off Muffler burns and oil sprays ruined pants

' You had to like it to ride it Van Meter said

And no one who didn t want to rode a motorcycle for LPD ' You had to ask to ride a motorcycle said Capt Clifton Koch adding that helped produce high esprit de corps

Under the old system men who wanted to work solo often asked for a bike because cruisers were two-man units

'Years ago you were pretty much your own boss Koch said ' The big thing was that you could do what you wanted to

Motormen said they felt that working solo gave them a greater sense of accomplishment

'You were rated on your performance as an individual Olson said "You could come in after a full day s work and say, 'Hey, I did a hell of a job today

Adjustment Less Difficult

But now most cruisers also are one-man units The motormen don t have to adjust to working with a partner, only to working without a motorcycle

' Looking at it objectively, ' said Officer Leo Nissen you can t keep em around just so a bunch of us can get our kicks riding when the weather s nice

Still there s that tinge of regret

When you first get off a motorcycle and into a car Ahlberg said ' it feels like you re in a box and somebody ought to throw dirt in your face

Opening lead - jack of spades

Let's assume you re East, defending three notrump, and West leads a spade. Declarer wins with the queen and plays the king of diamonds, West following suit with the five. How would you defend the hand?

You don't see declarer's cards but can pretty much tell what he has He opened two notrump, showing 22 to 24 points, and the missing high cards are the A-K-Q of spades, queen of hearts, K-J of diamonds and A-K of clubs That comes to 22 points and South presumably has all of them

Your first problem is whether to take the king of diamonds West s five indicates either a singleton which would make the contract unstoppable or a doubleton, which would mean that South started with K-J x Either way, it won't matter whether you win this diamond or the next one, so let's say you take the king with the ace

The next problem is what to return. If you choose the neutral return of a spade or a club, South is sure to make at least nine tricks He'll force out your queen of diamonds and score three spades, one heart, three diamonds and two clubs

You don't want this to happen, so you make the sparkling return of the king of hearts' You don't know whether this play will do the job, but you do know that no other return has a ghost of a chance

As it happens, your king play knocks South out of the box Your illustrious partner has the decency to hold the ten of hearts and when you duck the jack of diamonds next, South can amass only eight tricks Killing dummy s only entry by sacrificing your king of hearts proves to be an unusual but successful play

DEAR ABBY Irving and I have been married for a little over a year It s the second marriage for both of us

First, I want it clearly understood that I had nothing to do with breaking up Irving s 21 year-old marriage When I went to work for his company his marriage was already turning sour even though he was still living at home for appearance s sake

The problem Irving s business is named after his ex wife She never was in the business and contributed nothing to its success It has grown into a multimillion-dollar corporation and Irving owns it all He manufactures a commercial product that bears his ex-wife s name and I detest the sound of it !

I have asked Irving to change the name of the company because it upsets me to hear it He says I am asking him to do a most unreasonable thing because it would cost a fortune to change the name now and he simply cannot do it.

Abby I know he can do it if he really wants to Am I wrong to insist on this one favor?

NUMBER TWO

DEAR NUMBER TWO Being a business woman you should know how costly and impractical changing the name of a successfully established product would be I suggest you go to work on changing your attitude

DEAR ABBY I am a 14-year old girl with a very upsetting problem but I can t tell anyone because they wouldn t believe me

My dad comes into my bedroom during the night and plays with my body I get so scared I don t know what to do I was going to tell my mom but she would be so hurt and I don t know if she would even believe me

My dad acts like nothing has happened the next day and I can t even stand the sight of him anymore

Don t tell me to talk to a counselor or a preacher I wouldn t be able to look anybody in the face and talk about it

Please tell me what to do He doesn t use any precautions and I am afraid I might get pregnant.

I can t give you my name because I don t want to cause any trouble and don t want to be disgraced

CAN T TALK IN OHIO

DEAR CAN'T You must tell your mother at once' If she doesn t believe you call the Child Protective Services unit of your County Welfare or Probation Department and tell them that Abby told you to call. Then tell them the whole story

Your father is a very sick man and needs treatment. Please act at once and let me know immediately what happens. I care.

DEAR ABBY I am a high school principal who has had it up to here with thoughtless parents who just pop in at their convenience for a special conference

Will you please ask parents who want to discuss a problem concerning their child to phone for an appointment or write a note?

Other professionals do not accept walk in conferences except in cases of emergency Last week I had 16 walk in meetings with parents My time is scheduled and I just can t see all these people who want to see me when it suits them

HAD IT IN FULLERTON

DEAR HAD IT You aren t the only one with this problem. Many teachers have complained too I hope this helps

CONFIDENTIAL TO YOU If you have run away from home — for any reason — I beg you to call this toll-free number 1-800-231-6946

A friendly volunteer will take your call and phone a member of your family to let them know that you are alive and well No questions concerning yourself or your whereabouts will be asked No lectures, no preaching and your call will not be traced'

If you need help, you will be told where you can get it free wherever you are If you want to get a message to your family, the operator will act as a go between Please call OPERATIONS PEACE OF MIND today Their phones are manned around the clock You will sleep better tonight, and so will your family I care about you

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

☆ By SIDNEY OMARR ☆

Wednesday, April 14, 1976

I get along with Scorpio Not every person can make that statement The Scorpio woman draws me to her with magnetic eyes The Scorpio man impresses me as a fierce but fair competitor Scorpio, whether man or woman is alive and kicking stubborn, creative jealous and almost always willing to aid during times of crisis Scorpio is no angel but the stuff of living is here glamorous, mysterious yet down to-earth in a fashion such as to let you know what is going on and what is very likely to occur — and to give one this knowledge straight and with no kid gloves or prettying up or pretense Scorpio is very real

ARIES (March 21 April 19) Be careful, observant and diplomatic Full Moon position emphasizes need for caring about public responses partnership dealing with special relationship which includes marriage Taurus, Libra figure prominently Home situation needs your close attention

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Avoid trying to get something for nothing Steer clear of self-deception Attitude based on realism does best for you Accent on work health and realization that older relative is 'human Pisces, Virgo figure prominently

GEMINI (May 21 June 20) Full Moon aspects highlight love nature, creative resources and also cause costs and credits to be analyzed Key is to organize to focus on priorities You get results of tests, inquiries submissions You get good news but also added responsibilities

CANCER (June 21 July 22) Keynote is completion Finish rather than start — close transaction Protect property — get appraisal Refuse to be bullied into any decision Aries, Libra persons could be in picture You'll be called in for conference by one who wields authority

LEO (July 23-Aug 22) Humor flirtation fun creativity are featured Don't take others — or yourself — too seriously Remain flexible You gain added recognition but don't let it go to your head Communication from relative is high on agenda

VIRGO Aug 23-Sept 22) Collect what you need — refuse to give up something for nothing Follow through on knowledge — don't defer wait, say I should have or could have done it Don't Aquarius, Leo persons could be in picture Older friend may sing blues Ignore it

LIBRA (Sept 23-Oct 22) Stress versatility — reach understanding with one who pulls strings Be versatile not foolish Watch diet — keep health resolutions Gemini Sagittarius individuals are spotlighted Cycle is high and, to the surprise of many, you land on your feet

SCORPIO (Oct 23 Nov 21) Stand tall for principles But also be big enough to recognize need for revision when it arises What occurs behind the scenes could be more important than what's up front Message will become increasingly clear

SAGITTARIUS (Nov 22 Dec 21) Accent on love friendship, fulfillment of desires Full Moon position highlights involvement emotional commitment Gemini Virgo and Libra could figure prominently Money as it affects partner or mate, is a matter for prime consideration.

CAPRICORN (Dec 22 Jan 19) Home adjustment, improvement could be featured. Be diplomatic — don't rush to judgment Moderate pace could actually accomplish wonders Emphasis on achievement a mature understanding of what is real as contrasted to juvenile fantasy

AQUARIUS (Jan 20-Feb 18) Perfect techniques — reach beyond the apparent. Analyze Piece together bits of information Full Moon position highlights the long range future journeys publications, unique methods of communication Pisces, Virgo figure in picture

PISCES (Feb 19-March 20) Creative force is evident and requires outlet Older persons, who think they know try to tell you what to do Key is to permit your own resources to surface Be aware of lease, tax requirements You are not going to be handed anything on silver platter

IF APRIL 14th IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are analytical attractive going through creative cycle If single marriage is upcoming Married or single be ready for change travel variety If married there could be an addition to family Gemini Virgo persons play important roles in your life
